NAZIS FLOGGED: WAR CRISIS

DICTATOR PERIL IN PURGE TOLD BY VANDENBERG

Attack on O'Connor a Typical Case.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

"American dictatorship, American style" is the objective of President Roosevelt, in the opinion of Senator Arthur Vandenberg [R., Mich.], as expressed in an interview I obtained with him yesterday.

Senator Vandenberg.

Mr. Roosevelt's scheme to establish the American style dictatorship, according to the senator, is to pack the judicial and legislative branches of the government with his yes men.

And in endeavoring to defeat Representative James J. O'Connor [D., N. Y.], chairman of the rules committee of the house, the President, says Mr. Vandenberg, is taking the most effective course to gag the legislative branch. With O'Connor successfully purged for refusing to be a yes man to the White House his successor as chairman of the rules committee, if the Democrats retain the house, would realize that the tenure of his job depended on his yessing the President.

Dramatizes the Issue.

O'Connor, said Vandenberg, "personifies and dramatizes" the issue of the President's drive for dictatorship. Success of the Roosevelt effort to purge congress of O'Connor and other legislators for performing their sworn duty under the constitutional provision of coördinate branches of government, the senator asserts, will threaten the preservation of representative democracy in the United States.

THE TRIBUNE had telephoned Senator Vandenberg an inquiry of his views on the headline issue of the hour—the purge of congress undertaken by the President—and as he was passing through the city yesterday he consented to the interview. The senator will be heard more at length on this and other issues during the congressional election canvass now getting under way. He will take the stump for Republican candidates not only in Michigan but in numerous other states.

Sinister Implications.

"The purge that has come to America has utterly sinister implications," said Senator Vandenberg, reflectively pacing the floor of his hotel apartment. "It is one thing for a political leader to seek sympathetic political supporters. But it is a totally different thing for a President of this still free republic to seek control of the legislative and judicial branches of a constitutional government which is built necessarily on the preservation of coördinate independence in these three branches.

"We saw the President reach for the judiciary in his frank effort to pack the Supreme court for his own purposes. I might even say that we have seen him reach for control of the very constitution itself not only by rubber stamping the Supreme court but also by actually advising congress upon one occasion to pass one of his collectivist laws 'regardless of constitutional doubts however reasonable.'

"Now we see him reach for the control of the legislative conscience. None but yes men shall be permitted to sit in a congress where deliberate action shall have been crucified in advance. It is the final disclosure of a purpose to impose the dictation of one man upon the course of American destiny. It makes no difference who that one man may be. It makes no difference how humane and benevolent may be the purposes attributed to his program by those who applaud it.

Dictatorship's Achievement.

"The achievement of this purpose to control the judiciary on the one hand and the congress on the other is the achievement of American dictatorship American style.

"It is by means of a so-called purge that this assault upon republican institutions now proceeds. One of the best examples not only of the purge technique but also of its contem-

SHOE STORE CHAIN ORPHANED; PLACES ITS FATE IN COURT!

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—An orphan chain of eight shoe stores wandered into the federal court here today. Luke E. Hart, who used to be president of the chain, looked it over and said it wasn't his.

"The Hamilton-Brown Shoe company owns that concern," he said.

A representative of Hamilton-Brown said this was false; that Hart couldn't deny his own lasts and uppers. Judge Charles B. Davis then appointed W. L. Collins, president of the Hamilton-Brown concern, as receiver for the chain. It is known as the John Bruce company and operates in Iowa, Illinois, Arkansas, and Missouri.

The plight of the chain first became public last week when a store manager in St. Louis went into the Circuit court and asked Judge Nolte who his boss was. The judge appointed the manager receiver so he could be his own boss. Then Hamilton-Brown, asserting that the Bruce firm hadn't paid $50,000 it owes, requested that it be adjudged bankrupt.

WATCHMAN FIRES IN DARK; WOUNDS OWNER OF LAND

Edward Sharp is 60 years old, but his eyes are all right. He is the colored watchman in the yards of a coal company at 3131 South La Salle street.

Last night he saw two dark figures moving between the piles of coal. They went from hither to yon. They stopped. They started. The vigilant Edward decided they were thieves. He brought up his trusty shotgun and whanged away. The two yelled and fell.

They were taken to Michael Reese hospital. There it was found they were Frank Donato, 50 years old, of 2807 Wentworth avenue, and his nephew, Terigo Rizzuto, 20, of Rome, N. Y. Donato was shot in the left hand, side, and right shoulder; Rizzuto in the left hand and left eye.

Donato is the owner of the ground which the coal company leases from him. He was showing it to Rizzuto.

Wants to Buy Silence So He Can Hear Free Music

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—C. F. Schmidt, 1133 E. Pleasant street, who likes music, found his enjoyment of summer park concerts lessened by persons who talked, applauded and generally were noisy. Schmidt today sent $5 to the park commission with the request that it be used to start a fund to distribute all day suckers to the audience during the concerts to keep them quiet.

Boy and Girl Start to Altar; Held in Theft

Dorothy Harrison, 15 years old, granddaughter of Samuel Harrison, veteran Evanston justice of the peace, and her young sweetheart had plans yesterday for a secret wedding. Then they were to take a short honeymoon before Dorothy entered her sophomore year at the Evanston Township High school on Monday.

Instead of reaching the altar Dorothy last night was in custody of the juvenile authorities. Her father, George Harrison, also justice of the peace in Evanston, was seeking a lawyer. And her sweetheart, Lawrence F. Mueller, 19 years old, a handsome neighbor, was held under $10,000 bond at the Evanston police station.

Drug Store Is Robbed.

At 3:30 a. m. yesterday, Paul Hoover's drug store at 1801 Dempster street, Evanston, was entered by burglars who smashed the glass door with an iron bar. A woman living upstairs told policemen that the thieves were a youth and a girl she thought lived in the neighborhood.

Policemen Marcus May and Bert Schlesinger learned that the girl might be Harrison's daughter. At her home, 1306 Darrow avenue, two doors from the drug store, they learned she was at Mueller's home, 1710 Lake street in the suburb. There they found the young couple, who soon confessed.

"We have been going together for a couple of months," Dorothy told the policemen. "We wanted to get married but we had no money, so we decided to rob Hoover's drug store. He owns my father's house, and we thought that no one would suspect a neighbor.

Frightened Away Once.

"Monday night we took the key father has for the drug store basement and went there to get the iron bar. Tuesday night we were frightened away from the store. Then we tried it again this morning."

From the drug store they took $42.50 and candy and cigarettes worth $19.87.

Last February Mueller was placed on probation in the Boys' court on a charge of grand larceny after he promised to make restitution of $50. He had paid back $7 and needed $43 more.

"I was going to use the money from the drug store to clear up my record," said Mueller. "Then we decided instead to take a little trip before Dorothy went to school. I guess we were going to get married."

CITY COUNCIL VOTES $4,330 TO SQUELCH ECHO IN AUDITORIUM

Saying the same thing twice is overdoing. And so the city council authorized the expenditure of $4,330 yesterday to chase the echoes out of the Navy Pier auditorium. The money will be spent for acoustical equipment.

2 CHILDREN SLEEP AS LIGHTNING RIPS THROUGH A HOME

Lightning ripped through a home at 1756 Cedar road, Homewood, last night without even awakening two small children in their beds. The place is owned by William Goetz, who is vacationing with Mrs. Goetz in North Carolina.

The bolt struck one end of the roof, tore plaster and glass off the walls of one bedroom in which Betsy Clair Goetz, 6 years old, was sleeping, and threw parts of the walls into the yard and through the windows of the home of G. E. Gooden, who lives next door. In an adjoining room was Margaret Louise, 3 years old, Betsy's sister.

Anna Richardson, a colored maid, was in the kitchen. The house was darkened by the blast, but there was no fire. All the wiring was destroyed. The fuse box in the basement was melted. Metal lath used throughout the home was credited by firemen with grounding the charge and saving the three lives.

He Delivers 2,450 Babies; Dr. T. D. Coe Dies at 78

Keithsburg, Ill., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Dr. True Deloss Coe, recently honored by the American Medical association for more than fifty years of service, died of pneumonia in Monmouth hospital this afternoon. He was 78 years old and was graduated from Rush Medical college in Chicago in 1884. He had 2,450 obstetrical cases, and had delivered babies in log cabins and auto trailers.

Pardon Us, but Isn't That the United States Capitol?

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—(AP)—A well dressed middle aged couple stepped from an automobile bearing New England license plates. They stood gazing in admiration at a big white building, then halted a passerby and asked: "Pardon me, could you tell us what that building is?" The passerby stared in astonishment. "That, sir," he said, "is the capitol of the United States."

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 7.—The Sudeten German [Nazi] delegation, in a formal conference at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon was on the point of deciding that the "final offer" of the Czechoslovak government came close to the famous eight points of Konrad Henlein's Carlsbad demands.

They were almost ready to admit that Czechoslovakia's offer constituted a basis for immediate and swift progress on the solution of the Germanic minorities crisis.

Five minutes later the conference broke up. It was decided to suspend negotiations indefinitly—a decision which jarred every capital in Europe and increased the fear of a European war.

Phone Call Reports Riots.

The cause of this speedy about face was a telephone call from Maehrisch-Ostrau—an industrial city in Moravia, near the Polish border. It told of a riot in which Sudeten German deputies in parliament had been assaulted by Czech police.

There were two conflicting versions of what happened.

A government inspired account said that the Sudeten German leaders were leading a threatening mob which intended to break into jail and deliver eighty-two imprisoned Sudeten Germans. This version was that mounted police rode down the crowd and made use of their riding whips in an emergency.

The Sudeten Version.

Here is the Sudeten German version:

During the last week homes of Germans near Maehrisch-Ostrau were searched each night for concealed weapons. Eighty-two arrests were made. The prisoners were charged with illegal possession of firearms. Two days ago Sudeten German party leaders began to receive complaints from relatives of the arrested persons that the prisoners were being beaten and otherwise brutally treated.

Today a committee of seven Sudeten leaders headed by Deputy Fritz Koellner, the party's chief organizer, appeared in Maehrisch-Ostrau to investigate the arrests and gather information on the treatment of the prisoners.

Hundreds of Germans, including weeping relatives of those arrested, accompanied the committee on its walk to the district courthouse.

Police Use Riding Crops.

While the committee was inside the courthouse a detachment of mounted state police appeared and scattered the crowd by riding them down and beating them over the head with riding crops.

Two deputies, Herr Koellner and Karl May, rushed into the street. They held up their parliamentary identification cards and called on the police to stop.

The police answered with three short, pungent Czech words which could be translated as: "We don't care who you are."

[An Associated Press dispatch quoted a policeman as saying "that is just so much sausage."]

Both deputies were driven against a wall, and May was cracked over the head and shoulder with a riding crop. The two deputies said they were insulted and that the police commander threatened to attack the protesting Sudeten Germans who had assembled in front of the courthouse.

Say Deputies Were Arrested.

Koellner and May and another Sudeten named Knorre then were put under arrest, but the police did not keep them in custody.

The Sudeten German party announced that following the riot twenty-five of the eighty-two captives in jail were carried away in police cars which were escorted by steel-helmeted state police to a jail in Olmuetz, in central Moravia.

Maehrisch - Ostrau was reported being patroled by state police equipped with rifles and machine guns.

Sudeten party headquarters in Prague charged some of the German prisoners in Maehrisch-Ostrau were kept in chains. An official com-

FUEHRER ANGRY; WILL DEAL WITH LONDON ENVOY

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NUREMBERG, Germany, Sept. 7.—War clouds loomed on the horizon tonight in the German-Czechoslovak crisis.

Soon after Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler had spent an hour in pleasant conversation with foreign diplomats at a tea, he received the news that the Sudeten Germans had suspended negotiations for a peaceful settlement of their conflict with Czechoslovakia.

He was exasperated over the incident at Maehrisch-Ostrau where Sudeten German deputies in Czechoslovakia's parliament charged they were assaulted by Czech police.

Britain Seeks "Compromise."

"The Sudeten Germans cannot be expected to continue to allow their leaders to negotiate while they are under the pressure of Czech bayonets," Nazi officials said.

Although most of the foreign diplomats left Nuremberg for Berlin tonight, Sir Nevile Henderson, British ambassador to Berlin, remained behind.

He will negotiate directly with Hitler and his lieutenants in an effort to avert a European war over the minority crisis in Czechoslovakia. The ambassador will struggle to bring about some sort of compromise.

Vision Czechs "Surrender."

In view of Henderson's sympathy for the Nazi cause, it was surmised that the "compromise" he will prepare will be tantamount to Czechoslovakia's capitulation.

This aroused fears among international observers that the Czechs will refuse to accept the compromise because, they said, "capitulation will mean the end of Czechoslovakia."

A suggestion published in the London Times that Czechoslovakia should agree to relinquish the territories claimed by the republic's neighbors was greeted with great satisfaction by Nazi leaders. The British suddenly became popular figures in the Nazi party congress capital.

Nevertheless, some Nazis feared that the British government and the British public will not share the views of the London Times.

Henlein Stricken with Fever.

Konrad Henlein, leader of the Sudeten German party who came to this city to confer with Hitler and attend the Nazi rally, conversed with the Fuehrer this morning.

Hitler had ordered the "Little Fuehrer," as Henlein is known among his followers, to return to his post in Czechoslovakia at once. But Henlein, British Government Periled by Row Over Policy.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 7.—European politics became more complicated today when it became certain that the British position in the controversy between the Czechs and the Germans is that Prague eventually must consent to revision of the Sudeten frontier and cede outright to the reich all disputed Sudeten areas.

Presumably the government of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain believes this to be the sole way of stalling off another European war. A crisis, however, appears to be pending between Chamberlain and Viscount Halifax, his foreign secretary, who do not see eye to eye.

Halifax May Resign.

Chamberlain was hurrying back to London from Scotland tonight, and the fireworks were expected at a consultation he will have with Halifax tomorrow. British papers hinted that Halifax will quit.

All cabinet ministers were standing by tonight, suspending plans to leave London until the situation between Chamberlain and Halifax has been cleared up.

The situation came about as a result of an editorial in the London Times this morning. The editorial recommended that the Czechs permit a plebiscite in all alien fringes of their country and thereafter cede all disputed Sudeten areas to Germany.

Plan Urged on Czechs.

"No central government," the editorial said, "would still deserve its title if it did not reserve in its own hands defense, foreign policy, and finance.

"There does not appear to be any dispute about this principle in the minds of the government or Konrad Henlein, and if the Sudetens now ask for more than the Czech government apparently is ready to give in its latest set of proposals it can only be inferred that the Germans are going beyond the mere removal of disabilities and do not find themselves at ease within the Czechoslovak republic.

Advises Ceding Areas.

"In that case it might be worth while for the Czechoslovak government to consider whether it should exclude altogether the project, which has found favor in some quarters, of making Czechoslovakia a more homogeneous state by the secession of that fringe of alien populations who are contiguous to the nation with which they are united by race.

"In any case, the wishes of the population concerned would seem to be a decisively important element in any solution that can hope to be regarded as permanent, and the advantages to Czechoslovakia of becoming a homogeneous state might conceivably outweigh the obvious disadvantages of losing the Sudeten German districts."

Chamberlain Shares View.

Ceding of the disputed areas to Germany has been the viewpoint of Chamberlain and some of his following, many observers in London have known for some time, but it was not known by the general British public.

As soon as this recommendation came out, it was picked up and broadcast by the Germans. It was taken to mean that Joachim von Ribbentrop, German foreign minister, and Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, German minister of propaganda, Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's two advisers, had been correct in their advice that the British would not march if the Germans attacked the Czechs.

The editorial convinced Prague that the British were not their friends. The Czechs had felt all along that Viscount Runciman's refusal of hospitality from the Czechs, and his preference for spending week-ends with Germans in the northern border areas of Czechoslovakia, was indicative of this feeling. Runciman is in Czechoslovakia as British mediator in the dispute between the Germans and Czechoslovaks.

After the German broadcast of the Times' advocacy of their cause, Prague felt certain that Runciman was not a conciliator but an instrument for putting pressure on them.

Denials Quickly Issued.

The explosion of all this today quickly manifested itself in British politics. From an early hour this morning the British foreign office began to issue denials that what the Times said represented government views, or that it was inspired by the British government.

Viscount Halifax, distraught at the effect of the Times' declaration, summoned Geoffrey Dawson, editor of the Times, to lunch with him. It was reported that he administered a prolonged rebuke to Dawson.

Against official denials today that the newspaper's suggestion represented established British policy stands the fact that during the last three months at least two British ministers have expressed the opinion that this was the only way out.

Asserts Czechs Are Finished.

Last April Leslie Hore-Belisha, British war secretary, asserted: "Czechoslovakia is finished. The country cannot be helped militarily. The map shows that. The French will not be any help to their allies. The French will not know anything has happened until they read it in their papers next day."

Hore-Belisha made this statement in a talk to American newspapermen. Although it was supposed to be secret, the talk was known next day to every diplomatic agency in town.

A few days later Chamberlain himself, in a discourse to several American newspaper men, stated that the Czech boundaries were not stable. He said it was likely that they would have to be revised.

Chamberlain is closely in touch with Lady Nancy Astor, the "Cliveden set," and the pro-German elements in the cabinet. The Astors and Geoffrey Dawson frequently consult about the policy of the Times. These facts may or may not have had some bearing on today's thundering article.

[Influential Conservatives frequently are guests at Cliveden, the home of Viscount and Viscountess Astor in Buckinghamshire. Last March Sir Stafford Cripps, Laborite, brought the "Cliveden set" into the news by charging that it was driving Prime Minister Chamberlain toward an "international Fascist alliance." He said: "They are the people who have been entertaining Von Ribbentrop and making friends with many other Nazi Germans."]

Many Angles to Rift.

A rift between Chamberlain, who has been dictating to the foreign office for some months, and the foreign office technicians seemed to be suggested in many ways tonight.

Those who are not in complete agreement with Chamberlain suggested that the Sudeten Germans, if left to themselves, would agree to negotiate on the new basis offered by Prague, but that they are not likely to do so if stirred up to resistance by British backing for more obdurate terms.

The Daily Telegraph tonight charged the Times with stirring up extremist and intransigent elements both in Sudeten land and Germany to hold out for still more sweeping concessions from the Prague government.

Influenced by today's developments in the Czech dispute, the British Labor opposition decided to intensify its challenge to Chamberlain's foreign policy and demand the immediate recall of parliament to discuss the international situation.

The demand was contained in a manifesto issued after a meeting of the joint executive committee of the Labor party and the general council of the Trades Union congress.

EDITORIAL CAUSES FURORE

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Sept. 7.—A furore was created this morning by an editorial in the London Times suggesting that the Sudeten areas be handed over, lock, stock, and barrel, to Germany if the present negotiations in Prague broke down.

Ideas of this sort have been moving in influential, conservative minds for many months, yet their appearance today, when the ink was hardly dry on the new Czech proposals, aroused more anger than anything the London Times has done for years.

Czechs File Protest.

The Czechoslovak government immediately protested and demanded an official repudiation in view of the fact that the London Times is regarded on the continent as a semiofficial paper.

The French government did the same through Charles Corbin, its ambassador here.

Whitehall was so annoyed by the article that it issued an official assurance that the editorial "in no way represents the view of his majesty's government."

Government quarters took the view that the latest Czech proposals were an eminently fair and generous basis for negotiations. It was pointed out again that the Germans had made no concessions of any kind, and there was much bitter comment on the inevitable effects of the London suggestions in Germany.

The press tonight was equally bitter, attacking the London Times with such vehemence that it probably will be difficult for the secession idea to make much headway for some time.

Viscount Halifax, foreign minister, lunched with Geoffrey Dawson, editor of the London Times, today. The result will be that an editorial of very different tone will appear in tomorrow's issue.

This time the warning note was uppermost. The Czech proposals were praised as "most reasonable" and the Sudetens criticized for their "ill considered gesture" in breaking off negotiations.

"The one solution that is barred by the moral sense of the world," said the London Times, "is the solution based on force or—what amounts to the same thing—by threat of force."

After mentioning the creation of an Atlantic squadron of the United States navy as one of the many signs of the hardening of world opinion, the London Times concluded by hoping that these signs would influence Chancellor Adolf Hitler against precipitate action.

BERLIN, Sept. 7.—Relations between soviet Russia and Germany became strained tonight. It was announced that the German fishing steamer Bahrenfield was seized by a soviet patrol vessel in the Barents sea in the Arctic. The Germans said the seizure took place outside of Russian territorial waters. They protested through the German embassy in Moscow against "violation of international laws." It was reported that the German vessel and its crew were still in custody.

munique said this was a common practice of the state police in that region. The Sudeten Germans also charged that the police beat the soles of prisoners' bare feet until they fainted.

Charge Czechs Hide Brutality.

Another charge was that the captives transferred from Maehrisch-Ostrau to Olmuetz showed the evidence of the brutality they had suffered. Czech police, the Sudeten Germans said, did not want them to be seen by the British observer, Maj. Sutton Pratt, who was on his way to the city to investigate the riot.

Fresh fuel was added to the fire of hatred blazing between the Czechs and Germans by the mysterious death of Alfred Knoll, a Sudeten peasant boy from Hangenstein, near Maehrisch-Ostrau.

The Sudetens charged that Knoll was summoned for training in army reserves on Sept. 2. He reported to an infantry regiment near the Hungarian border. On Monday his father received an unsigned telegram: "Son Alfred dead."

Upon investigation the father was told that within the three days he had been with the army his son had been accused of espionage, tried, and sentenced to twenty years' imprisonment. While he was being escorted to prison he jumped from a moving train and injured himself fatally, the Sudeten party alleged. A doctor who signed the death certificate said Knoll had died of a fractured skull.

Try to Calm Germans.

It was reported that Premier Milan Hodza and members of Viscount Runciman's mediation mission were trying to patch up the situation and induce the Sudeten Germans to resume negotiations.

This sudden and dramatic turn of events roused wild excitement in Prague. Again talk of war was circulated. The government radio broadcast an appeal to the population to be calm.

After the decision to interrupt the negotiations with the government, Deputy Karl Herman Frank, Sudeten German party leader called on Runciman to inform him of the situation.

When asked when and under what conditions the Sudeten Germans would resume negotiations, Frank put before Runciman a list of disturbances in the Sudeten German region within the last two weeks.

He then told Runciman the Sudeten Germans would not meet the government until today's incident had been fully and impartially investigated. He demanded that the offenders be punished and that the government take "adequate provisions" to prevent repetition of such incidents.

HITLER ANGRY; INTENDS TO DEAL WITH ENGLAND

British Envoy Seeks to Prevent War.

who has been ill with the grippe, developed a fever and the return trip was called off.

Reporters were told that this was not a "diplomatic illness." Nazi officials insisted that physicians had warned him to delay his departure until Saturday.

Henlein is considered to be the more moderate leader of the Sudeten Germans. If he fails to take over command now, it is feared the more radical groups will retain the upper hand.

Hitler thanked foreign diplomats for appearing in such great numbers at his tea this afternoon. He said he saw in their presence proof that the world realizes the Nazi party congress is important not only for Germany but also for Europe and the world at large.

French Envoy Responds.

Andre Francois-Poncet, the French ambassador, spoke for the diplomats, who included Hugh R. Wilson, United States ambassador. Francois-Poncet pointed out that many of them had political views differing from those of the Nazis. Nevertheless, he said, the diplomats were interested in what they could see in Nuremberg, and that they were united in hopes for peace.

Hitler asked his guests to sit at small tables for tea. He carefully refrained from mentioning politics. He spoke with animation of the Nazi Strength Through Joy movement, the Labor Front, and his efforts to weld Germany into a "true national community."

Hitler's call for the union of all persons of German blood rang over Zeppelin field this morning and echoed through the streets of the city as 40,000 stalwart young Labor Service men chanted their annual oath of allegiance to the Fuehrer.

Goosestep for Hitler.

"Those who want to be German must belong to Germany—blood is stronger than the enemy's power," was sung in solemn Labor Service rites which Robert Ley, leader of the Labor Front, described as a "religious" ceremony.

The Labor Service men goosestepped past the Fuehrer like perfectly drilled soldiers. They came from all parts of Germany. Groups from Austria were greeted with cheers and in a symbolic scene a young German Labor Service man gave a "labor spade" to an Austrian born youth who now belongs to Hitler's new Pan-Germany.

The sword figured prominently in the verses sung by the young men.

"Comrades, when the borders are aflame we shall stand up for our homes and hearts with our spades and with the sword," they chorused. In paying tribute to dead Nazi heroes, they sang: "For us the time also will come—every day we are ready to march."

Hitler Praises Youths.

In a brief address Hitler praised the youths.

"You create new soil for the reich and you help protect the old land," he said. "In the north and south, east and west you serve the safety of the empire."

This reference to the construction of fortifications, particularly along the border facing France, was greeted with cheers.

Hundreds of Labor Service youths in bare torsos formed a Nazi eagle in the field while rain and wind whipped their bodies.

In the afternoon the youths marched through Nuremberg streets singing: "Today Germany belongs to us—tomorrow the world will be ours."

BRITAIN'S STAND IN CZECH CRISIS WORRIES FRANCE

London Editorials Cause Uneasiness.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 7.—Georges Bonnet, French foreign minister, this evening called in Sir Eric Phipps, British ambassador, for a conference on a London Times editorial suggesting that the Czechs allow the Sudeten area of Czechoslovakia to return to Germany.

Another subject discussed at the conference was the incident which occurred today in Maehrisch-Ostrau, Czechoslovakia. It was charged that a Sudeten German [Nazi] deputy was beaten there by Czech police.

Editorial Causes Uneasiness.

A semi-official French communique admitted the editorial had caused uneasiness in Paris. The uneasiness was all the greater because another British paper, the Evening Standard, in late editions came out even stronger than the Times in urging the Czechs to give up the Sudeten country to the Germans.

In Paris it was feared that the editorials will compromise seriously the French-British stand on the Czech question.

Dispatches from Berlin revealed, as might be expected, that Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, German minister of propaganda, had pounced on the Times article with delight. It was given prominence in German papers.

Viewed as Trial Balloon.

The Times' editorial was interpreted as a trial balloon for a plebiscite. Although the foreign office issued statements that the editorial did not represent the views of the government, French opinion was profoundly disturbed.

It was noted in Paris with concern that the British press always is sensitive to the desires of the British government in such matters. It has carefully avoided giving wholehearted approval to the new plan of President Eduard Benese of Czechoslovakia, although admitting that the plan goes far toward satisfying the Sudeten German demands.

Former Premier Blum declared that the Czechs actually exceeded the Sudeten demands. His view was announced under his signature in Le Populaire, a Socialist organ, after he conferred with a Czech political figure who had arrived from Prague.

Urges Joint Action.

"The French government ought no longer to act in Prague, but in London," said Blum, "and the British government ought no longer to act at Prague, but in Berlin.

"To act, furthermore, at the present time means not only to speak, but to speak clearly, putting dots on the I's without leaving room for any alteration whatsoever or any error in transmission, voluntary or involuntary, without allowing to remain the ambiguity and inexplainable incredulity which still subsists in the minds of Germany's leaders regarding the real position of Britain and France."

It was considered clear in Paris that London intends to put further pressure on the Czechs to obtain more concessions, and Paris is beginning to wonder just how far the British really intend to go on that line.

Fail to Obtain Response.

The French have been trying for several days to persuade the British to make it plain to Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler that they will fight if he attacks Czechoslovakia, but so far there has been no response.

Paris still believes that England will fight in the event of a flagrant German attack. It is beginning to fear, however, that in the case of confused disturbances in the Sudeten area, in which the Czechs might appear to have some blame, Britain might hold back and try to hold France back until too late to do anything effective.

The equivocal British position is calculated to divide French opinion. Already some extreme right wing papers are suggesting that, if necessary to save peace, France must follow the British.

France Spurs Preparations.

PARIS, Sept. 7.—(AP)—France spurred military preparations tonight by sending more troops toward the German frontier and by mobilizing all Marseilles dock workers. The new steps resulted from fear of conflict in the German-Czechoslovak dispute.

Additional reserve troops were sped toward the eastern border, bringing to 1,200,000 the estimated number under arms or standing by for orders.

A war ministry order instructed an undetermined number of reservists to report immediately for duty on the Maginot line facing Germany.

Instructions Are Issued.

It was reported that instructions concerning war mobilization have been sent to the prefects of each of the nation's 93 interior ministry departments in France and Algeria. Similar instructions also were said to have been sent to the governors of French overseas territory.

The Marseilles mobilization placed an estimated 5,000 dock workers under military discipline at France's gateway to her colonial empire.

Sings in Hotel

MISS SALLY CLARK.

New York, Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Miss Sally Clark of Boston and Nahant, Mass., torch singer, arrived today for a hotel engagement. Miss Clark, who was maid-of-honor at the wedding of her sister Anne to John Roosevelt, son of the President, last June, dashed down from New England by speed boat. She begins an engagement at the Plaza hotel on Sept. 27.

She's excited about it—her sister Anne will be there and her mother, Mrs. F. Haven Clark, and her fiancé, George Xavier McLanahan. She is afraid, though, that her brother-in-law, John Roosevelt, won't be able to leave his $18.50-a-week department store job. As for the other Roosevelts—

"Well, you know," she said, "how they are—they're scattered all over the place."

Miss Clark wanted one thing understood clearly—the Roosevelts have nothing against her singing in public.

CHINESE BATTLE TO PLUG HOLE IN YANGTZE FRONT

SHANGHAI, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Chinese central government troops tonight were reported moving into a breach in the Kiukiang-Nanchang railway front in an effort to block a Japanese drive south from the Yangtze river to Nanchang, Kiangsi provincial capital.

The desperate Chinese defense of the railway approach to Nanchang—carried on in the face of superior Japanese artillery, planes, and tanks—turned the northwestern shore ot Lake Poyang into the most active battle zone in the Yangtze valley. Japanese, with their most advanced columns still about 100 miles from Hankow, were trying to widen their base.

HEARST WILL PUT CASTLE IN WALES UP FOR AUCTION

LONDON, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Representatives of William Randolph Hearst, United States publisher, said today he had decided to sell his 14th century St. Donats castle in Wales. It will be advertised soon. The price was not disclosed, but it was known that Hearst had spent about $1,250,000 to preserve and modernize the castle. He bought it thirteen years ago. The art collection housed in the castle will be broken up and some of it will be sold.

MOVE TO REGAIN HUNGARY'S LOST LANDS EXPECTED

Action May Come After Demands of Minorities.

Demands of minorities for self rule, which are most insistent in Czechoslovakia, may be followed by another concerted campaign—demands for lost territories of the 1,022 year old kingdom of Hungary.

Hungarians—or Magyars—in the lost territories at present are minority groups in Rumania, Czechoslovakia, Jugo-Slavia, and German Austria.

Czechoslovakia was freed from the old Austro-Hungarian empire by the postwar treaty of St. Germain. The new nation was composed mainly of Czechs and Slovaks, but in addition it contains large minorities of Germans, Hungarians, and Russians [Ruthenians].

Lands Deeded Away.

The treaty of St. Germain also freed Hungary, but the treaty of the Trianon [of June 4, 1920] deeded away 71.4 per cent of the ancient kingdom—about 90,000 square miles—and pared Hungary down to the 35,875 square miles containing the Magyar population.

Transylvania—with its rich grain lands and forests, which composed 31.7 per cent of the old kingdom of Hungary—went to Rumania, and at the same time 1,663,576 Hungarians were placed under Rumanian rule.

Croatia—19.4 per cent of the old kingdom, with 571,735 Hungarians—went to Jugo-Slavia. The Banat, one of the most fertile wheat regions of Europe, was apportioned between Rumania and Jugo-Slavia.

The Slovak provinces—19.1 per cent of the old kingdom, with 1,066,824 Hungarians—went to Czechoslovakia.

Austria Given Bergenland.

Bergenland—1.2 per cent of the old kingdom, with 26,225 Hungarians, went to Austria [now Germany].

This left Hungary [in 1920] with a population of 7,989,069. Its estimated population today is about 9,000,000, of whom 92.1 per cent are Hungarians. The chief minorities are the German—478,630 persons, or 5.5 per cent—and Slovak—104,819 persons, or 1.2 per cent. The Croatian, Rumanian, and Ruthenian minorities each constitute less than 1 per cent.

After 1920 the nations which benefited most by territorial acquisitions—Rumania, Czechoslovakia, and Jugo-Siavia—formed the Little Entente, encircling Hungary and Austria. Austria and Hungary turned to Italy for friendship and Italy in turn formed the Rome-Berlin axis with Germany.

Wins Assurances of Aid.

After Germany annexed Austria, apparently with Italian consent, Hungary obtained assurances from Rome and Berlin of their continued support and promises that the kingdom of Hungary was not endangered. Admiral Nicholas Horthy, the regent of the kingdom since 1920; his wife, and Premier Bela Imredi paid a state visit to Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler in Germany.

Hitler assured Horthy and Imredi that Austria's eastern border was Germany's "last frontier," dispelling any fears that he had designs on Hungarian territory or plans for the large German minority in Hungary.

To quiet the fears of Hungary's neighbors, Premier Imredi said:

"Despite the friendship of Hungary and Germany, I never have and never will sign any accord of subjection to the reich [Germany]."

The Magyars date their conquest and settlement of the old kingdom of Hungary from the year 896. However, it was under St. Stephen in the year 1001 that Hungary first became an independent state and began its unity as a nation. Christianity was introduced in Hungary by St. Stephen's father, the duke of Geisa. The first written systematic and fundamental document of the constitution is the "Golden Bull" extorted from King Andrew II. in 1222.

SOUTH AFRICA VOWS IT WILL FIGHT ONLY TO GUARD OWN INTERESTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Sept. 7.—Oswald Pirow, defense minister, told the house of assembly today that the Union of South Africa would not take part in a war in which Great Britain becomes involved unless the union's interests made participation inevitable.

Even then, he stipulated, a clear mandate from the South African people would be necessary.

Pirow outlined the South African government's proposals to spend $25,000,000 on additional arms, equipment, and defense works, and $5,000,000 on coastal defenses over a period of three years.

SPANISH REBELS START ANEW ON VALENCIA DRIVE

HENDAYE, France [at the Spanish Frontier], Sept. 7.—(AP)—The Spanish rebel command today reported its Teruel-Sagunto road drive toward Valencia, which was stalled for a month and a half, had been resumed.

Government dispatches announced renewed fighting near Viver. The town is 34 miles northwest of Valencia. A heavy rebel campaign was halted at Viver in July by a diversion created when the government made a surprise push across the Ebro river in southern Catalonia.

The rebels reported resumption of the thrust toward Valencia shortly after advices that government pressure on Gandesa, the target of the Ebro drive, had been reduced by fires set in pine and olive groves by artillery bombardments. Smoke almost blanketed the highway from Gandesa to Mora de Ebro, a few miles to the northeast. Gandesa is about 85 miles northeast of Viver.

POPE DENOUNCES ITALIAN DRIVE AGAINST JEWRY

Vatican Paper Reveals New Evidence of Discord.

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 7.—(AP)—New evidence of discord between the Vatican and Fascism over the Italian doctrin of race appeared today in L'Osservatore Romano, Vatican newspaper.

The newspaper attributed to Pope Pius XI. the view that the anti-Semitic doctrin "concerns a great and serious error which reaches the steps of the altar, touching Catholic doctrin."

The Italian press did not publish the remarks attributed to the pope by L'Osservatore Romano, but the newspaper devoted half of its front page to a digest of them, under the caption, "Luminous words of the holy father to Catholic Action teachers."

Pope Addresses Teachers.

The pope was not quoted directly by the newspaper in his remarks yesterday to 400 Italian school teachers at Castel Gandolfo. The following, in part, was L'Osservatore's summary:

"His holiness mentioned the cardinal points of racialism set by university teachers. To these points were appended a series of comments and it is not known whether they were made by the writers of the points or by those who published them.

"Nevertheless, the ideas in these comments have been repeated and spread everywhere through the Italian and foreign press and are taking ground everywhere. It concerns a great and serious error which reaches the steps of the altar, touching Catholic doctrin."

Editor Issues Warning.

Simultaneously a Fascist warning was given to Jews abroad that a boycott of Italian goods might work against Jews in Italy.

Il Giornale D'Italia, edited by the authoritative Fascist, Virgino Gayda, commented on a dispatch telling of a move by London Jews to boycott Italian goods.

"The fate of Italian Hebrews still is in the balance," said Il Giornale D'Italia. "But it is certain that if Hebrews of two worlds want to mix themselves in unadvised gestures, the situation of Italian Hebrews might become rather serious."

DIES IN HIS HOME.

Richard Dulz, 72 years old, died yesterday in his home, 2702 North Le Claire avenue. A heart attack was blamed.

STATE WINDS UP IN RACKET CASE AGAINST HINES

Politician Tells of Plea to Protect Gang Chief.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 7.—[Special.]—District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey suddenly rested the state's case against Tammany Leader James J. [Jimmy] Hines tonight. The final witnesses linked Hines deeper than ever in a criminal alliance with the policy game racketeers under the late Dutch Schultz, gang leader.

Milton Bernard.
[A. P. Wirephoto.]

Three important developments occurred as Dewey concluded his case against the Democratic leader before a jury and Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora. They were:

1. Cornelius Casey, chairman of the Democratic committee of Rensselaer county, New York, testified that in 1935 Hines asked him to keep the police from molesting Schultz, who had taken refuge near Troy. Casey assured the New York political boss that the gang leader would not be bothered as long as he behaved himself.

Tries to Block Dewey.

2. James D. C. Murray, prominent attorney, testified that Hines had sworn to block the appointment of Dewey as special prosecutor of New York City's rackets in the summer of 1935. This corroborated the testimony of gangland witnesses that Hines had tried unsuccessfully to halt the naming of Dewey because the underworld feared him.

3. Officials of the state tax commission declared that the name "J. Hines" was on the back of a canceled check for $500 which they found upon seizing the books and records of Milton Bernard, accountant, who handled income tax affairs for the Schultz gang. The check represents an alleged gang payoff to Hines. Earlier, Bernard, an admittedly hostile witness, had insisted the name was not on the check.

State Rests Case.

After these three smashing blows, Dewey turned to the bench. "The people rest, your honor," he said quietly.

That ended seventeen days of testimony drawn from forty-six witnesses and spread upon more than 4,000 pages of record. Hines, accused of being the political godfather and protector of the Schultz crime syndicate, is charged in the indictment with conspiracy and violation of the lottery laws.

That indictment will be the target for a lengthy attack by the defense tomorrow. Attorney Lloyd Paul Stryker, chief of defense counsel, told the court it probably would take the better part of a day to argue his motion for dismissal of the twelve felony counts and one conspiracy charge contained in the indictment, on the grounds that the state had not made out a case.

Stryker asserted that he was submitting the motion in "great sincerity." He said he wanted to confer at length with Prof. Maurice Wormser of the Columbia university law school and others on the Hines legal board of strategy. With that, Judge Pecora permitted the defense counsel to recess until 2 p. m. tomorrow when the arguments will start.

The appearance of Casey, the Rensselaer county politician, came after Dewey assured the court late in the day that he could complete his case.

Casey, ruddy-faced and white haired, and 59 years old, in the witness chair identified himself as leader of the Democratic party in his county and as chief of the Troy fire department.

Seeks Bondsman for Schultz.

In November or December of 1934 Casey related that he received a visit from two New York attorneys. One was J. Richard ["Dixie"] Davis, attorney for Schultz. He pleaded guilty to the policy racket indictment and testified against Hines. His companion was one James Noonan. The two lawyers asked whether Casey knew a bondsman they could get for Schultz. Casey said he did not.

At this time, it developed, Schultz was out on bail on a federal income tax evasion indictment against him and was dodging New York detectives and other investigators.

When Casey stepped from the witness chair, Dewey called for the lawyer, Murray, a member of the bar for thirty years and one of the best known attorneys in the city. Murray said he had known Hines for at least 15 years.

In 1935, he was conferring with "Dixie" Davis in his office on a civil matter, Murray testified, when Davis offered to drive him to his home on Long Island. "Dixie" said he wanted to see Hines, who was playing on a Long Island golf course. Murray accepted the invitation.

At the club they met Hines, said the witness, and discussed the possible appointment of Dewey as special rackets prosecutor. Hines said "he would see about it," said Murray.

GAY BIGAMIST, 55, IS CHARGED WITH ROBBING ESTATE

Accused of Embezzling $23,995 from Fund.

Harold M. Marks read in THE TRIBUNE of Aug. 26 that Frank D. La Monte had been spending large sums on a bigamous wife. He became suspicious and put auditors to work on a set of books La Monte had been keeping for him. Yesterday a warant charging La Monte with embezzling $23,995 was issued by Judge Edmund K. Jarecki.

Assistant State's Attorney Gordon Nash said $10,131 more was missing, and that indictments charging La Monte got this amount by forgery would be sought.

Accused Man Missing.

La Monte, who is 55 years old, was missing last night. He is head of the Dadson Business Management service at 1 North La Salle street. Marks, who is in the investment business and also manages the estate of his father, H. M. Marks Sr., has offices in the same building.

"His work on my books was a sideline," said Marks. "He had been coming in at intervals for five years. The books seemed to be in good order and I did not suspect anything until I read of his spending."

It was indicated that La Monte obtained most of the $23,995 by cashing dividends and bond coupons and failing to turn the proceeds over to Marks. He had access to the securities in the Marks estate.

Trouble Gets to Courts.

La Monte went through a marriage ceremony on April 30 with a red haired waitress he had met in a loop café. She was nearly 30 years younger than he. Their troubles got into the courts when this wife, Agnes, sued for separate maintenance, alleging that she had been deserted on Aug. 2. She asked a large alimony allowance.

"Frank has plenty of money," she said. "He bought me a car and diamonds and we lived in a $175 a month apartment on Lake Shore drive. We went to the Louis-Schmeling fight in a plane and when we took a little trip to Mackinac Island we stopped in a room that cost $22.50 a day."

Learns There's No Divorce.

La Monte told the court he earned only $160 a month. He added that he wanted an annulment. He had discovered, he said, that Mrs. Edith Anna La Monte of 6950 Eggleston avenue hadn't divorced him, as he believed she had.

Judge Prystalski set the second Mrs. La Monte's allowance at $25 a week.

The legal wife said last evening that her husband had done "an unpardonable thing." They were married thirty-five years ago, and Mrs. La Monte asserted he had lived at home until his troubles with the waitress were made public.

46 RESCUED FROM BURNING STEAMER OFF SPANISH COAST

LONDON, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The rescue of forty-six persons from the burning British steamer, Italian Prince, off Cape Finisterre, Spain, was described in radio messages to Lloyds today.

Twelve passengers and the crew were picked up by the French steamer, Capitaine Augustin, and the Italian steamer, Atlantide. No one was reported missing. Crew and passengers took to the boats when the 3,478 ton ship caught fire thirty miles southwest of the cape. She was bound from London to Alexandretta.

Freighter Reported on Fire.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 7.—(AP)—The Maritime exchange reported today that the freighter Dundrum Castle, sailing out of Philadelphia, had been afire somewhere at sea, but was proceeding to Cape Town, South Africa. The vessel left Philadelphia Aug. 22 with a cargo that included gasoline and kerosene.

HOTEL RECORDS FAIL TO PROVE WEDDING IN 1929

If Charles H. Brainard married Laura Farthing on July 18, 1929, in the Baker hotel at St. Charles, hotel records for that date fail to prove it in the way of registration. Logan Healy, assistant manager of the hotel, insisted yesterday at a hearing before Master in Chancery John A. Sbarbaro that hotel books showed no record of the couple.

Brainard, a mining engineer, was killed last year in a mine accident. Mrs. Laura Brainard, who says she married him in the Baker hotel, seeks two-thirds of his $100,000 estate for her two children, Charlotte, 8 years old, and Patricia, 6. Mrs. Gertrude Brainard, whom Brainard married in 1900, and six brothers and sisters contest the claim.

Master Sbarbaro threatened yesterday to refer the hearing back to the court because of heated exchanges between Attorney Lloyd Moody for Mrs. Laura Brainard and Attorney George W. Dammann, representing the brothers and sisters.

Bandits' Rope Too Short to Tie Up Their Victims

Two boy bandits slugged Walter R. Gresimer in his delicatessen at 2644 Milwaukee avenue yesterday and robbed him of $300 and a $35 watch. The robbers attempted to tie up Gresimer and his wife, but their rope was too short.

3 BOOKIE RIDE VICTIMS RETURN —TO RIDE AGAIN

Get New Trip as 13 More Bet Dens Are Raided.

Harry Smith was glad yesterday he's so short. He said so as he stepped into a patrol wagon for the second time that day, the fourth time in two days, the ninth time in a week.

"It makes it so much easier," he said soberly. "I don't have to stoop." He looked over at Patrick Woods, lanky and lugubrious, who settled with a sigh into a seat. "Pat's gonna be humpbacked before long."

These two, with Marvin Sears, are a self-sacrificing trio. Every time the police arrive at 10 South Clark street, third floor, which is often, indeed, they step forth cheerfully and offer themselves for arrest as the operators of the handbook. Each time the men and women making bets there are ordered out. Each time, within a few minutes, the place is crowded again.

Thirteen Joints Raided.

It was one of six handbooks and two policy games the police raided yesterday. State's Attorney Courtney's men chopped up five more to increase their total to sixty-seven since the ax drive started.

Courtney's men have not yet hit 10 South Clark street, third floor. But the city police raided it five times last week and four times this week. Each time they took with them Smith, Woods, and Sears. Speedily the three obtained their freedom on bail and went back to 10 South Clark street.

"It isn't as tough a racket as it might be," Smith commented yesterday as he left the cell room at 1st district for the second time. "We're getting pinched only twice a day now. Last year they grabbed us three times a day."

Better Than Relief.

"It's better than being on relief," said Woods.

"Why don't you get a lawyer and stop the police from raiding?" offered a sympathetic reporter who feared for Woods' stoop.

"Huh!" retorted Smith. "Get a lawyer and we'd be sure to go to jail." He and his mates, who admitted frankly that they are only employés of the joint, said they didn't know who would defend them. There was some doubt of their frankness, however, for police said Attorney Lawrence Dowd had defended them the last seven times.

Courtney's raiders yesterday hit 5918 South Halsted street, 3843 Madison street, 4753 Madison street, 51 East Adams street, and 1358 East 63d street. City police raided books at 214 North Clark street, 22 East Randolph street, 5918 South Halsted [also on Courtney's list], 1619 North California avenue, 337 East 31st street, and 458 East 42d street.

GYPSY FLEECES WOMAN OF $1,603 WITH LUCK SPELL

"I bring you good luck," said the gypsy woman who visited Mrs. Rose Heidenreich of 3833 North Ravenswood avenue. "I am going to cast a lucky spell. Are you in trouble?"

Mrs. Heidenreich said she was. She and her husband were having a hard time collecting $1,500 owed them. The gypsy said she could help. She suggested Mrs. Heidenreich draw an equal amount from the bank. Mrs. Heidenreich took $1,603 from her bank account. With the money in a pocketbook the gypsy began waving her hands over it and casting a spell.

Then suddenly she asked for a drink of water. Mrs. Heidenreich went for the water. When she returned, the gypsy, the pocketbook, and the money were gone. Mrs. Heidenreich yesterday asked North Damen avenue police to search for the woman.

ARABS ROB POLICE STATION IN JAFFA IN TERROR REIGN

JAFFA, Palestine, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Mobile police with machine guns today broke a reign of terror by Arab bands in Jaffa, largest Arab city in Palestine.

The police dispersed all gatherings after Arab bands had raided the police station, municipal building and other institutions, seizing arms, money, and equipment. One Arab was killed and four wounded when they were caught trying to break into shops.

Four armed men entered central police headquarters, bound and gagged two police officers and seized thirty rifles and a quantity of ammunition and revolvers. A second band stole equipment valued at $3,500 from the municipal building. Terrified inhabitants of the city locked themselves in their homes.

FIND NIGHT LIFE GIRL STRANGLED IN LOOP HOTEL

Police Hunt Ex-Convict for Questioning.

The nude body of an attractive auburn haired woman was found yesterday on a bed in a room of the Lorraine hotel at 411 South Wabash avenue. She had been strangled, apparently with a long lamp cord which lay under the bed.

The woman was Mrs. Marie Lamont, 27 years old, wife of Robert W. Lamont, office manager and accountant for a loop real estate company. The Lamonts had been separated for three years. Mrs. Lamont lived in a girls' club at 215 East Erie street.

Police Hunt Ex-Convict.

In search of information which might shed light on her death, Lieut. Richard Barry of the homicide squad sought W. F. Raab, also known as Frank Raab, for questioning. Mrs. Lamont's body was found in the room he had occupied for two years.

Criminal files at the detective bureau revealed Raab had a record as a burglar since 1916. In 1923 he was paroled from Joliet penitentiary after serving two years. Raab worked as a floor man at the Club Alabam, 749 Rush street, until a week ago.

At the club, where Mrs. Lamont once worked as an entertainer and hostess, she and Raab were known as sweethearts. Hotel employés said they were often seen there together.

Body Found by Maid.

Mrs. Lamont's body was discovered at 3 p. m. by a colored maid, Miss Charlie Williams, 602 Oakwood boulevard. Dr. Jerry Kearns, coroner's physician, who performed an autopsy, said Mrs. Lamont had been dead for about fifteen hours.

The maid said she knocked at the room at 3 p. m. Tuesday, but was told by Raab not to bother. At 9 a. m. yesterday she opened the door with a pass key.

"This woman was lying on the bed with a sheet pulled up over her head," said the maid. "Her hands were crossed, and I thought she was asleep. When I returned again at 3 o'clock and saw she had not moved I knew something was wrong and called the manager."

Raab was last seen about the hotel on Tuesday. Harold Crowe, colored, had taken Raab and Mrs. Lamont to the sixth floor at 2 o'clock that morning. They were quarreling and had been drinking, Crowe said.

Crowe said neither left the hotel before he finished his shift at 8 a. m. Again yesterday morning, at 2 o'clock, Crowe said, he took Mrs. Lamont to the sixth floor. She was alone then.

Roommates of Mrs. Lamont in the girls' club said she left there Monday night at 9:30 o'clock, promising to return at midnight. They said she had gone to call on Raab, who had telephoned that he was ill.

Mrs. Lamont worked as an assistant in the Drake hotel florist shop until the day after Raab disappeared from his job, when she quit. She and Lamont have a daughter, Joan, 8 years old, who is with his parents in Kendallville, Ind.

U. S. DROPS QUIZ ON FREE SPEECH ISSUE IN JERSEY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Justice department officials said today they had found no evidence that Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City had violated the federal civil rights statute prohibiting conspiracies to deprive any citizen of constitutional rights.

Accordingly, they said they had dropped the investigation ordered last May by Attorney General Homer S. Cummings into numerous charges that the right of free speech and other civil liberties were being suppressed in Hague's domain.

The inquiry was ordered a short time after Norman Thomas, Socialist leader, was "deported" by Jersey City police after he tried to address a May day massmeeting in the city's principal square. Thomas was placed aboard a Manhattan-bound ferryboat.

ESCAPED CHICAGO BANDIT CAPTURED IN TOURIST CAMP

Frank Borden, the Chicago bandit who fled the Joliet prison farm Monday as preparations were being made for a parole hearing for him, was captured yesterday near Bridgman in Berrien county, Mich. He was sleeping in a tourist cabin when Sherif Charles Miller and a squad of deputies seized him.

Borden gave no explanation of why he ran away. He said he hitch-hiked to Chicago and got a change of clothes from a friend. Then he took a bus to New Buffalo, Mich., and made his way thence on foot to Bridgman. Warden Joseph E. Ragen said Borden will lose all the time good behavior had won him.

FEDERAL SUBWAY ENGINEERS TALK PLAN WITH KELLY

The federal engineering board investigating Chicago's subway plans conferred with Mayor Kelly yesterday at a luncheon in the Union League club. None of those present would comment except to say the subway project was discussed.

The four man board was named by the Public Works administration six weeks ago to investigate the proposal to build three downtown subways. The study is in connection with the city's application for a PWA grant to help finance the cost. The board is to make a recommendation by Sept. 30.

The city council was informed yesterday that negotiations for a new transit unification ordinance are progressing well. Ald. James R. Quinn [50th], chairman of a subcommittee working with traction company officials, reported that noncontroversial provisions of a new ordinance have been given preliminary approval.

ARMY SPEEDS ITS PREPARATION FOR WAR EMERGENCY

Private Ordnance Output Being Stepped Up.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—With a 52 million dollar appropriation for the current fiscal year, the ordnance department of the United States army is engaged in its most extensive peacetime program.

Maj. Gen. Wesson.

Almost the entire program for increasing the readiness and efficiency of the army, through motorization and mechanization, passes at one phase or another through the ordnance department. New bombs for planes, new rifles for the infantry, new tanks, new anti-aircraft weapons, new artillery, and other replacements must have the attention of the ordnance department.

The department is interested not only in the purchase and development of equipment, but also in the improvement of storage and maintenance facilities and the construction of plants for the schooling of ordnance officers and enlisted men.

Arsenals to Be Improved.

The department is playing a large part in plans for industrial mobilization in the event of war, in that some of its funds will go for improvement of the army's manufacturing arsenals. These improvements include the buying of tools and the development of manufacturing through improved machinery and methods of manufacture.

Industrial mobilization will benefit in the event of war by the education of personnel in industrial plants, through the work at arsenals.

The task of directing this key department is on the shoulders of Maj. Gen. Charles M. Wesson, who has spent his thirty-eight years of service, including the war period, in the cavalry and ordnance department. His chief aid is Brig. Gen. Earl McFarland, who for several years was instructor in ordnance at the military academy and is acknowledged to be the greatest technical man in its field.

Problem of Coördination.

"The problem of ordnance in war is the problem of mobilization and coördination of science and industry with the military establishment," Gen. Wesson said. "This is a problem of optimum and serious importance, as the simple fact is that virtually all industry, in time of modern war, must be primarily or secondarily engaged in conflict.

"Fundamental to ordnance success is conformity to commercial standards, processes, and practices. The more intelligently we answer the industrial problem now, the less disruption of industry and the quicker we can secure what is required in war."

Since the world war the development of equipment and manufacture in limited quantities has been undertaken at army establishments. However the impetus that has been given to modernization of the army, in view of smoldering conflicts and war threats over the world, will bring considerable expenditures in private plants during the present fiscal year.

Half of Sum for Labor.

Under the 52 million dollar program, about half the appropriation is to go to labor. The civil service pay roll of the department is to be increased from 10,000 to 15,000.

The other half is to go for the purchase of materials. Of this, half will go for steel and the rest will be distributed in varying proportions among the major industries of the country.

Special projects of ordnance follow:

ARTILLERY. The program calls for weapons of various sizes from 37 mm. anti-tank guns to 16-inch coast defense guns at a cost of approximately 25 million dollars. The largest portion of this fund will go into the manufacture of anti-aircraft artillery.

The army has but 14 modern anti-aircraft guns, which, in the opinion of army men, is not enough to protect New York City, even though the guns are far superior to those in use abroad. The army goal in the year is 338 anti-aircraft guns.

The modernization of field artillery is being continued by the manufacture of the improved model of the wartime French 75 mm. gun. Other projects call for infantry mortars, railway artillery, light and heavy coast artillery, and anti-tank guns, of which the army has none.

AUTOMOTIVE. The manufacture of 18 medium tanks of a newly developed design.

SMALL ARMS. The ordnance department is expending $3,300,000 for critically needed small arm machinery. Most of this sum is to go for machine tools, dies, jigs, fixtures and gauges. The items are critical because of the difficulty of production. The initial manufacture of needed material will be expedited by these aids to manufacture, according to the deparment.

Included for manufacture are 2,500 of the new semi-automatic rifles for the regular army and 2,500 for the National Guard. These rifles make each soldier the equal of five armed with the regulation Springfield rifle.

About $1,345,000 is to be spent for anti-aircraft armament such as 30 and 50 caliber machine guns and pyrotechnic pistols.

14 Millions for Ammunition.

AMMUNITION. The ammunition production program involves an expenditure of about 14 million dollars. The required production is in excess of ordnance arsenals, so that a large share of the required ammunition will be purchased from private companies.

The experimental and development program for ammunition also is larger than usual. Emphasis is being placed in army laboratories upon the improvement of methods for the manufacture of bombs, shell forgings, chemical shells, and the like in order that the load of production may be distributed as widely as possible in the event of an emergency.

It is expected that the experimentation being conducted by the department will greatly increase the sources of supply for munitions in the next war should this country become involved in any conflict.

The department plans to purchase approximately 3 million dollars' worth of machinery for the manufacture of smokeless powder and for the loading of ammunition. The planned production of smokeless powder in the event of war can only be met, according to the department, if special equipment is held in reserve ready for immediate installation in war time.

Combine Ordnance Schools.

The ordnance school for enlisted men at Raritan arsenal is to be transferred to the Aberdeen proving grounds in Maryland, where the officers' school is located. Four new buildings to house the enlisted men are to be constructed at a cost of $850,000.

Congress has authorized the expenditure of 2 mililon dollars per year for "educational orders" to meet the difficulties attendant upon early production of highly technical munitions.

The goal of the department is to keep the army abreast of ordnance developments in the rest of the world and prevent this country getting caught unprepared as it was at the outset of the world war.

TWO HOODLUMS SLUG AND SEVERELY INJURE ATTORNEY FOR UNION

Attorney S. Stanley Stoller, 32 years old, was severely injured yesterday by two men who slugged him in his office at 2319 Chicago avenue.

S. Stanley Stoller.

Stoller is attorney for one faction in the Marble, Mosaic and Terrazzo Helpers' union, No. 98. This faction sued last winter to oust a business agent, John Testo. The suit was dismissed two weeks ago, but Testo meanwhile had been voted out by the membership.

The attorney said the men, who carried pistols, searched him, but did not take his money or watch. They struck him on the head and kicked him when he fell to the floor. They fled when two small dogs in the office began barking. According to Stoller, the men gave no indication of the motive for the attack.

RELIEF PROBLEM TO BE TAKEN UP BY CITY COUNCIL

A special meeting of the city council on Tuesday will be devoted to the relief situation. This decision was made yesterday after the council finance committee heard complaints from organized reliefers about the recent 15 per cent cut in relief food budgets.

Ald. J. M. Arvey [24th], chairman of the committee, said he will confer Monday with the I. W. A. delegates and Leo M. Lyons, Chicago relief administrator.

AIR LINES DRAFT WINTER FLYING SAFETY RULES

Agree on Slower Speeds, Weather Regulations.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

For the first time in the history of the aviation industry the representatives of all the air lines in the United States yesterday commenced to draft regulations for a new winter flying technic that is intended to promote safety in air transportation for the entire country.

Called together at the Blackstone hotel by the Air Transport association, the air line operators informed the members of the Civil Aeronautics authority that they will agree upon certain new safety procedures. When this new program has been outlined it will be presented to the CAA and to the authority's new air safety board for ratification.

Impossible Under Old Law.

This safety program is the second major problem which the presidents and operations officials of the country's air lines are presenting to the CAA. Under the old air mail act that was superseded by the CAA it would have been impossible for the operators to agree upon a definite and uniform safety procedure, because such agreement would have constituted collusion.

The safety program now under consideration will include the following points:

1. Changes in flight schedules to allow flying at slower speeds.
2. Agreement on flying at reduced throttle—50 per cent instead of 65 per cent of available power—in order to provide a greater power reserve at all times, to reduce wear on engines, and to increase engine reliability.
3. Adoption of a set of field weather regulations so that one line will not operate trips in types of weather in which other operators refuse to fly.
4. Closer coöperation on weather reporting, engineering, radio, trafic, and advertising.

Will Be Effective Sept. 25.

Ralph Damon, vice president in charge of operations of American Airlines, was named chairman of the committee to draft this program. It is expected that the new winter flying technic will be adopted on Sept. 25, when daylight saving time at Chicago and in other cities reverts to standard time. The plans must be ratified by the safety board of the CAA before that date.

It became known yesterday that the air line executives presented concrete figures to the CAA members on the proposed revisions of air mail pay in conferences held on Tuesday and yesterday. These conferences were considered so important that not one of the country's operators was missing. W. A. Patterson, president of United Air Lines, who recently suffered a broken bone in his right foot while playing ping-pong, attended in a wheel chair.

CHICAGO AIRPORT PLAN READY FOR COUNCIL ACTION

City, Railroad Agreed on Ordinance Proposal.

The city and the Chicago & Western Indiana railroad at last have agreed on terms of the ordinance that is to make possible enlargement of Chicago airport. The compromise ordinance proposal that has been accepted by attorneys for both parties was submitted to the city council yesterday.

At the suggestion of Alderman Bryan Hartnett [12th], chairman of the council committee on aviation, the draft was referred to his committee for consideration next Friday. At that time the entire council will sit in committee. The measure then will be ready for passage at the next council meeting.

Mayor Pleased with Action.

"It looks as if we really are making progress toward expansion of the airport," said Mayor Kelly. "This is the most optimistic news the council has received in months."

Assistant Corporation Counsel Joseph F. Grossman explained that while the railroad's attorney, J. R. Barse, has indicated the proposal is acceptable, the railroad has forwarded no formal notice to this effect. There is no reason to believe the road will object to the ordinance inasmuch as Barse has been in touch with the company throughout the negotiations.

The measure also must be approved by the Bankers Trust Company of New York, trustee of the railroad's bond issue. The bank has been kept informed of the railroad's negotiations with the city, and a copy of the proposed ordinance will be mailed to New York today. The trustee is expected to approve it.

State Board Must Approve.

Grossman added that even after the C. & W. I. trustee and officials have approved the proposed ordinance, it must be accepted by the Illinois commerce commission. He said there would be no reason why the commission should disapprove if the railroad was willing to move its tracks.

Enlargement of the airport is contingent upon removal of the C. & W. I. railroad tracks that bisect the square mile area bounded by 55th and 63d streets and Cicero and Central avenues. Only the southern half of the field can now be used although both sides have been developed as a flying area.

The railroad has agreed to deed to the city the right of way on the airport in exchange for a new strip of land, with the necessary tracks and facilities. The city has agreed to furnish these without cost to the railroad.

Grossman, in a letter to the council, in which he submitted the proposed ordinance, said the measure was considered fair and equitable to all parties.

NEVER SHOT, BUT BULLETS GIVE HIM LEAD POISONING

"Here's a claim approved by Commissioner Allman," Chairman Jacob M. Arvey told the council finance committee yesterday. "It's for Policeman William O'Brien of the Racine avenue station, a hospital bill of $313 for curing him of lead poisoning."

"Lead poisoning?" demanded Ald. George D. Kells [28th]. "Who shot him?"

"He didn't get shot," Avery answered. "He was poisoned handling cartridges on the police pistol range." The claim was allowed.

17 NAVY BOMBERS REACH HONOLULU AFTER OCEAN HOP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HONOLULU, Hawaii, Sept. 7.—Seventeen patrol bombers of the United States navy descended to Pearl Harbor here today after a smooth 2,570 mile ocean flight from San Diego, Cal. The time was 17 hours 21 minutes.

The huge seaplanes, known as Patrol Squadron No. 1, was led by Lieutenant Commander A. P. Storrs III. Since the United States began flying its larger planes to the Hawaiian outpost, the transfer now really has become "routine" as today's flight was described.

French Plane At Azores.

New York, Sept. 7.—[Special.]—The 41 ton French flying boat Lieut. De Vaisseau Paris which took off from Port Washington, N. Y., yesterday, arrived at Horta, the Azores, today. The flying time was 23 hours 38 minutes. The plane is on an experimental trans-Atlantic round trip.

U. S. APPEAL MAY SET PRECEDENT IN BRIDGES CASE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—(AP)—The government today appealed to the Supreme court a deportation case which may affect the status of Harry Bridges, west coast C. I. O. leader, against whom deportation proceedings are pending.

Solicitor General Robert H. Jackson and Gerard P. Reilly, labor department solicitor, asked the court to decide in the case of Joseph G. Strecker of Hot Springs, Ark., whether an alien member of the communist party is subject to deportation under a 1918 statute.

Strecker came to this country in 1912. In 1933 he filed a petition for naturalization, but before this procedure was completed, deportation proceedings were begun. He joined the communist party in November, 1932, and quit paying dues in February, 1933.

ASLEEP FOR TWO MONTHS; DEATH TAKES BABY BOY

A baby boy who fell asleep July 13, when he was a little less than a year old, never awakened. Yesterday he died in St. Mary's hospital. A physician expressed the opinion that a seemingly trivial accident last September caused death.

The infant, Frank Krygowski, was tipped out of his carriage as his mother, Mrs. Catherine Krygowski of 3645 South Paulina street, was wheeling him near McKinley park. At the time he appeared unhurt.

He became ill later, however. The sickness was long continued. In June Dr. Frank Derengoski diagnosed the disease as traumatic meningitis. Supposedly it was caused by the accident. The coroner's office will examine the body to verify the diagnosis.

IDENTIFY SUICIDE VICTIM.

The man killed beneath the wheels of an Illinois Central electric train at the 56th street station Tuesday was identified yesterday as James Gilmartin, 48 years old, of 5538 Cornell avenue. A coroner's jury found that he committed suicide.

APPLE PIE ORDER

By CALEB

THE CONVERSATION turned to apple pie—to the days of boyhood when the high spot in a busy afternoon was a portly wedge of crisp crust, dripping thick and golden syrup against a spot of yellow cheese at the edge of the plate.

"We used to go swimming in Lake Michigan every day in the summer, no matter how cold the weather was or how the waves rolled in. How well I remember the fun of jumping in the surf, battling the big breakers as the undertow snatched at ankles and waist. You can imagine how hungry we were after an hour of that.

"About four o'clock we'd race for the house, where we always found an apple pie on the kitchen table with tall, empty glasses beside it. We'd reach in the ice box for a pan of milk, fill the glasses—and attack the pie! Apple pie doesn't taste like that these days!"

Immediately there was an argument. At last Miss N——, receptionist in our tearooms, was called upon to arbitrate, and she suggested, practically enough, that the matter be settled by actual test.

"To make it fair," she said, "the pie must be served at four o'clock on a cool afternoon. You must have had a strenuous day with plenty of physical exercise. You furnish that part of the test—I'll furnish the apple pie and glasses of milk." It was agreed that such a test offered the only solution, and a date was set for the research.

On the big day Miss N—— was on hand in the English Room, eyes twinkling through shining spectacles, determined to see full justice done, and no quarter asked or given. Each investigator chose his own pie—to allay any suspicion of special preparations—and the test was on.

The pie disappeared as if by magic. It was unanimously decided that a single piece offered too slender a basis for decision, and a second helping followed. An immediate verdict was returned. It was ruled that the art of making apple pie has waned not one whit, and that any dulling of the edge of boyhood appetites was offset by whatever technique our pastry chefs employed.

"And now," said Miss N——, wagging an admonitory finger, "let me hear no more such talk about the lost art of making apple pies. We've not been here all these years without learning a thing or two about pies—as many can testify who've eaten them here—man and boy, girl and woman, for as long as I can remember."

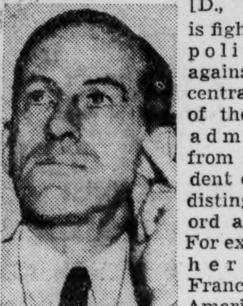
TYDINGS TWICE DECORATED FOR SERVICE IN WAR

Maryland Senator Now Purge Target.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Senator Millard E. Tydings, [D., Md.], who is fighting for his political life against the concentrated power of the Roosevelt administration from the President down, has a distinguished record as a fighter. For extraordinary heroism in France with the American expeditionary forces, in which he rose from the ranks to a lieutenant colonelcy, he was awarded the distinguished service cross, the distinguished service medal, and three divisional citations.



Senator Tydings. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

Senator Tydings, who is 48 years old, is exceptionally modest about his war record in his campaign speeches and in the literature distributed by his headquarters. His distinguished service, however, is well known to his former comrades in the 29th division and other war veterans of Maryland, who are solidly supporting his campaign despite his vote in 1936 against immediate payment of the $2,237,000,000 soldiers' bonus.

Legion Condemns Roosevelt.

The recent Maryland state convention of the American Legion adopted a resolution condemning President Roosevelt's invasion of the free state in an effort to drive Senator Tydings from office. The resolution disavowed political partisanship, contending that Americanism versus dictatorship was the issue.

Last Saturday night Senator Tydings was the guest of honor at the annual convention of the Twenty-ninth Division association in Baltimore. He commanded three machine gun battalions in the 29th division.

Senator Tydings was elected to the Maryland house of delegates in 1916 when 26 years old. He left soon for service on the Mexican border, where he was a private. When the United States entered the world war April 6, 1917, he was enlisted the first day. He was graduated from two schools of fire and was commissioner a machine gun instructor.

Decorated for Battle Plan.

While commanding the 111th machine gun battalion in the Meuse-Argonne operations north of Verdun, Oct. 8 to 30, 1918, he distinguished himself, according to the official citation.

In taking Etrayes ridge, known as Hill 361, his plan of battle for the machine guns covering the assault was so successful that it is now used in the textbook called "Infantry in Battle," used at the United States Military academy at West Point. For his contribution to machine gun tactics he was awarded the distinguished service medal.

Senator Tydings was awarded the distinguished service cross for extraordinary heroism in the Argonne drive, where he destroyed an enemy machine gun nest and captured three prisoners.

After the war Senator Tydings again was elected to the Maryland house of delegates, of which he was speaker from 1920 to 1922. He came to Washington in 1923, serving in the house in the 68th and 69th congresses, and in 1926 he was elected to the United States senate. Now he is running for a third term against Representative David J. Lewis, for whom President Roosevelt personally campaigned last Sunday and Monday.

Couple Found Slain on Lonely Illinois Road

East St. Louis, Ill., Sept. 7.—(AP)—The bullet pierced bodies of Mrs. Edna Harabedian, 39 years old, of Granite City, and S. R. Watson, a hotel night clerk, about 50, of St. Louis, were found late today on a lonely road near Nameoki, Ill. A .38 caliber revolver with two cartridges discharged was found nearby. Fred Pieper, deputy coroner of Madison county, said an investigation indicated Watson had shot the woman and then turned the gun on himself. Nine unfired cartridges were found in Watson's pockets, he said.

Gets Her Alimony

MRS. TESSIE CAMBERIS.

Pericles Camberis would rather give his wife his undertaking business than pay her $15 a week alimony, he said in court yesterday. She could pay him $20 a week to work for her, he suggested, and keep all she could make. But, he said glumly, business was bad.

Mrs. Tessie Camberis of 5427 Jackson boulevard conferred with her attorney, Norman Becker. She's 29 years old. She decided she'd rather have the alimony than the business, and Judge Thomas J. Lynch ordered Camberis to pay the $15 a week.

WOMAN IS FINED $400; ACCUSED OF HITTING CHILDREN

Mrs. Lucille Gartner, 4752 Beacon street, was fined $400 yesterday by Judge John V. McCormick in the Court of Domestic Relations. Mothers of two children testified that she had struck their babies. They were Mrs. Patricia Barton and Mrs. Adelaide Voss, former lodgers, who have moved to 843 Lakeside place.

Mrs. Gartner's mother, Mrs. Lavina McMullen, who said she is the operator of the lodging house, returned last night from Peoria. She said she would appeal her daughter's sentence. Five families who live in the place blamed ill will for the charges brought against Mrs. Gartner.

FAIL TO PAY FOR MELONS; JAILED.

Logansport, Ind., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Because Roy Musselman, 23 years old, Hollis Babb, 16, and Louis Working, 17, farm youths, failed to pay Charles Marquis, a neighbor, fifty-four cents each for stolen watermelons, as they agreed, the three are held in the county jail on petit larceny charge.

ILL WIND BLOWS THE WEATHER MAN NO GOOD

Forecast Goes Wrong, and He Tells Why.

Thousands of Chicagoans wondered yesterday what had happened to the weather man when they read the forecast for the day and then looked outside at the weather.

The forecast read: "Generally fair and warmer Wednesday, with moderate southwest to south winds." Outside the front windows, rain was falling. The sky was overcast. The wind blew from the northwest. And the day was cool.

It was embarrassing for C. A. Donnel, the chief meteorologist at the United States courthouse. But he explained it simply. The forecast, said Mr. Donnel, was an error in judgment.

The Rain Is Forced in.

"There was a high pressure area centered over the Hudson Bay region Tuesday night," said the weather man. "This meant cool winds, rain, and clouds.

"But we were on the outskirts of a low pressure area coming up from the southwest. We expected this kind of clear warm weather to extend up to the extreme northern part of Illinois.

"The line of demarcation between wet and dry I figured would be a little above Chicago, say about the Wisconsin line. Well, the northern high gathered such force during the night that it forced the rain down below Chicago so that we had nearly an inch here."

Mr. Donnel added that he felt just as badly as anyone else about the mistake. There is nothing to do, he continued, but take it and smile.

Never an Exact Science.

"Forecasting," he explained, is never an exact science. Critics of our business must keep in mind that similar mistakes are inevitable.

"We are surprised at times that we do as well because of the difficulty of the elements. There are two factors involved in forecasting—the laws of physics and the forecaster's own judgment. Our predictions average about 85 per cent correct.

"Sharp contrasting lines of wet and dry weather seldom occur. We can't make calculations to the exact mile. We think we're pretty good if we hit within a 50 mile radius."

STOP THIEF!

Twenty-one million families paid 740 million dollars last year to private power companies for home lighting and juice for electric ice boxes, washing machines, ironers, and clocks. The average family power bill figures out to be $34.18 for an entire year or less than 10 cents a day.

Lighting the house and running the household appliances costs the family about as much as beer or coffee. It is a little more than the amount spent at movies. It is a good deal less than the cost of smokes.

This little item, less than 3 per cent of the budget of an average family, has been the subject of a large amount of the effort of the Roosevelt administration. Billions of dollars are being spent by the government to create hydro-electric power, and to finance its distribution by municipalities, upon the pretext of helping the common man! With pad and pencil it can soon be determined that if the government provided free all of the power now supplied by the utility companies, the resulting saving in average household costs would be less than would be brought about by a small cut in the cost of food. And don't forget that what is received from the government gratuitously, be it power or a franked speech of a congressman, is paid for directly or indirectly in taxes.

Agitators, without anything to prove it, always assume that there is something in electric power which makes the supplying of it a public function. We had an example of that the other day when L. J. Wilhite, head of the municipal power authority, was asked by the TVA investigating committee whether he and his associates were not trying to ruin private power companies. Said Mr. Wilhite: "We call it the right of the people to operate their utilities." They have the undoubted right to operate any kind of business, utilities, moving picture shows, or grocery stores. But the right to engage in the other lines of business has not yet been used as an excuse for using public moneys to ruin private business men.

The public ownership of power is a racket used by politicians as an excuse for spending money and by radicals for getting communism started. It has no justification whatever as a means of combating the high cost of living. If the New Dealers really want to reduce living costs of the average man, they do not have to go to work on a $34 item. The opportunity is in the tax bill which the average man pays directly to the tax collector or indirectly in the higher cost of things he buys. The federal government expenditures alone this year are equal to $350 per family. In addition the federal government is offering an inducement to every city and state to increase its expenditures and therefore the amount that must be collected in taxes. If the annual tax bill of the country were reduced to where it was when Mr. Roosevelt took office, the resulting annual saving in indirect and direct taxes to the average American family would be six times the cost of the annual electric bill.

The Roosevelt administration is a fellow who collects $350 for services of doubtful value, and gets wildly excited about the overcharge in some other person's bill for $34.18, for services which every one requires and appreciates.

THE AUSTRIAN PRECEDENT.

Herr Hitler approached the seizure of Austria by demanding a representation of Austrian Nazis in the government. Chancellor Schuschnigg was called into the den at Berchtesgaden, intimidated by soldiers and told to give Seyss-Inquart a place in his cabinet as minister of the interior with command of the police. The chancellor was alarmed and tried to shunt the man into the ministry of justice. Hitler would have nothing but the interior department, and Schuschnigg, to save Austria, yielded, thinking that in complying he had satisfied even unreasonable demands.

That was just the beginning. Hitler was not to be satisfied except by annexation. Seyss-Inquart was only to open the door. Hitler awaited the provocation he was sure to find. It came when Schuschnigg precipitately ordered an election. Then on the pretext that anarchy was threatened and that much bloodshed would follow the furor came over the border and out of the air.

What assurance has Czechoslovakia that any yielding to Nazi demands means a settlement? If the Austrian precedent is worth anything an agreement strengthening the Nazi position in the country will be only the beginning of more trouble. Will there not be an incident at the appropriate time? Anything will do. Any group of irritated Czechs can provoke it at any time. A tavern brawl will be enough.

Another ominous suggestion comes out of the Austrian precedent. Schuschnigg, who as chancellor or head of state tried to save his country and serve its interests as he had both the right and the obligation to do, was arrested when the Nazis invaded. He has been in prison since then, subjected to humiliation and mistreatment, and Hitler proposes to bring him to trial for treason, of all things, and put him to death. That's a calculating brutality borrowed from an ancient practice when conquest meant the slaughter of the rulers and the enslavement of the people.

As brutality it is calculating because it is intended to give notice to rulers of small states elsewhere which may find themselves in Hitler's path that resistance, if it has to be overcome by force, will mean death to the chiefs of the opposing government. President Benes is supposed to consider the fate of Schuschnigg and draw a lesson from it.

In Czechoslovakia Herr Hitler wants the land, just as he wanted Austria. The Germans on it are only an excuse and a good one appealing to national sympathies. The Germans taken into Italian territory have suffered real and humiliating injuries. Because they are fewer than 300,000 and the Germans in Czechoslovakia over 3,000,000 cannot be the reason for ignoring them if Germans everywhere in post-war Europe are all equal objects of Hitler's concern. Or are the Italians next?

SOFT BOILED FOR AN ENGLISH BREAKFAST.

The combination of New England Irish and Yankee stock and tradition in Ambassador Joseph Kennedy would, it was thought when this gentleman was accredited to the court of St. James's, give the English something new to look at and present them with a social problem. English society is altogether too charming and fascinating. The American hard boiled egg almost immediately has his shell taken off and is soon running all over a silver platter, sunny side up and not even crisp around the edges. He is all yellow, white, and fluid.

America has tried one after another. The best of them surrender and the worst of them get into Westminster abbey. When Mr. Kennedy refused to go into short pants his fellow countrymen thought this two way rebel was going to be too much for the blandishments which soften up the toughest democrat. But keeping out of short pants is not a guarantee of keeping out of a barrel. Reports from London indicate that the Yankee Irishman has gone the way of all flesh. He might have stood off Mr. Chamberlain, Lord Halifax, and Sir John Simon, but the royal family has been too much for him. If Mr. Kennedy could not hold out against English parlor-power politics the American cause is probably hopeless.

It is too much for our fellows—"this royal throne of kings, this sceptered isle, this earth of majesty . . . this precious stone set in the silver sea . . . this blessed plot, this earth, this realm, this England."

They see it as Henry James saw it when it was unlocked by an excellent bottle of Burgundy at dusk—"the isle is full of noises, sounds, and sweet airs that could delight." And when a countess smiles, an earl unbelts his dignity, or when a royal highness is gracious, the Bunker Hill monument loses its solid substance and fades into the rebellious past.

It can't be held against the English if they, knowing the power they have, use it to win the services of American diplomats and bulwark themselves with the might and strength of the United States. A garden party is a small price to pay for this and no American diplomat apparently can hold his own.

All our diplomats in Europe now—possibly Hugh Gibson should be excepted—are making American alliances for their hosts and they may be on instructions from Washington. American governments seem to think they are in good company when they are winning the approval of the British patron who is called a cousin. When Uncle Sam goes abroad he is not mature enough to be an uncle. He is little Sammy.

THE CHEMICAL STATE OF A FUROR.

The next great evolutionary strides the human race makes may be under the guidance of such men as have been meeting in Milwaukee as members of the American Chemical society. They are taking charge, through their experiments and discoveries, of factors which may modify and control human destiny, with the use of vitamins, hormones and chemical properties, infusions of which may give man a firmer grip on controls to follow the course he wants.

The world today is the football of men who have chemical deficiencies or excesses. Glandular morbidities, over-productions or starvations have deadened some reactions or overstimulated others so that the person acts abnormally and is the victim of emotional storms or of paralyzing frigidities out of which come strokes of statesmanship threatening the world with disasters and engulfing people in death and suffering.

All the despots are morbid men whose emotional outlets are either clogged when they should act normally or are magnified so that all restraints are lost. Undoubtedly any one of these mad men could be treated for emotional disorders by having the proper infusions squirted into him to reduce the emotional intensity and increase the effects of counterbalancing phases, such as those associated with charity, rationality, humaneness and good will. The proper lysates even such as are now known to science might soon deflate such autocrats as Herr Hitler and Duke Mussolini and bring them to a state of mind in which they would arise in the morning content to take two or three breaths of good air, eat a hearty breakfast, and sit around in the sun for a while communing with the flowers and wishing their neighbors well.

Chemical treatment unquestionably could reduce the megalomania, correct the feeling of inferiority which produces so much fury, and bring the egotism into a kindly relation with life. The autocrats need a clinic.

AFTER THE MAYTAG STRIKE.

[Newton (Ia.) Daily News.]

We note that the findings of the military commission, which was in charge of things here in Newton for a little over a month, have been denied to date to Jasper county authorities. The military says that final authority as to the disposition of these rests with Gov. Kraschel, and it is understood that the governor intends to look these over before releasing them presumably in his own time.

No attempt is intended here to hold brief for the county authorities as against the state officials, or vice versa. But we are at loss to understand the point that these matters should not be available to the regular law enforcing agencies of the county. For a month's time they were divested of any authority to obtain information on their own. The state was spending upward of $25,000 to do it through the military. It would seem after that tremendous expenditure that something tangible in the way of a review of what took place should be available.

We hope the governor isn't attempting another "hidden ball" trick, so as to speak with regard to the Newton situation. Just what is so "mysterious" about these records, anyway? If they are so secretive, maybe there is something of remarkable note. And surely that should be placed in the open at once. It just seems unusual that a mere perfunctory report of what the military commission and the military authorities did while in Newton should be shrouded in all sorts of gubernatorial mystery.

What's the secret?

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THE "DELICIOUS VICE."

Being an addict of the "delicious vice," which is reading in all its forms, we devoted a large portion of Labor day, when more sensible people were out sunning themselves, to polishing off two choice specimens of that branch of modern fiction called murder mysteries. They were picked up almost at random from a circulating library, but they proved to be treasure trove.

They were not only diverting, with many touches of light and graceful humor against the background of melodrama, but they were also educational. We now find ourselves glutted with potentially useful information on procedure in the British criminal courts ["Trial and Error," by Anthony Berkeley], and on the intricate art of chime-ringing, or "change-ringing," as they call it, in provincial English churches ["The Nine Tailors," by Dorothy L. Sayers].

As a rule the English murder mystery tales are better than the American, for our taste. They are more scholarly, more skilfully written, and generally riper in craftsmanship. In addition they are more generous in length, and thus they prolong the dissipations of victims of the "delicious vice."

Perhaps they have the advantage of literary associations, carrying agreeable overtones. Murder in the United States means merely raw newspaper sensation; but murder in England somehow gets tangled up with Dickens, mysterious figures in the fog, sinister oriental creatures along the Limehouse docks, good old Scotland Yard, honest old Dr. Watson, and grand old Sherlock Holmes.

Counter Revolution.

Contrib H. M. M. thinks that she has found Marie Antoinette in reverse. A woman was buying supplies in a commissary and when told that there was no more cake she said: "Then I think I'll take a loaf of bread."

RAIN IN THE PINES.

Listening in dark to the soft dripping
Of rain in the pines, to the clear sound
Of crystal beads slipping
Down long, green needles to the ground;
Harkening to peace abroad in the night,
Slippered in silence, deft as a fawn
Moving through nets of rain too slight
To hold a dream until dawn;
So I shall sleep, and let the rain
Weave its white snare for all unrest,
String its cool crystals in a chain
To lie in quiet on my breast.

Revival of Ford Joke.

Henry Ford recently took his ease at the summer home of a friend in northern Michigan, says the Iron Mountain [Mich.] News. A woman of the neighborhood, unable to start her automobile, came there for aid, asking:

"Does any one around here know anything about a Ford car?" The host turned to the industrialist and said:

"Henry, do you know anything about a Ford car?" But Henry didn't help to start it.

More about the wooden horse at the gas station on Green Bay road, in Evanston: Besides its fly net the horse now wears a sign around its neck which says, "Yoo hoo, Planter's Daughter." They evidently want to find the person who sent the recent article to the Line.

The horse originally came from an Evanston department store, where it was used to test the size of riding trousers and accessories bought there by young women. In the beginning it was a dappled gray. Since then it has been several other colors. Leglone.

[Note by Linemaster: They found her, and "Planter's Daughter" has had a nice chat with the horse.]

JUNIOR'S STATE OF MIND.

Vacation's over, school begins.
With lagging steps once more,
Reluctantly our Junior goes
To enter learning's door.

Dear teacher, if he seems a dunce
And tries your patience sore
It is because of pleasures past
That he is mooning o'er.

He dreams of tricks he taught his pup—
Stunts with the neighbor's goat—
Pet turtles that he trained to race
Within a castle moat.

And then that glorious circus day!
An acrobat was he,
Whose daring feats held all spellbound
That gathered there to see.

Remember, teacher, and be kind
He dwells in days just left behind.

CHEST PAIN NOT ALWAYS OF HEART ORIGIN.

It perhaps is unfortunate that some physicians and most lay persons regard every pain or abnormal sensation within the chest as due to angina pectoris. The chances are better than 2 to 1 that this is not true. In fact, one safely may venture the assertion that a blockage within one of the coronary vessels [which supply the heart with blood] is diagnosed far more frequently than the facts justify.

There are many conditions that may lead to soreness near the breastbone, such as disorders of the spinal column, arthritis, gall bladder infection, inflammation of the stomach, neuritis, neuralgia, etc. Great care must be exercised not to become unduly disturbed lest the fear of the malady be worse than the ailment itself. This emphasizes anew the importance of accuracy in determining the origin of every form of discomfort which may be thought to lie within the thorax or upper abdomen.

But there is such a thing as heart pain resulting either from some weakness of the muscle or an obstruction along the course of one of the coronary channels. The significant thing is that trouble is experienced whenever the cardiac organ itself is receiving too little blood. As we know, certain arteries [coronary] furnish food to this structure, and we can understand readily that should one of these avenues be unable to transport its normal quota, the cry for more may be sounded. But here we must make certain of the cause of the symptom. Is the organ actually diseased? Or has the signal been induced by overindulgence in tobacco, tea or coffee? Sometimes an overfilled stomach may stretch to such a point that great distress will be felt.

How does heart pain behave? That of angina does not throb. It is always continuous and may come on gradually, increasing in intensity to great agony, in some cases, and then subsiding slowly. It seems to be located in the middle of the body beneath the sternum. If it is much to the right or the left it probably cannot be traced to the "pump."

True breast pang occurs most often among those who possess highly developed emotions. A feeling of tightness, as though a steel trap were being drawn about the heart, may be complained of. Whether he is standing, sitting or lying down, the victim will resist every effort to move; the face is ashy gray in shade and sometimes is covered with cold sweat.

With a few individuals a neurosis may initiate an anginal seizure. If hysteria is at the bottom of the exhibition, great agitation is present, the patient throwing himself about the bed, uttering cries and groans. With coronary occlusion, on the other hand, although the afflicted person may be suffering intensely, he will answer questions intelligently and follow every instruction, changing his position as comfort may demand.

Nitroglycerin or amyl nitrite are considered to be our best remedies, as they are easy of administration. In fact, the occasional sufferer may carry in his pocket a vial of "nitro" tablets, one of which may be placed under the tongue should a sense of constriction arise. The object, of course, is to dilate blood vessels.

It may be well to provide a rest period for a week or two and to avoid cold bathing or any sudden chilling. Favorable effects are also brought about by limiting the supply of tobacco—perhaps omitting it for a time—and reducing the intake of tea and coffee, although caffeine may ofttimes prove a valuable drug.

But no one should jump to the conclusion that the cardiac apparatus is diseased just because a sharp chest twinge has been experienced. There may be many other factors, no one of which bears the slightest relation to the circulation.

NEURASTHENIA.

E. A. writes: What is the cure for neurasthenia?

REPLY.

This is a large order. We have a leaflet going into the subject more fully than we can here. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for this sheet.

CATARACT.

T. G. writes: Can anything be done to stop the progress of a cataract?

REPLY.

No, but the rate of progress is variable. Sometimes the development appears to remain stationary for a long time. It may take years for senile cataract to cause complete blindness.

DOCTOR SHOULD ADVISE.

F. C. writes: Does a cyst on the ovary always require operation?

REPLY.

No. Something depends upon the size and the character of the growth. Some few, however, may undergo malignant degeneration. Your physician should advise you.

SOME MAY BE AFFECTED.

M. H. writes: Is epilepsy inherited?

REPLY.

The tendency is. An epileptic parent may have normal offspring, but some of the children may be subject to the disease.

ADD LEMON JUICE.

D. writes: To regulate the bowels you suggest a cup of hot water in the morning before breakfast. Hot water nauseates me. Will cold water have the same effect?

REPLY.

Not quite. Try putting some lemon juice or sugar in the hot water; or take weak tea or coffee.

LIKES THE COLLINS "LINE."

Rossville, Ill., Sept. 5.—As one who has taken and read The Tribune for more than forty years I want to commend in high terms Charles Collins, present conductor of the "Line o' Type." To my mind the best since B. L. T. At least as good as R. H. L. The Line is preëminently a man's column. June Provines is good in her line and I always read her "Front Views and Profiles." I rarely read the "Line o' Type" while she conducted it. I hope you will continue Collins. I. A. Smothers.

NORTH AND SOUTH: SAME TYPES.

Columbia, S. C., Sept. 2.—This is the closing day of the annual meeting of the Veterans of the Confederate Army. In the parade the thin line of veterans was augmented by units from a nearby regular army post, state militia, women's organizations, Boy Scouts, etc., and led by the famous Marine band of our sea soldiers. The streets were profusely decorated with the various flags of the confederacy, including the old palmetto emblem of South Carolina, but in the streets and in the marching ranks the Stars and Stripes of a united country predominated.

It has been my privilege during years of service as a commercial traveler to be a visitor in cities where conventions of federal veterans and also of confederate veterans were held and my impression is that, divested of their blue and gray, the veterans of the two armies cannot be told apart. They are of the same identical type. They are all Americans first, retaining the consciousness that there is no division of states at present and never shall be again.

George Watkins.

ONLY ONE THING CERTAIN.

Chicago, Sept. 5.—I read with approval your editorial entitled "The Weeds Grow Fast." I like particularly the point you made that industry is not a guaranteed success. I think there is a definite failure on the part of many people to realize that in the very nature of things there is no such thing as guarantee in any part of life, except perhaps the guarantee that it will end. F. G. Gurley.

A NEW DEALER'S VIEWPOINT.

Chicago, Sept. 5.—It seems to me that your editorial denouncing Mussolini and his brutal decrees sprang rather from political motives of denouncing the New Deal than from a humanitarian sense of justice crying out against the black ignominy of a twentieth century inquisition.

Admitting that there is some basis for your fears and contentions and granting you the merit of an open and frank antagonist, allow me, as an American citizen and member of a minority group, to express my reasons for favoring the New Deal:

1. When voting for national issues and policies I vote as an American citizen rather than a member of a minority group, concerned solely with the country's welfare.

2. The minority has only to fear persecution when economic turbulence offers to the demagogue fishing in troubled waters a fair chance to hook the scapegoat. The New Deal planning to avert such a catastrophe, and adapt our new, complicated industrial order to the spirit of our constitution, enhances rather than endangers the security of minorities in America. H. R.

AUTO INSPECTION LANES.

Chicago, Sept. 5.—I hope this reaches the eye of a politician who would like to be the next mayor.

Here is a tip for him. There are a half million votes tied up in the auto inspection lanes. A half million voters are intimidated by police to go to those lanes twice yearly and waste a couple of hours doing it. They know those lanes are just so much more political pork. The original good idea is so far overbalanced by the loss of time that there is a half million votes for any one—black, red, or yellow—who will do away with them.

With expense as high as it is, it is nothing less than criminal to keep those lanes. Put the police out catching crooks—that is their job; not harassing citizens. Too high taxes and too many fool regulations will be the undoing of the present national, state, and local administration. J. W. Kellogg.

REMEMBERS YERKES FOUNTAIN.

Chicago, Sept. 5.—Noting the inquiry in your columns anent the electric fountain that once adorned Lincoln park and gave such great pleasure to the many thousands who congregated to see it in operation, I may say that I retain a rather vivid recollection of that attraction.

The fountain was, I believe, the first one in Chicago, if not in the country. It was the gift of Mr. Charles T. Yerkes, then magnate of our street car system. It was located, if I remember correctly, in the neighborhood of the Grant monument. I think it antedated the Columbian Exposition.

After the exposition was over its attraction waned somewhat, probably due to the fact that the exposition also had two great electric fountains in front of the Administration building which had been playing all summer long. At any rate, the fountain was shut down at the end of the summer of 1893. During the winter it was said that thieves stole the equipment of the fountain and the park board did not replace it.

The fountain, as I recall it, had a ring of strong jets that spouted to a considerable height, perhaps higher than the Buckingham fountain. It may be that I exaggerate because of the boyish impression that lingers with me. The fountain was not an ornamental affair, being built for utility rather than for beauty of structure.

I believe the water streams were much more vividly illuminated with stronger colors than the Buckingham and to my taste were therefore more impressive. The fountain had some smaller jets encircling the main battery. I do not recall any sprays.

It is regrettable that the park authorities' neglect lost this fine gift to Chicago. And this reminds me that the large limestone ball on a pedestal in front of the Academy of Sciences [I assume it is still there], is a relic of the Chicago fire, having been one of many such balls that ornamented the roof coping of the old county courthouse. I don't suppose the present park commissioners have any idea where this ball came from. There is or was another of these balls in Washington park near Drexel square entrance.

BOOKIES AND LICENSES.

Chicago, Sept. 5.—When the city council suggested licensing bookies—making it a legitimate business so the city could secure some revenue and remove the graft, Mr. Courtney objected. It was suggested that the applicant be investigated just as applicants for licenses for other businesses are investigated. Mr. Courtney said no.

Why don't he and his friend Horner repeal the law permitting gambling on the six race tracks around Chicago? These tracks are a school for gambling and when they leave in the summer we have a new crop of horse players for the books in the winter.

If bookies were licensed, the city would get some revenue. J. C.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

Letters to this department must be signed with names and addresses of writers.

JOINT OWNERSHIP.

Chicago, Sept. 3.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. A and B own a piece of property. B dies. No deed is made.

2. A makes application for a loan on property, loan to be paid by one of the heirs, with the deed put up in escrow in heir's name to be delivered to him upon A's death. All heirs sign deed. One of the heirs is granted divorce in court awarding her $20 per month. After two years have passed he has made no payments.

Now after all papers are made out and sent to county seat, A gets a letter stating that as the divorced one has not paid the alimony to his divorced wife [3] she is an heir to this share and [4] that there is a garnishment against his part.

5. Can that be done?

6. What would be the right way to get it through?

7. Would it be for the District court to reverse its decision in the divorce case? C. D. L.

1. You do not make clear whether the title was held in joint tenancy.

2. You do not make clear whether the heir whom you mention is to be the debtor or the creditor. You seem to say the former, but the latter is more plausible.

3. Her decree interest would be a lien on his share. We assume that this is what you mean.

4. It is not clear whether you mean a garnishment separate from the above mentioned lien, or that you are regarding the lien substantially the same as a garnishment.

5. Can what be done? We do not understand your question.

6. Employ an attorney.

7. No basis for such a reversal appears on the bare facts that you state.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

JUDGMENT COLLECTION.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. I owe $50 for rent. Landlord got court order and obtained judgment against me. How long does a judgment last?

2. If I bought property or an automobile in the future and they got a lien against them, could they by court order force me to sell either one?

3. If my wife bought property or an automobile, could they do anything to this?

4. If my wife had a position, could they garnishee her wages if the judgment is against me? Could they get judgment against her? I had no lease.

5. I did not refuse to pay this money, but I was out of work and they would not give me any time. I offered them what I could, but they would not accept it unless it was in full. O. L.

1. The limitation period on the judgment is twenty years.

2. They could force an execution sale subject to your exemption, which is $400 worth if you are head of a family.

3. As we understand it, the debt is for a family expense and this would authorize the creditor to collect from your wife.

4. They could obtain a judgment against her on the family expense theory. She would have no garnishment exemption, since she is not head of the family.

5. This does not alter the foregoing answers. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

SEE ROOSEVELT TRYING TO HEAD OFF LA FOLLETTE

Call Purge Third Term Political Scheme.

BY THORNTON SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Wisconsin, where Gov. Phil La Follette's third party already has made a bid for national support, eyes President Roosevelt's program to divide the Republican party and purge the Democrats as a move to forestall the governor as a national figure and to eliminate any one but himself as a leader of a "liberal" party.

The sentiment here is definitly that the President's purpose is to unite all of the left wing forces behind himself for a third term for President, but that he will have to do it without aid or comfort from the La Follettes.

La Follette Party Formed.

The La Follettes have their third party already organized and their purpose in starting early was to get the jump on any one else whose ambitions paralleled theirs.

The President's program is in direct conflict to the ambition that Gov. La Follette is known to possess, that is, to become the candidate for president of the so-called Liberal forces, either in his own National Progressive party if it takes full form by 1940, or of the Democratic party, if necessary, or expedient.

The hint that La Follette's organization of the National Progressives might be a move to support Roosevelt in 1940, is considered almost unthinkable here by those who have studied the history of the La Follettes in politics.

Phil Eyes Presidency.

"Philip La Follette has his own eyes on the presidency," said J. P. E. Wood of Janesville, Wisconsin member of the Republican national committee.

"The La Follettes are in politics for purely selfish motives and not for the purpose of supporting President Roosevelt or any one else. Phil got the first start on the third party and it is to be used for his own benefit, not Roosevelt's."

Mr. Wood also said that Roosevelt's expressed preference for Liberal Republicans to conservative Democrats will get him no Republican support in Wisconsin.

"The trend is just the other way," Wood said, "as will be demonstrated by the November election.

"If there were desperate Republicans who voted for Roosevelt in 1932 and 1936, they are back in the party now and thousands of Jefferson Democrats who fear for the future of their country, are back with them."

Bait for G. O. P. Aid.

Gov. La Follette, in proclaiming his National Progressives not only criticized severely the New Deal policy of prosperity by destruction and scarcity, but like the President, made a bid for Republican support by the principles he outlined. His speech, except for its government control of money and credit plank, was described at the time as based on sound Republican principles. It was considered at the time an invitation for Republicans to get on the La Follette bandwagon.

There has been little said publicly about the progress of National Progressives, but a statement comes from Madison from time to time that its growth is satisfactory to the governor. He is said to be confident that it will be wieldy enough by 1940 to nominate him for president or let him dictate the nominee.

Silent on Speech.

Gov. La Follette made no public statement but the word from his intimates was that the Progressives were greatly pleased with his statement that he preferred a liberal Republican to a conservative Democrat. This was understood that it might mean a split of the Democratic party with the President left heading the radicals and no place to lead them except into the Progressives.

Pensioner Sues City to Be Reinstated as Policeman

James E. Sheehan of 426 Englewood avenue filed suit in Circuit court yesterday to compel the civil service commission and Police Commissioner Allman to reinstate him as a city policeman. The suit says he was placed on the disability pension list in 1934 because of ill health. He was eligible for reinstatement a year later, the suit charges, but he was forced to take a leave of absence each year afterward.

Sings to "Live"

Peggy Fears singing.

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Saying she had to go to work because she was "down to my last string of pearls," Peggy Fears, once of the Follies and estranged wife of A. C. Blumenthal, began a singing engagement here last night. Miss Fears claims her former husband is $70,000 in arrears in payments of the settlement made when they separated.

Blumenthal Makes Reply.

New York, Sept. 7.—[Special.]—A. C. Blumenthal, theatrical producer, pictured himself today as a fugitive from his estranged wife, Peggy Fears. He is on the high seas, having followed June Lang, Hollywood actress, aboard the Normandie last Wednesday.

In his amended reply to Miss Fears' suit for $40,000 under a 1934 separation agreement, Blumenthal said he suffered humiliation and anguish as a result of Peggy's playful ways with other men and women while still clinging to her claim on him. The agreement, according to Blumenthal, provided that neither party would molest the other.

He said Peggy continually annoyed him "with telegrams, letters, notes, and phone calls, imploring and beseeching me to live with her." In a reply, Peggy denied everything.

38 BOYS OF '61 MARCH; ALL BUT 2 GO 15 BLOCKS

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 7.—(AP)—The stalwart "boys in blue" of three-quarters of a century ago mustered 38 determined but age worn marchers for the parade of the Grand Army of the Republic here today.

Nearing the sundown of life—the average Union army veteran is past 94 years of age—the proud, shuffling remnant of Abe Lincoln's northern forces counted only two casualties over the fifteen block route.

The other 36 passed the reviewing stand with gnarled hands stiffly in salute before Commander-in-Chief O. H. Mennet at the end of the line of march, which extended more than a mile and a quarter.

Observers counted 112 veterans riding in cars in the parade. Military officials in charge of the spectacle estimated the crowd at 60,000.

George Gay of Pepperill, Mass., gave way two blocks from the end and was helped into a nearby store. The oldest marcher was Samuel Emerson, 97 years old, of Skowhegan, Me.

FIND NEW CORN DISEASE HURTING ILLINOIS CROPS

Corn in some central Illinois fields is suffering from a new and unidentified disease, A. J. Surratt, federal crop statistician at Springfield, said yesterday. First signs of the disease are drying edges of the corn blades, giving the appearance of frost bite. This is followed by withering of the entire stalk, frequently with weakened joints. Farmers in Macon, Montgomery and other counties have observed that the disease is worse in corn growing on rich soil, Surratt said. J. C. Hackleman, J. H. Bigger, and A. L. Lang, crop specialists of the University of Illinois, have been investigating the malady recently in Montgomery county.

Army Attack Planes Hit in Air; Four Flyers Unhurt

March Field, Cal., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Two army attack planes on a training flight collided at 3,000 feet over Cajon pass today without a fatality. Lieut. James C. Jensen, pilot of one, and his passenger, an enlisted man, leaped out and landed unhurt with parachutes. Lieut. Murray A. Bywater, Salt Lake City, Utah, pilot of the other, with Sergt. Malone, gunner, brought his slightly damaged craft back to a safe landing at March field.

POUR PWA FUNDS INTO GEORGIA AS PURGE DAY NEARS

$819,954 Handed Out in Effort to Beat George.

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—The Roosevelt administration today set a new record in pouring relief funds into Georgia, with only a week remaining before the primary election in which Senator Walter F. George will try to retain his seat despite presidential opposition.

Representatives of the New Deal disclosed here that a new all time mark was established for the large number of PWA projects in Georgia approved in one day. Harold Ickes, PWA administration, in Washington approved allocations of $819,954 for thirty-three projects in cities, towns, school districts, and counties throughout the state.

In attempting to read Senator George out of the Democratic party, President Roosevelt has intimated that Georgia voters better send to congress a man he likes. The chief executive personally asked that George be defeated at the Sept. 14 primary.

Asks Voters to Spurn Threats.

"I have heard it suggested," Senator George said today in a campaign address at Thomaston, "that if you cast your vote for me you may expect to have cut off the stream of benefits and help that has been reaching our state from Washington.

"I call upon Georgia voters to spurn warnings from any source that the benefits of relief given by the government obligates a single honest man or woman to vote for or against any candidate."

The AAA administration headquarters in Georgia likewise took cognizance of the importance of the cotton crop control issue in the campaign and speeded efforts to appease disgruntled growers.

AAA representatives said that reports had been exaggerated of the amount of cotton being plowed under. They asserted that a survey of twenty counties in the state showed only 7,361 acres in that area has been removed from cultivation.

Anti-New Deal partisans pointed out, however, that since cotton is grown in virtually every county in Georgia, the AAA survey of only twenty counties is not a true portrayal of the situation.

Camp Cries for Quarter.

Lawrence S. Camp, the hand picked New Deal opponent of Senator George, complained today that foes of President Roosevelt have made Georgia a major political battlefield. Wide resentment against the President's interference in local politics apparently has swept Camp into a bigger fight than he had bargained for.

Camp, United States district attorney at Atlanta, said that virtually every anti-Roosevelt Democratic senator in the country had expressed himself in favor of George.

"Even the head of the Republican party in Georgia, recognizing that George is in accord with the views of that party, is advising Republicans to support Senator George," Camp complained.

According to a report Camp filed today with the senate committee on campaign expenditures, he has spent $10,260 in his campaign "irrespective of money that might have been spent by those of whom I have no knowledge."

CONCERT GOERS HABITUALLY LOSE KEYS TO HOMES

How'd you get in? That's what park officials would like to ask all the folks who lost their house keys at the concerts in Grant, Jackson, Lincoln, and Garfield parks this summer.

But they won't ask, of course. They're no busybodies. They'll be happy if people who lost the keys, an embroidery bag, a suitcase full of baby things, a family group picture, a long white suede glove, and hundreds of other things like that will just telephone Wabash 1650 and arrange to visit the lost and found department.

TWO GET JAIL TERMS FOR FRAUD WORKED ON NEWSPAPER BOYS

Two men accused of bilking newspaper boys by posing as employês of THE TRIBUNE were sentenced yesterday by Judge Joseph B. Hermes in Municipal court. Ephraim Tennes, 24 years old, a Gypsy, was sentenced to a year in the Bridewell. Edward Jelinek, 22, of 749 South Halsted street, got sixty days in the county jail.

Capt. Thos. Harrison.

Both men were charged with obtaining money under false pretenses. Victims testified the men induced them to pay in advance for papers that never were delivered. The arrests were made after an investigation by Capt. Thomas Harrison of the Chicago avenue police.

WOMEN BATTLE IN STORE STRIKE ON WEST COAST

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Women pulled hair and clawed each other's faces today in street fights that accompanied a strike here of 6,000 retail clerks. Thirty-five major department stores, including the city's smartest shops, were picketed in what labor leaders termed the biggest strike of its kind in America.

Police quickly broke up the scratching melees and warned pickets to stop manhandling employés desiring to work.

The clashes occurred near the entrance of Hale Brothers store, where 100 employés went through a picket line of more than 200 persons and at the Emporium, biggest San Francisco department store. There pickets complained employés were being convoyed to work by two guards.

The Retail Department Store Clerks' union demands a store-wide seniority plan and a registered list from which employés would be chosen. Employers want to choose their own workers.

DICTATOR PERIL IN PURGE TOLD BY VANDENBERG

Attack on O'Connor Held a Typical Example.

plated results is available in the case of the chairman of the house rules committee.

"If the rules committee can be gagged, the house is gagged, and thus an erstwhile independent congress is gagged. Therefore, the purge marks for slaughter the chairman of this powerful committee, who happens to have been true to his constitutional responsibility to legislate as his conscience, his courage, and his long experience have recommended. Thus he becomes peculiarly a trademark of the purge in its broader anti-constitutional implications.

A National Issue.

"This particular congressman and I are on opposite sides of the traditional party fence. I suppose we have voted differently most of the time. I am not discussing his votes. Let that record speak for itself in our traditional party fashion. I discuss solely the fact that he now personifies and dramatizes an issue that is bigger than votes. I discuss the chairman of the house rules committee and constitutional duties which devolve upon this position.

"I would not presume to volunteer partisan political advice to my political opponents. I am not now discussing a partisan campaign for a partisan job. The constituents of Congressman John J. O'Connor are entirely competent to choose their own representative without any unsolicited advice from me. I am discussing something else which rises above the quest of one seat in congress. I am discussing something which rightfully is of just as vital concern to me in Michigan and to every other citizen of the United States as it is to Congressman O'Connor's own particular electorate. I am discussing the preservation of representative democracy in America. It has disappeared elsewhere under other purges. I have a right to say that I hope and pray that no purge can throttle it under the Stars and Stripes."

M'CARRAN IS VICTOR OVER NEW DEALERS IN NEVADA PRIMARY

Reno, Nev., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Senator Pat McCarran, court plan opponent of President Roosevelt, said today, after winning a decisive victory for renomination over two 100 per cent New Deal opponents, that he will oppose the President whenever he is wrong.

"I will sustain and support the executive of the nation as I have sustained him in the past when he was right," the Democratic senator said. "I will oppose him when he is wrong."

Returns from 247 of the state's 262 precincts gave McCarran 15,882 votes compared with 4,750 for Albert Hilliard, Reno attorney, and 851 for Dr. John E. Worden of Carson City, state health board secretary.

Senator McCarran will be opposed in the November election by former Senator Tasker L. Oddie, who was unopposed for the Republican senatorial nomination.

The Democratic gubernatorial nomination was clinched by E. P. Carville, former United States attorney here. His opponent in the fall will be John A. Fulton, director of the University of Nevada School of Mines.

DEMOCRATS GO TO SMOKE PIPE OF PEACE TODAY

Meet in Springfield with Courtney Absent.

Gov. Horner and Mayor Kelly will share the spotlight at the Democratic state convention in Springfield today just as they did at the celebration of governor's day at the state fair three weeks ago. Again State's Attorney Courtney of Cook county, according to all indications, will be absent.

Peace and harmony are expected to prevail throughout the day's proceedings. The full strength of the Cook county machine delegation will be there but with no warlike intentions. It will have the votes, it is believed, to establish complete control of the session if it wants to use it. But the advance understanding last night was that the Horner control would not be disturbed.

Problem for Horner Forces.

In spite of this unruffled surface of the party's affairs it was believed that, without formal action on the floor of the convention or in conference, a momentous decision gradually will take definite form. That will be whether the Horner downstate forces will choose to go along with the Nash-Kelly organization in Chicago even at the cost of breaking with Courtney.

That choice may come in answer to the question whether the Horner allies will reopen the Hotel Sherman headquarters they had in the primary contest last spring and maintain their ward units separate from the regular ward organizations.

The question is not involved in the convention itself, but word reached Chicago from Springfield yesterday that the Horner leaders there are reconsidering their announcement of two weeks ago that the Sherman headquarters will be reopened next Monday.

Looks to Mayoral Campaign.

It was Courtney who insisted that the Horner-Courtney organization in Cook county must continue to operate independently for the fall campaign. It is believed that his friends have urged this upon him as a necessity in consideration of the mayoralty primary next Spring.

Courtney was asked several times yesterday whether he would go to the convention. In every instance, his reply was a short one.

"Let's not discuss that," he said in answer to one of the questions.

To his close associates this meant that he intended to remain in Chicago today. This decision is said to have been strengthened by the announcement in Springfield that Mayor Kelly had been chosen as one of the four principal speakers before the convention. The others are Harry B. Hershey, state chairman, who will act as both temporary and permanent chairman, Gov. Horner and Congressman Scott W. Lucas, nominee for United States senator.

Nash to Stay Home.

Mayor Kelly went to Springfield last night accompanied by some of the leaders of the county committee but without Chairman P. A. Nash, a victim of hay fever, who has left everything in the mayor's hands.

At the office of United States Attorney Michael L. Igoe it was said that the federal prosecutor, who was spending the day with Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, does not intend to go to Springfield. When he was absent from governor's day at the state fair he telegraphed that he was occupied with grand jury matters.

ROOSEVELT MAY ASK LEHMAN TO SEEK 3D TERM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today turned his attention to politics in his home state. He talked with Irwin Steingut, Democratic minority leader of the state assembly, about Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, according to reports.

Gov. Lehman wants to run for the senate. Many Democratic leaders want him to try for a third term as governor instead. In the event that District Attorney Thomas Dewey of New York is the Republican gubernatorial nominee, these leaders believe Lehman is the only man with a chance to beat Dewey.

Other political subjects occupied the President's mind, it was said. The selection of a strong party slate at the Democratic convention late this month in Rochester is essential to Mr. Roosevelt's plans for control of his party. A Republican ticket led by Dewey might work havoc with his political program.

Grand Jury in October to Hear Farm Murder

Fairfield, Ill., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Prosecutor Charles W. Creighton said today he would present the state's case against two young Tennessee women, charged with murdering Felix Shannon, before the regular grand jury which convenes Oct. 17. The state charges they shot Shannon at his farm home near Mount Erie on Sunday night, Aug. 21, after Shannon had picked them up on a highway. They are Mrs. Jean Brooks, 23 years old, of Elizabethton, Tenn., and Mrs. Beulah Honeycutt, 25, of Johnson City, Tenn. They accused each other of firing the fatal shots, Sherif Earnest reported.

Open New Lock

Naval training ship Wilmette in new $3,000,000 control works and lock at the mouth of river which was opened yesterday. View is westward toward outer drive bridge.

The $3,000,000 controling works and navigation lock at the entrance of the Chicago river were dedicated yesterday.

The U. S. S. Wilmette, commanded by Capt. Edward A. Evers, was the first boat through the locks. It was followed by the fireboat, Fred A. Busse, and a city tug, Chicago Harbor No. 4. Work of blocking off the remainder of the river channel began at noon, and all river trafic began using the new lock.

The project, under construction since 1935, was made necessary because the United States Supreme court ordered the Chicago sanitary district to reduce the diversion of lake water from 8,500 to 1,500 cubic feet after Dec. 31, 1938.

With the flow of water into the river reduced, engineers feared the river and drainage canal no longer would be able to carry off excessive rainfall. In such times, they said, the river would reverse its flow and carry pollution into the lake. The new lock is intended to hold excess water in check until the river once more flows westward.

WATSON ASSAILS ROOSEVELT AS CAUSE OF SLUMP

Fear of Roosevelt is the whole cause of the 1938 business recession, former United States Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, charged yesterday. He spoke at the first of a series of Wednesday luncheons sponsored by the Cook county Republican committee in the Hotel Sherman.

Watson said he approved the statement by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, that unemployment can be mastered only through the creation of work opportunities in private industry. He said that President Green did not go far enough in saying merely that the present recession is due to fear.

Officers of the committee said they were pleased with the success of the first noon rally. They will continue for the eight weeks until the November election, and will be open to the public.

TWO WAIVE HEARING.

Allegan, Mich., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Orville Evans, 24 years old, of Otsego, and Royal Thayer, 19, of Allegan, waived a hearing before Justice H. H. Cook today. They were held to the Circuit court on a charge of breaking into a local business house.

50 CIVIC LEADERS BAND FOR WAR ON DICTATORSHIP

Plan Nation-wide Drive to Fight Doctrins.

The spear head for a new attack on dictatorship doctrins in this country was forged yesterday. Fifty leaders of patriotic, civic, religious, and fraternal organizations met in the Bismarck hotel to form an organization that will lead the fight. The movement is being sponsored by the Constitution day committee.

"This is the first time that representatives of outstanding organizations have sat in council to work out a plan to combat forces seeking to undermine our government," said Julius H. Miner, general director of the Constitution day committee.

Pledges to Preserve Liberty.

"Today the world waves of despotism are beating against our shores. The word 'liberty' is mocked and jeered at. We are deafened by the ravings of foreign propagandists. Other nations may abandon their liberty—we will preserve ours."

A committee, headed by George E. Q. Johnson, former United States district attorney, was appointed to draft a proposed charter for the new organization. They will also nominate officers to be elected at the next meeting.

Nonpartisan and militant, the organization will be the model for others which will form a coast to coast chain in the battle against subversive propaganda, the founders believe.

Mr. Miner said it is hoped the main weapon in the fight will be the enactment of federal legislation.

Suggests Legislation.

Such legislation, said Miner, should compel all groups advocating subversive doctrins to exhibit periodically their entire membership, their sources of revenue, expenditures, oaths of allegiance, and other requisites for affiliation.

"All members and contributors should be made legally answerable and accountable for their utterances and deeds, and for any injury resulting from them," he declared.

Caution against infringement upon the constitutional rights of free press, free speech, and assembly was given by Capt. William Grace, state commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Critics of the American form of government must remain free to express their opinions, he said.

Named to Committee.

"The great danger to our government exists in those government officials who carry on in such ways as to create more anarchists and communists than all of the propagandists in America," Capt. Grace said.

He and Edward Clamage, state commander of the American Legion, were appointed to the committee.

Other organizations represented included the Chicago Association of Commerce, Knights of Pythias, Kiwanis club, Elks, Daughters of the American Revolution, American Youth league, American Patriots Against Foreign Wars, Women's Civic council, and Cook County Federation of Women's clubs.

BARBERS DIGGING, BAKERS PUSHING: LIFE UNDER WPA

Few Physically Fit for Tasks Assigned Them.

[This is the seventh article in a series on the mammoth work-relief machine in the United States. These articles have been prepared by three reporters after weeks of investigation. Today's deals with the physical unfitness of jobless workers who get jobs on the WPA.]

BY WILL O'NEIL.

Barbers digging ditches. Bakers pushing wheelbarrows. Machinists breaking pavements. No matter what their trade most of them are fed into the WPA hopper to be cast out onto heavy labor jobs. As one operator of a heavy industry plant said:

"The next time you look at a WPA loafer look at the job he has been handed. Chances are that it will be heavier work than you could find in most factories. Could you jump from a desk or a machine to a job like that without doing a lot of loafing?"

The Works Progress administration apparently isn't interested in the usual occupations of the men to whom it hands the business end of a shovel. If a man is fit and able bodied he is considered a competent person to muscle a pick or shovel. In relatively few instances "white collar" men may be allowed to sit at a desk and push a pencil.

Few White Collar Projects.

The white collar, or clerical, projects are few in number. They provide jobs for only a small portion of those who would prefer desk work. WPA offers jobs, but most of them are common labor.

WPA conducted a survey of the persons on its pay rolls in January, 1936. The program had just begun, and there were 2,423,814 persons on WPA. Of this number, 2,101,878 were men.

Neither at that time, nor at any time since, so far as could be learned, has WPA made any attempt to get such information as the race, place of birth, and other details about its pay rollers. A survey in June, 1936, showed that more than 62 per cent of those on the rolls at that time were less than 45 years old.

Occupations Listed.

The first survey [January, 1936] was concerned with the usual occupations of those on WPA jobs. Whether WPA once had ideas that such a work program might fit the normal job needs of the unemployed is not known. Nothing, apparently, has ever been done to try to fit most of the workers to their own kind of job.

The first survey showed that there were 529,000 unskilled industrial laborers and 205,000 farm laborers on the WPA pay roll. The others were not used to hard labor.

WPA listed 160 classifications of workers. The list included 2,343 commercial travelers, 4,914 building contractors, 5,585 railroad brakemen, 68,388 carpenters, 5,158 bakers, 6,405 barbers and beauty shop workers, and 17,395 machinists, millwrights and toolmakers. The survey lists about every imaginable job in this way.

The value of this list today is questionable.

Training Suitable for Some.

There are some trades represented on WPA for which work suitable to their training is available. Bricklayers can work on sewers, brick pavings, and building jobs. [There are many different kinds of bricklayers, however. Sewer brick layers, who receive $2 an hour, must know how to lay brick in compound curves—that is, a round sewer which must be built on a curve. But building bricklayers are laying some parts of sewers.]

Cement finishers are used on sidewalks and paving jobs. Carpenters are used on almost every kind of construction work. Stenographers and clerks can do their normal work, to a relatively limited extent, on WPA.

But for the mass of the 160 work classifications which WPA set up, there isn't anything to do but common labor.

Machinists and toolmakers, for example, are little, if any, more accustomed to shoveling clay than is the usual office worker. Even many of the men classified as factory laborers aren't used to WPA working conditions.

Unprepared for Conditions.

The bulk of unemployment, and therefore the bulk of WPA employment, usually comes in the winter months. Most WPA jobs are outdoor jobs. Men who have been working in heated buildings at light work for years are sent out into the cold to scratch the frozen ground.

The temperature may be low and the snow high. Or it may be rainy and muddy. Field work under such conditions calls for special clothing and equipment. But the man who is eligible for a WPA job is eligible because he hasn't any money. Which means that he can't buy the warm coat and gloves, or the boots and raincoat that he should have to work outdoors.

Relief authorities haven't had money enough to pay for food and shelter for those who couldn't get WPA jobs. The relief authorities haven't had the money to provide the men with the outdoor clothing that they need.

Some Are Chronic Loafers.

At first, investigation has shown, men tend to rebel against being forced to work under such conditions. Then, as time goes on, they give in to what seems to be inescapable. Their senses are dulled. Instead of a rebellion of the spirit, they lean toward petty grievances and quarrels.

In general, it might be said that the men on WPA are more or less a cross section of American working men. Some of them always were and still are chronic loafers. Some of them did a good day's work for a day's pay at their own kind of work, but can't do much on WPA. Some of them go on working hard on WPA just as they did in private industry.

This question has been raised:

Get 50 Cents an Hour.

Common laborers on WPA in Chicago receive 50 cents an hour. They get only $55 a month because they work only 110 hours a month. Skilled men, such as carpenters, bricklayers, and so on, are paid their regular rate per hour of work. They also are allowed to earn a greater total sum each month. The top for bricklayers and carpenters is $94 a month.

The number of hours these men work each month is determined by dividing the total amount they are allowed to earn by their rate per hour.

Another article on the gigantic machine that is the WPA will appear in an early issue of The Tribune.

Benson, Ariz., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—C. M. Zander, 61 years old, who has been campaigning for Democratic gubernatorial nomination next week, was killed when his plane crashed near here. Charles Grosso, his pilot, also was killed. Zander had been an Arizona political figure for 25 years.

ALLIANCE DROPS PLAN TO RAISE WPA SLUSH FUND

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—The Workers' Alliance of America, an organization of WPA workers allegedly dominated by communists, announced today it would abandon its plan to raise $50,000 to elect members of congress sympathetic with its aims for persons on relief.

David Lasser, its president, made the statement in a letter to Senator Morris Sheppard, chairman of the senate campaign expenditures committee, which recently warned the alliance that prosecution would be recommended if it persisted in soliciting funds from its members for political purposes.

"The United States congress," Lasser wrote, "in legislation since the start of the works programs, has given express approval to the operation of organizations such as our own. It does not consider us coercers or bribers.

"We all the more regret, therefore, that your committee has seen fit to threaten prosecution only against an organization representing the underprivileged—those who least of all desire or can coerce or bribe candidates for office.

"We are dropping—under protest—our plan for the $50,000 campaign fund. We will, however, with all the more determination, seek to mobilize the political power of the unemployed and WPA workers to put progressives into political office."

C. I. O. Electrical Workers Want Roosevelt Again

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 7.—(AP)—A resolution urging President Roosevelt to run for a third term was adopted unanimously today by delegates at the annual convention of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America, fifth largest member of the C. I. O.

RELIEFERS FIND MANY THINGS TO COMPLAIN ABOUT

Letters to State Office Are Analyzed.

What John R. [Relief] Citizen wants of the government that feeds him was shown yesterday by an analysis of 100 complaint letters received by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission. Here are samples of typical complaints:

A man living on government property objects to paying rent because he is on the WPA pay roll.

A husband asks for help in solving family discords; he is on the relief rolls.

A woman wants the CCC [Civilian Conservation corps] to clean her farm.

A wife wants a "hired girl" and medical care in confinement. She writes that the state's attorney of her county tells her she will be given such help if she leaves her husband.

Another Wants a Lawyer.

A prospective reliefer objects to turning in license plates for his automobile in order to qualify for the dole.

A WPA worker objects to paying his personal property tax.

Another man asks for an attorney to look into the needs of members of a social organization to which he belongs.

Eight persons sign a letter charging general discrimination and mishandling of relief funds.

A downstater complains that the local relief official, the township supervisor, is trying to get free labor for his farm.

The Spice of Life.

The kind of complaint that is the spice of a social worker's life is this one:

"I asked the supervisor for relief and he said there was no relief here," a downstate woman writes. "Do I hove to date him up and have a good time with him to get relief as he wants me to do?"

Also significant is that three-fourths of the letters were addressed to Gov. Henry Horner, and one-eighth of them to Washington although no federal funds are being used for direct relief.

Petition City to Restore Name of Crawford Avenue

Ald. Thomas J. Terrell [29th] yesterday introduced before the city council petitions from property owners asking the restoration of the name Crawford avenue to Pulaski road. He said the petitions were signed by $1,567 owners of 2-312 pieces of property representing 71 per cent of the frontage on the thoroughfare. The name was changed, 1931.

6 CONVICTED OF RELIEF FRAUD; 3 SENTENCED TO BRIDEWELL TERMS

Six men were convicted yesterday of obtaining relief money by fraud. Each was ordered to make restitution. Three were sentenced to the Bridewell and three were placed on probation by Municipal Judge Oscar S. Caplan.

The defendants, their penalties, and offenses are:

DOMINICK PANOZZO, 12431 Eggleston avenue, ninety days in the Bridewell and $100 fine. He received $220 in relief although he had $1,000 savings.

PAUL EICHORST, 5004 South Aberdeen street, thirty days in the Bridewell and $25 fine. He received $97 relief while two sons were employed.

JOHN PICERKOWSKI, 1400 North Campbell avenue, five days in the Bridewell. He got $151 in relief checks while two daughters had jobs.

GEORGE SAM, 1933 Dayton street, probation for one year. He received $665 while working as a waiter.

PETER ANOSTAS, 4645 Arthington street, probation. He got $701 in relief money while he worked in a fruit market.

MIKE DRAGOVICH, 1711 Laflin street, probation. He received $81 in relief while employed as a laborer by the city.

The cases were prosecuted by G. B. Foley, attorney for the Chicago Relief administration.

PRESIDENT'S SON, JAMES, AGAIN AT THE MAYO CLINIC

Rochester, Minn., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Mayo clinic physicians tonight announced James Roosevelt, son and personal secretary of the President, would be operated on next week for a gastric ailment. He probably will be there several weeks.

Roosevelt has been here twice this year for treatment of a small gastric ulcer. He arrived yesterday.

Dr. George Eusterman, head of the gastric section of the clinic, said: "The results of treatment were rather disappointing, and Mr. Roosevelt will go into the hospital tomorrow for pre-operative preparations and will probably be operated upon the first of the week."

MILK PRODUCERS TO FIGHT PRICE DICTATOR THREAT

Fear Boost Would Hurt Their City Market.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace is expected to meet with strong opposition when Agricultural Adjustment administration officials make further attempts to set up price fixing machinery in the Chicago dairy territory. Dairy farmers likely will join distributors and consumers in opposing the federal control plan.

Wallace is now price dictator in 21 markets, including New York.

Organized dairy farmers in this region assert they will give little encouragement to a government hearing on the Chicago milk question. The hearing is the first step in establishing a milk price dictatorship under the 1937 federal marketing agreement act. A few independents have asked for a hearing.

Fear Price Breakdown.

Representatives of the organized dairymen fear that there would be a break-down in the milk price structure if Wallace should take control to boost farm prices. Organized farmers in this region are now being guided by A. H. Lauterbach, new general manager of the Pure Milk association, who is credited in the east with having handled the Philadelphia milk market for three years so that government aid was not needed.

Lauterbach, former head of the dairy section of AAA, is not encouraging the establishment of a government price fixing machine for the milk produced by his organization's 14,500 farmer members in Illinois, Wisconsin and Indiana.

When Lauterbach was questioned yesterday concerning his attitude toward a federal order regulating milk prices in Chicago, as is being done in New York City, he said:

"It must be understood, first of all, that in recent months New York producers have received approximately one cent per quart less for their milk than Pure Milk association members have received."

Non-members Ask Hearing.

He explained that a federal order for the Chicago area has been discussed during the last several months at meetings called by producers who are not members of his association. These non-member producers have asked Secretary Wallace for a hearing. Pure Milk association directors have agreed to "go along," according to Lauterbach.

"If such a hearing is held," he added," it will be for the purpose of ascertaining whether a federal order would be helpful to producers in this area. The secretary of agriculture would have to give serious consideration to the question: Might a higher price to producers in the Chicago area at this time have the effect of breaking down the entire price structure?"

Prices Lower Outside Area.

He pointed out that not far away from Chicago a tremendous volume of milk is being manufactured into butter, cheese and evaporated milk at prices much below the price Chicago fluid milk producers are now being paid. "Fluid milk producers for Chicago are not receiving a fair share of the consumer's dollar—neither are those who are producing milk for butter, cheese and evaporated milk," said Lauterbach. "But, due to good feed conditions and plenty of milk cows, we find ourselves with all-time peak storage holdings of butter, cheese and evaporated milk. At the same time, increased unemployment has resulted in lower consumption than a year ago."

Lauterbach said dairymen in this section are now receiving 53 cents a hundred pounds above the evaporated milk code price for base milk produced under stringent sanitation standards.

"Before asking Secretary Wallace to issue a federal order regulating fluid milk prices in the Chicago milk shed, Pure Milk association members must seriously consider all these factors. Chicago fluid milk producers do not want to lose their fluid milk market. It behooves them, therefore, to watch that the fluid milk price they receive does not rise too far above the manufactured prices and result in the loss of their fluid market," he said.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Marking 75 years of wedded life, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob H. Epman will hold their diamond wedding anniversary party here next Sunday. The grizzled 95 year old man and his 93 year old wife were born in Warsaw, Poland, and came to the United States in 1893. The couple has four living children, six grandchildren, and a great-granddaughter.

FARMERS SPURN MEETING CALLED TO BOLSTER AAA

Macomb, Ill., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—The host of farmers opposed to New Deal crop control schemes pointed today to the small attendance at an AAA meeting here last night as indicating the low regard in which that government agency generally is held.

Less than 600 persons were scattered among bleacher seats that had been prepared to accommodate a crowd of 5,000. The AAA meeting drew less than a fifth as many persons as the last rally of the Corn Belt Liberty league, which is leading the farm revolt against crop regimentation.

A public address system had been installed for last night's meeting and was all set to deliver the program to an overflow crowd. It remained silent, however, for the planned gigantic assembly turned out to be a quiet get-together of McDonough County Farm bureau members.

Earl C. Smith, president of the Illinois Agricultural association, was the principal speaker. In a vituperative attack upon newspapers of the country Smith boasted that his organization is backing a measure which will curb "the libelous attitude of the press" toward administrative schemes.

Claims Music Contest Put Prosecutor Dewey on Way to Law Career

Thomas E. Dewey, prosecutor of New York's racketeers, is an erstwhile singer turned in the right direction through a music contest, Mrs. George W. Langford of Ann Arbor, Mich., told leaders of the National Federation of Music clubs yesterday at the Medinah Athletic club. She spoke at a luncheon opening a four day council meeting of representatives from forty-eight states.

"Dewey won the Michigan state contest of the federation, but lost the district contest. Now his resonant voice is raised to a better purpose against crime," said Mrs. Langford, who is national education chairman. She pointed out that the federation's contests are as important in saving mediocre artists from an unsuccessful career as in encouraging artists of promise.

The Chicagoland Music Festival was cited by Mrs. Ira L. McKinnie, president of the Illinois Federation of Music Clubs, as an example of what publicity can accomplish in the cause of good music. A resolution praising THE TRIBUNE for sponsoring the Music Festival was adopted at the suggestion of Mrs. Louise E. Yager, former Illinois state president.

Public Schools Enroll 426,874 Pupils by Second Day of Term

Enrollment in Chicago's public schools reached 426,874 yesterday, the second day of the term. Of these, 130,128 are in the high schools and 293,569 are in the elementary grades. Last year the enrollment was lower during the first few days of the term because of the infantile paralysis outbreak.

On the second day of school last year, the enrollment for high schools was 112,593 and for elementary schools, 231,753. The number of pupils in the grade schools has been declining of recent years because of a declining birth rate, while more pupils are remaining in high schools because of a wider choice of subjects.

More than 180,000 students are registered in the city's parochial schools, it was announced.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Hair does not necessarily have to be long to lend itself to the high style. The above hairdress will appeal to the woman who likes the comfort of short hair and the chic of the uptrend. The front hair is swept up and back from the forehead and temples in brief waves that end in soft curls. This lift in front gives a modified high line and permits the hair to curl softly around the ears. The hair in back is quite short and is brushed up from the tapered neckline in a diagonal swirl that ends in short ringlets. This is a style that is not only practical but flattering and is an excellent one for the gray haired woman. FLORENCE MURDOCH.

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune.]

I hope I shan't be accused of rushing the season when the recipe for pumpkin pie is spotted in this column. I never was one to hold out until October for this autumnal dessert. Women are taking to between-season dresses and hats, these days, and it's high time they began thinking about between-season pies, the noblest of which is pumpkin.

Markets abound in big and little red, blue, and green plums these days, and seedless grapes are at their best. Plum and grape pies hint at fall in heartiness, but summer lingers on in their fresh fruit flavors. I class them, too, as between-season pies.

Fresh Plum Pie.

3 cups seeded plums
1 to 1¼ cups sugar
2 tablespoons flour
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 egg
1 tablespoon melted butter
Pastry for double crust

Damson plums, other small, tart plums, or the larger green gage, red or purple plums may be used. If the large, sweet plums are chosen, a cup of sugar will be enough. Use 1½ cups for damsons or other tart plums. Seed plums and cut them in pieces, if they are large. Mix flour, sugar, and salt with plums, and let stand while pastry is being mixed. Beat the egg and add to the filling with the melted butter. Pour the mixture into a pastry lined pan and cover with a pricked upper crust, pressing the edges of the pastry together firmly. Bake in a 450 degree oven for 10 minutes. Reduce heat and continue baking about 30 minutes longer at 350 degrees. If you're worried about the possibility of a soggy lower crust, break the egg into the pastry lined pie plate, and roll it around over the pastry before adding it to the filling. The egg white acts as a protection for that easily besogged lower crust.

GRAPE PIES.

Seedless grapes may be made into a two-crusted baked pie according to the recipe just given, using ¾ to 1 cup sugar, the latter amount if the grapes seem tart. Uncooked seedless grapes are attractive and good in a gelatin pie, lime or lemon flavor preferred for color and flavor blends. A cup of grapes may be folded into a souffle pie filling to be used in a baked crust, too. Pineapple chiffon pie with grapes added is delicious.

Coconut Pumpkin Pie.

2 cups canned pumpkin
1½ cups shredded coconut
1 cup sugar
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon allspice
3 tablespoons melted butter
3 eggs, slightly beaten
2 cups milk, scalded
Pastry for one crust

Combine ingredients for pie, mix thoroughly, and pour into pastry lined pie pan. Bake in a hot oven, 400 degrees for 15 minutes, then reduce heat to moderate and continue baking for 30 minutes longer, or until the pumpkin mixture is firm.

All kinds of sandwiches, from picnic to party, have been compiled in Mary Meade's booklet "The New Sandwich Maker." The booklet will be mailed for 5 cents in stamps or can be picked up for 3 cents at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Address mail requests to Mary Meade.

Slenderizing Daytime Dress

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

There is plenty of slenderizing flattery in this daytime dress. It's an informal type of frock which you can wear simply everywhere. Business women will like its softened, tailored lines, and all busy persons will appreciate its practicality. It makes up well in all types of silks, figured or plain, and sheer woolen also is a possibility.

The neckline may be styled with a rever collarline, a mode most suitable to women with heavier silhouettes, or it may be built up high and round and be given a contrasting lingerie collar, detachable for laundering. The sleeves are part and parcel of the shoulder yoke, and may be long and gathered into wrist bands, or allowed to flow freely over the upper arm. Shirring plays an important part, coöperating with paneling to achieve a softened yet long line from yoke to hem. Pockets may, if you wish, be used on the skirt, and either buttons or a slide fastener may do duty on the bodice.

Style No. 3017 is designed for sizes 16, 18, and 20 years, and 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 4¼ yards of 39 inch material.

Dinner-Dance and Two Teas for Buds Today

BY JUDITH CASS.

TWO teas and a dinner-dance make an ideal program today for the debutantes and their beaux. Miss Phyllis Eleanor Peter, Miss Jane Cecile Bulger, and Miss Edith Olivia Little are today's buds.

Miss Peter and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Frederick Peter, will receive at home, 990 East Illinois road, Lake Forest, from 4 until 7 o'clock. Miss Bulger and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Shea Bulger will receive during the same hours at 400 Sheridan road, Winnetka. Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Little and Miss Little, who live in Evanston, will be waiting for their guests at 8 o'clock at the Glen View club.

Mrs. Julius Peter of Grosse Pointe, Mich., has come for her niece's debut, and will assist in receiving. Pouring will be the debutante's elder sister, Miss Sylvia Peter, and Miss Carolyn Chapman, Miss Mary Hale, Miss Edith Farwell, Miss Jane Harper, Miss Tita Johnson, Miss Patricia Wilson, and Miss Dorothy Young. Miss Peter, who is remaining at home this winter, was educated in France and Italy, and at the Warrenton Country Day school in Virginia.

More than two dozen of Miss Bulger's former classmates at the North Shore Country Day school as well as her elder sister, Miss Kay Bulger, will be pouring at the tea in Winnetka. Miss Bulger is a graduate of the Convent of the Sacred Heart at Noroton, Conn. Last year she attended Barat college at Lake Forest, but her plans for the coming winter are indefinite. The Bulgers will be receiving indoors this afternoon, but if the day is nice, refreshments will be served in the garden.

Only Debutante Set Invited to Dance.

Only the debutante set has been invited to the dinner-dance.

Mrs. Curtis Nelson, the Littles' married daughter, will receive with them and Miss Little, who leaves on the 19th to enter Sweetbriar college. Miss Susan Clay of Winchester, Ky., has come for the party, and is visiting Miss Little.

Mrs. Alfred Eddy is giving a luncheon next Tuesday at her Winnetka home for Miss Helen Gambrill and Miss Bulger. Mrs. Harry J. Sullivan is giving a luncheon at the Indian Hill club on the 15th for Miss Bulger, and her uncle and aunt, the Ralph Gatelys, will give a dinner for her some night soon at the Palmer house. Miss Margery Shuman is planning a winter sports party at Christmas time for Miss Bulger.

Plan Mothers and Daughters Luncheon.

A mothers and daughters luncheon will be given next Monday at the Indian Hill club by Mrs. Vernon Welsh and Mrs. Paul Williams for Miss Miriam Bartlett and Miss Virginia Ballard. Miss Bartlett will bow formally at a tea tomorrow at the Winnetka home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney F. Bartlett.

Miss Jane Cheney's roommate at Sarah Lawrence, Miss Jane Bancroft of Rochester, N. Y., is arriving on Sunday for a visit. Miss Cheney's debut will not take place until Christmas time.

Miss Marjorie Rile of Montclair, N. J., is arriving Sept. 15 to visit her Sarah Lawrence classmate, Miss Georgette Owsley Hill, in Winnetka. Miss Hill's debut is to be a tea at the home of her parents, the junior Lon C. Hills, on the 17th. On the night of the 15th Mrs. Frank Fuller is entertaining at dinner and dancing at the Onwentsia for Miss Hill.

Other parties for this popular bud include a luncheon Mrs. Tracy Buckingham will give at the Casino on the 19th and a luncheon Miss Elsie Earle is giving on Saturday at the Indian Hill. Miss Earle's party also is for Miss Jane Bulger.

Plan Supper-Dance for Miss Alice Graff.

A gay supper-dance planned for next week is one Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Butz and his daughter, Jean Alice Butz, and Mrs. Butz's daughter and son, Jane and William Darrow, are giving Tuesday night at the Exmoor Country club for Miss Alice Graff, the debutante daughter of Mr.

Film Extra Awarded Evening Gown Title at Beauty Pageant

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—This resort's annual national beauty pageant was in full swing today. Events thus far have given Claire James of Los Angeles an edge on the other forty-three contestants.

Miss James, a movie extra entered as Miss California, won the acclaim of 3,000 spectators in Convention hall as she romped away with the title of "Most Beautiful Girl in Evening Gown."

Another preliminary winner was Marylin Meseke of Marion, O. She was chosen the "most perfect model."

But other girls are considered in the running for Miss America of 1938. Called out for second and third appearances were Miss Arizona, Miss Asbury Park, Miss Maryland, Miss Empire State, Miss Indiana, Miss Long Beach [N. Y.], Miss Brooklyn, Miss Birmingham, Miss Minnesota, Miss New Jersey, Miss Indianapolis, and Miss Utah.

The queen will get her crown at the concluding session Saturday.

The Housewife

A handy little item for the busy housewife is a lamb's wool duster made for cleaning bed springs. It has a fairly long handle and slips in between the metal coils easily and quickly, absorbing the dust instead of scattering it.

This duster is also recommended for furniture, lamps, shades, and bric-à-brac. To keep it clean simply rinse it in the suds of any of the bland soap flakes. Rinse out and then wring gently by hand and place it in room temperature to dry. Don't use heat to hurry the process.

Film Stars at Premiere of 'Boys' Town' in Omaha

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Spencer Tracy, Mickey Rooney, and Maureen O'Sullivan, film stars, came here today for the première of the movie "Boys' Town" tonight. The movie, which stars Tracy and Rooney, is based on Father E. J. Flanagan's boys' home. Miss O'Sullivan, who is not in the movie, said she "just came along for the ride."

Looking at Hollywood by Ed Sullivan

The Observation Post

New York, Sept. 8.—[Special.]—Having had some experience with contests, you wonder how the $250,000 Movie Quiz contest will work out, whether it will make friends or enemies for the cinema moguls. . . . The fans are given a list of ninety-four pictures, and they must answer questions about thirty pictures out of ninety-four. . . . The deadline will be Dec. 31, 1938, at which time prizes totaling $250,000 will be awarded. . . . First prize is $50,000. . . . Second prize is $25,000. . . . There are two $10,000 prizes, five $5,000 prizes, ten $1,000 prizes, and others. . . . The questions submitted are so simple that you can be permitted a mild bafflement, because the movie fan will go through them like Vandermeer's high, hard one goes through the National league groove.

The movies are depending on a fifty word letter as a tie buster. . . . Providing that 1,000 persons answered the thirty questions correctly, the winner would be determined by the letter which must accompany all answers. . . . This is where the howls will originate, because if a lot of them have the correct answers and yet lose a $50,000 prize because the judges prefer one letter to another it is just going to be too bad. . . . Theater managers will have to hide up in the projection booth to escape irate patrons hunting for them with shotguns, because a patron who has lost a $50,000 prize will not use a bow and arrow and he and his relatives will not be turned away by a soft answer. . . . The Movie Quiz originators might be wise to appropriate an additional $50,000 and commission Brunswick-Balke Collender to construct a very large eight ball.

Broadway, supposedly dead, is jammed with hurrying thousands of people. . . . Day and night the sidewalks are thronged. . . . Pretty girls on the side streets are chorines and show girls attending "calls" for the dozen musicals that are being fashioned. . . . Outside the Imperial stage door Producer Vinton Freedley, ex-Harvard quarter back, chatting with a group of youngsters who passed the first elimination call and now are eligible for the final weeding out process. . . . Kay Cameron, May Tom Leon, Frances Sinclair, Rita Jason, Frances Blythe, Arleen Daniels, Marion Harvey, Evelyn Riede, and Kay Fears.

To the youngsters who are getting their first show job on Broadway it will be an initiation into a half-world that they never meet in their home towns, a half-world that you enter through the portals of a stage door. . . . On pay day the salesmen of the theater arrive. . . . Vendors of silk stockings, vendors of jewelry, vendors of silks and satins, vendors of perfumes and novelties and blouses and scarfs. . . . These salesmen may be young or old, but their sales talk is loaded with "dearies" and "honeys." . . . Some of them hint darkly that the reason their prices are so low is that they have "connections." . . . They all agree that the bargains offered should fill you with grateful surprise, because "this is the same thing that big stores sell for twice the money."

These pretty youngsters will meet, in this half-world, doctors, lawyers, beggar-men, thieves as the old couplet ran. . . . They will meet millionaires and fellows who pretend they're in the chips. . . . They'll be escorted to the night clubs of the town, and wind up at 3 a. m. at Lindy's or Reuben's or Dave's Blue Room. . . . At the millionaire's party they'll find themselves treated condescendingly, and so they'll chuck the millionaire for a young musician who speaks their language and works almost the same hours. . . . Then you'll read their names in Danton Walker's column, and for the next few years you'll follow their careers via one line jottings that comprise the historical record of the men and maids of Manhattan. . . . Then they'll get older and a new crop of youngsters will come along to take their places.

Probably 350 girls will get jobs in the twelve musical shows, and another hundred girls will get employment in night club shows, at hat-check counters and behind cigar and cigaret trays. . . . If you could check these 450 girls over a five year span, you might get the true story of Broadway, because in five years the law of averages will account for just so many tragedies and just so many happinesses, so many marriages, so many headaches, heartaches and happy endings.

They come from every section of the country, these pretty youngsters, because the lights of Broadway still beckon to them, half in invitation and half in challenge. . . . They feel that it is the stopping off place before Hollywood, and all of them have their minds set on pictures. . . . No use to point out to them that the odds are 1,000 to 1 against the realization of that ambition, and that the girls at Central Casting get tired saying: "Nothing today, I'm sorry."

You couldn't change it, and wouldn't change it if you could, because that is Broadway, and it's been going on in that fashion for years, long before Irving Berlin penned "Alexander's Ragtime Band." . . . So the small town kids flock in and gape in astonishment at the tall buildings and the bright lights and the whizzing lines of trafic. . . . At night they go to the out-of-town newspaper stands and relieve their loneliness by getting their home town paper and taking it back to their hotel rooms, to look at familiar type, familiar names, familiar places.

Fashion Goes from Color to Swanky Black

RHEA SEEGER.

From the brightest and gayest of bold summer colors to the dullest and swankiest of all black costumes is the annual fashion plunge every fall.

Nothing looks quite so sleekly sophisticated as these first slim blacks. One piece dresses, made of sea foam weight wool, feature all the intricate new shirrings, the suave draping and the modified, peasant gathers, making them ideal basic dresses with which to play the engrossing game of accessory high lights.

See the snappy black wool dresses topped with fetching short jackets of velvet. These duets are just about the most practical buys imaginable, as they part with ease to be used with other jackets, skirts, or dresses.

The best of the black wool coat dresses are featured now, knockout affairs, fitted by experts with streamlines that promise slenderness even though the skirts are flared. Surplice closings and neat belted normal waistlines, and smart long sleeves keep them softly tailored for street wear.

In this same collection will be found dramatic new all-black dinner costumes. Slinky beauties of dull crêpe with long fitted sleeves, the first of the black velvets, made in princess line, with short puffed sleeves, and wide around the skirt hemline. The outstanding new model is the full crêpe skirt combined with a rib hugging black velvet jacket, with long fitted sleeves. Down the front is the zipper, the narrowest and flattest zipper of the season!

Shoppers out to find a perfect all-purpose black winter coat will have difficulties in selecting merely one. Fitted beauties have a flattering way of taking inches away from the streamline.

Smart swaggers, with or without fur contrast, have all sorts of swank, the fabrics are soft yet warm. Flat fur band trimmed coats and jackets are especially noteworthy, while more dramatic models feature fluffy furs in harmony or contrast. Plenty of high fashion mink trimmed coats will be found also. The blacks with Persian lamb trim are moderately priced.

Tenderfoot's Inheritance

By Marie De Nervaud

(Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.)

SYNOPSIS.

Anne Claxton arrives from New York at the Wyoming ranch she has inherited, after refusing the last minute proposal of her city beau, Gerald. Steve Hayward, neighbor ranch owner, tells her that Jake Collins, who owns the adjoining ranch, expects to buy her heavily mortgaged ranch, but her uncle never would sell to him. Anne determines to stay and fight. She is immediately attracted to Steve, but Gwen Collins, Jake's daughter, shows a proprietary attitude toward him. She wins over old Tim Salter, her uncle's foreman, and Whitey, a handsome ranch hand. She finds the house in disorder and a gun missing from the rack. Tim thinks Collins had been there and threatened her uncle with the gun and that her uncle died from a heart attack. Collins calls with Lawyer Bill Jennings and turns ugly when she refuses to sell. When Steve advises her to sell she is cool to him. He is offended and jealous of Whitey. Anne expects her former boss, Mr. Trainor, and his family as paying guests at the ranch. Collins serves notice that he is going to fence in the water holes, which he claims are on his property. Whitey takes Anne to a local dance. Jake Collins, drunk, insults Anne. Steve fights him. Anne runs off without thanking him. She writes him a note but receives no answer. Anne tactfully refuses a proposal from Whitey. Gerald arrives unexpectedly to visit Anne. She makes him stay at the hotel in town. Steve obtains from Gwen a rusty gun she'd found in cleaning a well. It is the gun that was missing after old man Claxton's death. The Trainors arrive. Anne takes the two little girls to town with her to hire a cook, where she overhears talk of a plot against her.

INSTALMENT XXVIII.

UNEASY FEARS.

Anne could feel curious eyes following her. At the door she turned, and took a quick comprehensive look at the men whose conversation she had overheard.

Their evil faces sent a shudder through her. What was the job they had turned down? And had Jake Collins found some one else to fill it?

All the time Anne was interviewing the two prospects Old Man Jenkins had rounded up for her, her mind was subconsciously engrossed with those two questions.

A pressing urge to get back and tell Tim what she had heard made her rush through the interviews more casually than she would otherwise have done.

One of the men, who was obviously a drifter, she eliminated almost at once. The other, Thomas Ayres, had at least been over a year in his last job. His open genial grin and abounding confidence in his own powers tickled Anne's sense of humor. If he was only half as good as he said he was, he'd do! Even though she couldn't get her call through to the ranch in the next county that he had given as a reference, Anne decided to take him.

"Do I call you Thomas or Tom?" she asked, as she waited for him to stow his duffle bag under the seat of the buckboard.

"Nobody ever calls me nothin' but Shiney," he grinned. "When I get goin' over that cook stove yuh'll see why! But Shiney or not, boy! can I throw a mean flapjack!"

Anne had to laugh in spite of her impatience to be off. She glanced down the street, and spotted Gerald on the hotel porch, watching them. He pretended not to see her. Sudden anger at his childishness made Anne turn impetuously to speed Shiney up. She surprised him in the act of waving a cheerful greeting toward the hotel. Catching her eye, he colored in sudden embarrassment, bringing his hand down with a sweeping thump on his bag.

"Git along in there! I'm all set to go, Miss." He jumped up into the back seat.

Anne thoughtfully picked up the reins.

"Do you know Mr. Stanley?" she asked.

"That the guy on the hotel porch?" Shiney's voice was elaborately indifferent. "I was chinnin' with him a while back, but I didn't know his name."

"Why did you pretend not to be waving to him?"

"Jumpin' Geehosephat! Who'd want his new boss to see him wavin' to a dude like that!" Shiney's contagious laugh shattered Anne's suspicions.

Beth and Patsy plied Shiney with questions and listened with rapt attention to his tales, the rest of the way to the ranch.

It was 5 o'clock by the time they finally reached the ranch. Anne gave a sigh of relief at the sight of Mrs. Trainor peacefully swinging in the hammock on the porch. During the last few miles her imagination had been conjecturing all sorts of torturing speculations.

Gratefully accepting Shiney's offer to unhitch the horses and turn them into the corral before he got supper, Anne followed the two children who dashed up to their mother and were regaling her with an account of their day.

"I've had the most perfect day, Anne!" Her smile faded as she caught Anne's expression. "What's the matter? You look worried."

"Just a bit tired, I guess," Anne forced a smile. "I'm so glad you're feeling rested. "You didn't mind being here alone?"

"I've loved it. I brought my lunch out here on the porch, and Shep was the most delightful company I could have had. When do you think John and the boys will be back?"

"Any time now, I imagine," Anne looked across the mesa to the timbered foothills. "I must go and show Shiney the ropes."

Greatly cheered by Shiney's competent manner of taking hold in the kitchen, Anne joined Mrs. Trainor and the girls in a more hopeful frame of mind.

Just as she was managing to forget her worries in an amusing account of Shiney's picturesque comments on the kitchen equipment, she caught sight of two horsemen coming out into the open from Woodchuck canyon.

"There's the advance guard now," she exclaimed.

"Mummy! Just look at them ride!"

Patsy's exclamation brought sudden fear to Anne's heart. They were taking that slope at a breakneck pace!

Mrs. Trainor anxiously scanned the timbered opening to the canyon. "I wonder where they are? You don't think anything's happened?"

Anne put a quieting hand on hers. "I can see now that that's Red and Slim! They're just racing for the sheer joy of it!"

Holding her own fears in check for Mrs. Trainor's sake, Anne kept the conversation going until the two punchers finally galloped up.

Relieved at the sight of their cheerful grins as they pulled their steaming mounts to a halt, Anne ran down the steps to meet them.

"What's the rush?" Anne asked.

"Mr. Trainor wanted us to be sure to get this to Mrs. Trainor before supper, so's she wouldn't be worried," Red drew a note from his pocket.

Anne handed it to Patsy, who carried it up to her mother.

"How's everything going?" she asked.

"O. K. Another day, and we'll have the job finished."

"Anne! Listen to this! I haven't known John to sound so gay and carefree in years! He and the boys want to spend the night out there with the outfit." Mrs. Trainor laughingly read bits of the note aloud. "Tim brought plenty of blankets, and the boys are wild to stay.

" The boys,' " she echoed, "They're not a bit more wild to stay than John is! 'If you're nervous about it,' " she went on, " 'we'll come back, but if you won't worry over us we'll stay. Tim will be back later to keep an eye on you.' Of course, tell them to stay!" she smiled up at Red. "And I don't see why any one has to come back, do you Anne?"

"That's what I told Tim," Red spoke up before Anne had a chance to answer. "He wants me to stay here, anyway, and Slim's to take back your message to Mr. Trainor. Tim's hell bent to come back, though. He's goin' to wait for Slim, so's to guide Mr. Trainor and the boys back in case Mrs. Trainor wants them to come. Those kids of yours are all right, ma'am!" He nodded with a cheerful grin at Mrs. Trainor. "They sure did some ridin', today. They were a big help, too, seein' as how we're some short handed."

"I'm so glad!" Mrs. Trainor's eyes lighted with pleasure. "I know they loved it. Tell them to stay as long as they want to, Slim. The girls and I couldn't be in better hands."

Anne's heart contracted guiltily at the affectionate, appreciative smile Mrs. Trainor gave her. Uneasiness at the unexpected turn of events filled her, but the last thing she must do was to let Mrs. Trainor guess it.

There was nothing to do but fall in with the plan, and put off telling Mr. Trainor until he came back. Thank goodness, Tim would be here and she could tell him the whole story.

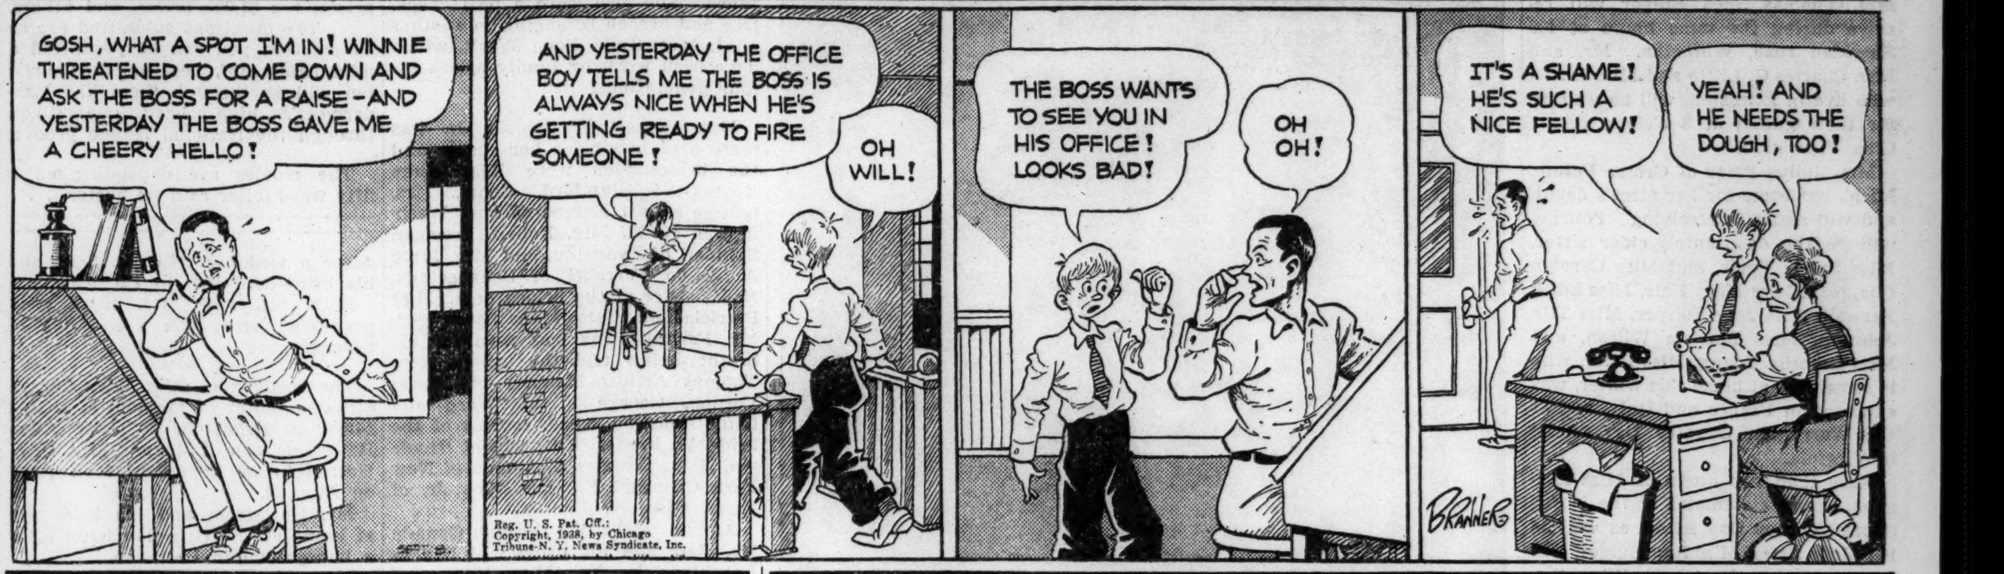
GASOLINE ALLEY—AND NO QUESTIONS ASKED

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: The Bad News?



New Love Wins, but Old Won't Surrender Him!

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y News Syndicate, Inc.]

"Seven weeks ago I broke off with a girl with whom I had been going steadily for five years. The reason for the break is that I met another young woman with whom I have fallen in love.

"However, the first one still persists in claiming her love for me, informing me time and again how miserable she has been since the break. She invited me to her summer home, which invitation I declined. She answered in such a way that for me to answer her last letter is a problem. She says that she prays every night that things will work out favorably and that I will get over this other attachment.

"How shall I answer that letter?

"Furthermore, she has asked me to take her to a special affair the end of this month which has been an habitual doing for the last three years. She claims that it will mean so much to her if I attend with her. What should I do? Do you think it would be unfair to my present love who has brought me untold happiness?

"Do you think I shall have trouble with the first young woman? She is a fine girl, but I guess when the real thing comes along and you know it for that, there's just no explaining why people fall out of a first love.

"TROUBLED MICK."

Why is it that when a woman gets herself involved with two men, her escape from the first suitor becomes the simple matter of confessing her love for the second man, whereas a man in the same plight lets himself in for a load of trouble?

It must be that men are far more sporting. They take the verdict as final and remove themselves from the picture. They don't hold threat of a suit over the girl. They don't hang around whining and begging to be taken on again.

It is normal enough for a man to go along with a first girl for several years, say, and lose his taste for her for no other good reason than he loses taste. A new girl appears who intrigues him more and presently he finds himself in love with her, as Troubled Mick relates.

The sporting thing would be for girl No. 1 to accept the verdict as one of those things over which she has no control. But some women aren't built that way.

And we frankly do not know how to handle the type. We would, however, advise T. M. against going to the affair with No. 1 girl. If he is going to quit her, he has to be final about it in fairness to himself and both girls.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

When one considers the amazing luck attending some badly bid hands, and compares it with the afflictions that often beset good bidding, he is forced to marvel at the workings of fate. This morose bit of philosophy is my reaction to a hand played in the Masters' Team-of-Four event at the recent Asbury Park tournament.

The bidding at one table went:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 hearts	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	4 diamonds	Pass
4 spades	Pass	4 no trump	Pass
5 no trump	Pass	6 no trump	Pass

The bid that started the fireworks was, of course, South's leap to three no trump. Used properly, this is a very strong bid, based on at least four honor tricks with strong intermediates, and is supposed to show balanced distribution. Obviously, South violated these requirements on every count. With such a strong spade suit, he might have been excused for "lying" about the distribution, but nothing could excuse his shading of honor tricks, especially since he had such sketchy stoppers in the unbid suits. North, it is true, might have passed to three no trump, but, reading the bid as very strong, he was loath to quit when holding two aces. North's next bid, four no trump, was dictated, of course, by his great aversion to spades. He hardly could know that South had such a strong seven card suit since South's rebid of the suit had seemed reluctant. South's five no trump bid was simply an echo of his original amazing optimism.

A heart lead would have settled the declarer's hash, but unfortunately for himself West decided that a spade lead was the safest available. He opened the spade jack and declarer promptly ran off seven spade tricks. This was the first excellent break of the hand, the fact that the adverse spades were divided 3-3. With six cards remaining, this was the position:

The diamond king was cashed and the jack was led. West covered [ducking would have made no difference since the jack would have been allowed to ride] and dummy's ace won. Now, when the heart ace was cashed, West saw that if he were to discard the club queen he certainly would be end-played, i. e., a club would be led and he would have to return a diamond from the 9-7 into dummy's 10-8. Rather than "give up," West made the correct play of discarding the club ace, his only hope being that East had the club king. As it happened, however, this desperation play merely cost an extra trick. East had discarded a heart on the second diamond lead and now, when the diamond ten was cashed, found himself in a squeeze.

If he let go the heart king, declarer, discarding after him, would keep the heart jack and the club king. East's actual club discard was no better, however. Declarer threw away the heart jack. A club to the king then dropped East's jack and West's queen and established the nine spot for the thirteenth trick.

Well, at least declarer had the grace to blush over the fantastic breaks he had found in this hand!

Steer Around Mealtime Woe with Children

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.
[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

"Mealtimes," said the returned visitor—returned from the home of two doting parents, "are a riot there, a veritable circus. All we did at each meal was to talk about Helen and Babsie and their food. It was funny at first and entertained me mightily, but after a while it got to be a bore."

Those mealtime blues or doldrums! How they do get parents down! But how unnecessary they are! And that's not said in a superior way, at all.

It isn't necessary, if you use a little common sense and self-control, to have all these goings-on over each meal.

Here are some suggestions. Much of the fuss children make at mealtimes is due to a desire for attention—quite unconscious, of course. I've seen this repeatedly. And the fact that the attention may be scolding attention instead of coaxing attention doesn't alter the fact. So, adopt a take-for-granted attitude.

Avoid forcing food on a child. This would naturally cause a repugnance for it. Be patient with the child who is learning to feed himself. It is an effort. If a child tends to leave part of the meal because he apparently tires of feeding himself help him out at the end.

Don't expect a child to be equally hungry for everything at every meal. Children vary as adults do.

Avoid concentrating your eyes, words, thoughts, and nerves on the child and his food at mealtimes. Don't feel anxious and don't act anxious.

When a child eats with the family take this last warning still more to heart. Also excuse him from the table when he has finished.

Here are a few more points. The rested, unhurried child enjoys his food more and digests it better than the tired one. A short, quiet time or actual rest period before meals does wonders for appetite and manners.

It seems almost superfluous to add these last two suggestions because every one must realize them; I will tack them on, however. One is, don't scold, nag, or discipline a child at mealtimes. And the other is, give a child as much variety as his diet will allow, and prepare his food as deliciously as you would for the adults of the family. And accept the fact that he may find a few foods actually unpalatable.

Other detailed advice is to be found in our leaflet, "Good Mealtime Habits." It is sent on request upon receipt of a large stamped, self-addressed envelope. Address Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

Experimentation Is a Wise Guide to Colors in Makeup

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.
[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

"Makeup should change as frequently as the weather.

"The well groomed American woman gives variation to her personal appearance by frequently changing her hair-do, accessories, hat style, line of dress, its color, etc. So why should she confine herself to one type and color of makeup?"

The above theme is discussed by one of our outstanding beauticians, and while we personally dread the day when we must decide which of our six or seven rouge shades we'll put on this morning, there is something to changing from a makeup style we may have clung to for years. Besides, it is a world in which woman can have as good a time as a youngster with her box of paints. What with miniature-sized containers for trying out new and different shades, it's worth experimentation. It's perfectly true that any number of women are wearing makeup colors that have just been sold to them without relation to themselves or the color of dress with which they may be worn. They keep on using the inappropriate shade simply because it has been sold to them.

There was a time when we counselors on the beauty theme would work hard and conscientiously over a makeup guiding chart. In the early days it was not too complicated when we had but a few shades to draw upon. But with the rouge and lipstick and powder colorings offering the vast choice they now do, there is only one guide, we think. It is personal experimentation. Or if you are inexperienced, unsure, pay for expert personal advice and experimentation.

Makeup certainly has gone beyond the stage of confining oneself to one color. It plays a larger rôle than harmonizing with or matching a skin coloring. It varies with the color of the clothes being worn, the function one is attending, and whether one appears in daylight, electric light, or moonlight.

Anyway, that is the movement now.

New York, Sept. 7.—[Special.]—The New York Hippodrome Opera company has canceled the autumn series of performances scheduled to start tomorrow night in the Brooklyn Academy of Music because of the unionization of the box office personnel. It was explained that the unionization would increase expenses and force an increase in seat prices, which the company considers "inadvisable."

CUBS WIN, TAKE 2D PLACE; PIRATES BEAT REDS

DEFEAT CARDS, 7 TO 5; MARTY, PAGE INJURED

Still 5 Games Behind League Leaders.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 7.—The undermanned Cubs, their skimpy roster reduced today to seventeen ablebodied athletes by two new injuries, fought their way into second place by beating the St. Louis Mudcat Hillbilly orchestra, otherwise the Cardinals, 7 to 5, in the opener of a three game series.

The day's first reduction of the economy roster, which is now twenty-three players under playing strength permissible in September, came when Joe Marty was hit in the head by a fly ball while colliding with Pitcher Jack Russell in fielding practice.

Marty was carried from the field on a stretcher. He regained consciousness in the clubhouse and was taken to St. John's hospital by Dr. John Hyland, Cardinals' physician. X-ray pictures were taken to detect a possible skull fracture.

The second casualty came in the Cardinals' eighth when Vance Page, winning pitcher today, was spiked by John Mize in a play at first base. Page had to be carried from the field and was replaced on the mound by Bill Lee.

There was another collision during the game. Augie Galan charged into Carl Reynolds, to give the Cards three tying runs on a gift triple in the sixth, but, fortunately, the players were only bruised.

Clarence Rowland, half of the Cubs' scouting staf, the man who last April snapped up Dizzy Dean for $185,000 and four players, has been visiting the Cubs and doubtless has noticed a dearth of ablebodied fellows.

Higbe Is Sole Newcomer.

The only player recalled since the player limit was lifted, Kirby Higbe, was taught the team's signs today and will pitch tomorrow. Higbe is the vanishing fellow who finally was lassoed by Birmingham, whence he reported.

The outcome of today's games enabled the Cubs to stay apace with the leading Pirates, five games back, and a half game ahead of the Reds.

The Chicagoans evened the season series with the Cardinals at seven games apiece. The most encouraging thing, however, was the fact that the faded St. Louis outfit enacted the clown rôles they have shown this year to all the rest of the league, but threw off when in competition with the Cubs heretofore.

Collins Crashes Homer.

Perhaps the brightest spot in the game for the Cubs, for none of the Cards' five errors was involved, was a right handed homer by the left handed and frequently handcuffed Rip Collins. Rip knocked his eleventh of the year in the eighth inning. It was his first batting right handed against a left handed pitcher, in this case Max Macon, who went all the way for the musicians.

The Cubs started off as if they were determined to get a hatful of runs right away. Hack opened the game with a single to right and went to third on Herman's single to left. Demaree singled to left, Hack scoring and Herman taking third. Then came a foldup. Galan tapped to Bordagaray and Herman was run down between third and home. Reynolds bounced into a double play.

The first two Cardinal batsmen, Moore and S. Martin, supplied infield outs. Then Padgett, Medwick, Mize, and Bordagaray gave Page a singles shower for a net of two runs. The

BRITISH CURTIS TEAM LEADS U. S. GOLFERS, 2½-½

Defenders of Trophy Lose Two Matches, Tie One.

Manchester, N. H., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—America's hopes of retaining the Curtis cup, emblematic of women's golf team supremacy between the United States and Great Britain today were almost completely washed out.

At the conclusion of the three foursomes matches which were played in a drizzling rain the point standing was: Great Britain, 2½; United States, ½.

Need Almost Sweep to Win.

Only a miracle, in the shape of virtually a sweep in tomorrow's singles, will prevent the visitors from adding the Curtis cup, presented by the Misses Harriet S. and Margaret Curtis, members of the host club and outstanding figures in women's golf, to the Walker cup which the British won this year for the first time.

The only solace the American players got out of today's proceedings was the halved match that the two tailenders on the team, Misses Marion Miley and Kathryn Hemphill gained against Mrs. J. B. Walker of Troon, Scotland, and Miss Phyllis Wade of Bournemouth, England.

No. 1 Team Is Beaten.

America's No. 1 team, made up of Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page Jr., present champion, and Miss Maureen Orcutt, lost to Mrs. Andrew Holm of Troon, present holder of the British women's title, and Miss Clarrie Tiernan, sturdy Irish girl who came to America last year and won the New Jersey title. The margin was 2 down.

Great Britain's second pair, made up of Miss Jessie Manderson of Perth, Scotland, runner-up in the British tournament last year, and Miss Elsie Corlett of the Royal Lytham and Anne's club beat Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, six time holder of the American title, and Patty Berg, 1 up.

Yesterday's games in the National league left the Cubs with 24 games to play, the Pittsburgh Pirates, 26, and the Cincinnati Reds, 23. The Pirates lead the Cubs by five games and the Reds by five and a half games.

If the Pirates win 13 and lose 13 of their remaining 26 games, the Cubs must win 17 while losing 7, and the Reds must win 17 while losing only 6 to tie for the pennant. To win the championship under those circumstances, the Cubs must win 18 and lose only 6. The standing then would be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Chicago	90	64	.584
Pittsburgh	89	65	.578
Cincinnati	89	65	.578

If the Pirates maintain approximately their season's record and win 15 out of 26, the Cubs must win 19 out of 24, and the Reds 19 out of 23 games to tie Pittsburgh. The standing then would be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Chicago	91	63	.591
Pittsburgh	91	63	.591
Cincinnati	91	63	.591

WHITE SOX BUY THREE PLAYERS FROM ST. PAUL

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

After cancelling yesterday's scheduled meeting between his White Sox and the Browns from St. Louis, Owner J. Louis Comiskey searched his desk and made a discovery. What he found was that he had purchased from the St. Paul club three athletes who, it is hoped, will fit into the Sox machine planned by Manager James Dykes for 1939.

The three fellows aren't exactly new here or at other big league stopping places. One of them is Vic Frasier who, since the Sox first found him in Texas in 1931, is supposed to have developed into a wizard. Another is Infielder Ollie Bejma, once a member of the St. Louis Browns. The third is Ken Sylvestri, a budding catcher whose big league career to date consists of a training trip with the Sox two springs ago.

Report Next Spring.

Several other big time clubs were on the trail of all these athletes but were stymied by the fact that the Sox, under an existing agreement, were entitled to first pick of the Saints. The latter team is concerned with the winning of the American association pennant so the trio will not be summoned until next March when Dykes opens his spring school in Pasadena, Cal.

When Frasier came to the Sox in 1931 he performed like a one hundred per cent find, and the Yankees were willing to take him off Comiskey's hands at a fancy price. Uncle Lou refused to consider, and next year Frasier proved worthless. He finally was passed on to Detroit which shed him in a hurry. The Boston Bees had him for a short stretch. This season he came to life, and a number of scouts acclaimed him the best pitcher in the A. A. He has won 16 games in 22 starts.

Knott Pitches Today.

The Sox interest in Bejma is occasioned by the fact that there is need either for a man to supplant Jack Hayes at second base or to be an understudy for the Alabaman. Hayes throughout his career with the Sox has been a chump for injuries and the team never has had a competent man for his place. This season Hayes was hurt in mid July and is out for the year. Bejma currently has a batting average of .324. Sylvestri is hitting .274.

When the Sox and Browns resume their labors this afternoon Jack Knott will function for the former and Bill Cox for the visitors. These two fellows changed places in a deal consummated early in the season.

Rivals Decide Bears Are the Team to Beat

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Each season the National league championship race opens with the cry, "Beat the Bears!" Rival coaches and players make it a chorus. Not that they dislike George Halas' young men. Rather they have so much respect for Halas' coaching ability and his scouting system that they take it for granted the Bears will be the best eleven in the race.

The Bears open another campaign in Soldiers' field Sunday night and the same old warning resounds throughout the league. The Cardinals, for whom other National league teams have developed a wholesome regard in the last few weeks, will be the first club asked to upset the juggernaut rival coaches believe Halas has assembled despite the absence of Bronko Nagurski, the one man football team who for years terrorized the professional ranks.

Plenty at Stake.

Much depends on the outcome of Sunday night's game. It will make or break the Cardinals, who are striving to bring Owner Charley Bidwill his first championship. And it will decide for Halas whether he really has the football team opponents claim.

Around the various camps, where coaches sent record squads through early training, it is the consensus that the loss of Nagurski will not weaken the Bears or mitigate against their championship chances. Nagurski last year was just another full back except for the few minutes of each game in which he was able to flash his tremendous drive and stamina of other seasons.

Look Out for Francis.

Sam Francis, the southpaw shot putter from Nebraska, is the No. 1 candidate to succeed Nagurski. Francis did not give many impressive performances last fall, but his play in intrasquad scrimmages and two All-Star games so far this year has been encouraging. He will receive plenty of opposition, however, from Bert Johnson, a former Kentucky star for whom Halas traded Beattie Feathers to Brooklyn last summer. Johnson, 6 feet tall and weighing 215 pounds, is noted for his open field ability and ruggedness.

Other men who will be given an opportunity to establish themselves against the Cardinals Sunday night are Gary Famiglietti of Boston and Inman Blackaby of Butler. Both are rookies and joined the Bears after assisting in the All-Stars' victory over the Washington Redskins last week.

Veterans Are Back.

The brunt of the attack, however, will fall on old familiar figures. Jack Manders, who last year was the

TWO GIANT FIELD GOALS CONQUER COLLEGIANS, 6-0

Cuff Makes Both Kicks from 42 Yard Line.

BY ARCH WARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 7.—Ward Cuff, who helped Marquette university acquire national recognition two years ago, tonight kicked the New York Giants to a 6 to 0 victory over a team of Eastern All-Stars in the third annual charity football game sponsored by the New York Herald-Tribune.

Cuff hoisted one over the bar from the 42 yard line in the second quarter and repeated from the same spot in the final period. His expert kicking was the highlight of an otherwise drab game, which was played before a crowd of 35,000 in the Polo Grounds.

They Didn't Have a Chance.

The All-Stars, made up of eastern boys who did not qualify for the Chicago game, never had a chance. Save for a few minutes in the opening quarter, they always were deep in their own territory. Tony Matisi, University of Pittsburgh tackle, recovered a fumble by Leonard Barnum, the Giants' new full back on the Giants' 27 yard line shortly after the start of play, but the collegians were unable to capitalize on the scoring opportunity. Frank Souchak, Pittsburgh end, attempted a field goal from the 31 yard line, but the ball sailed ten yards to the right of the goal posts.

The professionals threatened to carry the ball over the All-Stars' goal three or four times, but inevitably were braked down by penalties, fumbles or questionable headwork. They were halted two yards short of a touchdown in the second quarter and had the ball on the 6 yard line when the half ended.

Twice in the second half receivers of Giant forward passes dropped perfect tosses on the goal line. Meanwhile, the All-Stars never crossed midfield.

Alex Makes A Mistake.

Alex Wojciehowicz of Fordham was guilty of one of the major blunders of the game. In the fourth quarter when the Giants were headed for a touchdown, he intercepted a pass on fourth down five yards behind his own goal and attempted to run it back. He managed to advance to the 3 yard line, but the ball would automatically have been moved out to the All-Stars' 20 yard line, if he had played it for a touchback.

There was no coherence in the All-Stars' attack and little or no deception. The squad, which consisted of only thirty-one players, obviously was undermanned. It didn't have the reserves to throw at the professionals in the final periods, when man power counts heavily.

The All-Stars made only eight yards from rushing, while the Giants picked up seventy-four. The teams were more evenly matched in the air, although neither could gain when it counted. The professionals completed ten forward passes for a total of sixty-seven yards. The collegians clicked with six for fifty-six yards. The Giants made six first downs and the All-Stars four.

This was the third year in a row the Giants whipped the All-Stars.

ROOKIE KLINGER PITCHES SIX HIT, 7 TO 1 VICTORY

Derringer Is Routed in Fifth Inning.

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—The embattled Pittsburgh Pirates met the challenge of the Reds with a rousing 7 to 1 victory today. The triumph increased their lead to five games, tumbled the Reds into third place behind the Cubs, and opened favorably a series that may go far in determining the team which will oppose the Yankees in the world series.

A crowd of 18,735 saw the Pirates lash out with a 14 hit attack off Paul Derringer and Gene Schott, and saw the Reds held to six hits by Rookie Bob Klinger. The Pittsburgh attack, which drove Derringer from the game in the fifth, included Johnny Rizzo's sixteenth home run of the season. Derringer entered the game seeking his twentieth triumph of the season. The two teams still have eight games in which to fire away at each other.

One of these will be played tomorrow night before a sellout crowd. The ticket supply has been exhausted since yesterday for what well may be the most important night game since Cincinnati installed lights four years ago.

Pirates Score Early.

The Pirates suggested they were in a belligerent mood in the first inning today by scoring two runs. Paul Waner started it with a double, after which singles by Rizzo and Suhr and a fly by Young accounted for the two runs. They resumed the attack in the second, making it 3 to 0 on Lloyd Waner's double and Brother Paul's single.

The Reds went into action by getting two men on with none out in the first inning, but that threat came to nothing when the Pirates accomplished a double play.

After a scoreless third inning the Pirates fortified their advantage with another run in the fourth. This resulted from Lloyd Waner's second double, and singles by Thevenow and Todd. Suhr opened the fifth with the ninth Pittsburgh hit, a triple. This drive signalized Derringer's failure, and it brought in Schott to replace him. Young inducted Schott into the game with a single which scored Suhr, giving the Pirates a 5 to 0 lead.

Reds Revive, Somewhat.

The Reds revived in the fifth to the extent of getting two men on base, but Pinch Batter Cooke couldn't respond to the emergency. He hit into a double play. Neither team scored in the sixth.

Cincinnati made its only run in the seventh on McCormick's single, Rizzo's fumble, and Lombardi's single. The Pirates more than recouped this loss in the eighth, when Paul Waner singled and Rizzo drove out his home run. The rest of the game was scoreless.

Brilliant testimony to Klinger's effectiveness today was the great number of balls the Reds hit to Pirate infielders. Only Paul Waner in the Pittsburgh outfield was credited with a putout. Paul Waner made four hits in four times at bat to be the hero of the Pirates' robust attack.

CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE: THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 8, 1938.

SEABISCUIT WILL SEEK GOLD CUP AND ITS $15,000

Handicap Star Must Take 133 Pounds to Post.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Old Seabiscuit is coming back to town to annoy everybody, and while he's here he expects to prove that he is America's greatest race horse by winning the $15,000 Hawthorne Gold Cup.

Julius Reeder, the Hawthorne racing secretary, yesterday announced the weights for the renewal of the Gold Cup on Sept. 17. An hour later railroad officials were advised that Seabiscuit had been shipped from California for the engagement.

The agreement to start Seabiscuit in the mile and a quarter battle, despite the 133 pound weight assignment, was a surprising move on the part of Owner C. S. Howard and Trainer Tom Smith. Until recently they had refused to let the Pacific coast champion race under weight imposts of more than 130 pounds.

He Wins Under 133.

They did let him go to the post in the Hollywood Gold Cup with 133 pounds on his back. In that encounter he beat Specify, an ordinary 3 year old, by only a head. The others in the field hardly should have been in the company of Seabiscuit.

Owner Howard was aware that Seabiscuit had been assigned 133 pounds for the race before the big son of Hard Tack started his trip to Chicago. So latest indications are that if track conditions suit, Seabiscuit will begin his final drive to surpass Sun Beau's money winning record.

The present standing follows:

	Total earnings.
Sun Beau	$376,744
Seabiscuit	315,305

Sun Beau won the Hawthorne gold cup on three occasions.

Marica Gets 124 Pounds.

Thomas D. Taggart's champion mare, Marica, which has run only one bad race in the last year—in the Narragansett special of last Saturday—has second high weight in the Gold Cup, 124 pounds. Stagehand is third with 122 and William Zeigler's route running mare, Esposa, is fourth with 120.

Esposa has been running against War Admiral in most of the latter's eastern victories. War Admiral beat Esposa by a narrow margin in one race, carrying 130 pounds to the latter's 113.

In the Gold Cup, Handicapper Reeder has assigned Esposa 120, which gives Seabiscuit thirteen pounds advantage. This might indicate that Reeder regards War Admiral as a better horse than Seabiscuit.

In the Narragansett special, Marica carried 128 pounds and Stagehand 119. In the Gold Cup, Stagehand is asked to shoulder 122 pounds to Marica's 124.

Last February, when Stagehand came into fame by beating Seabiscuit in the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap, Seabiscuit carried 130 pounds to Stagehand's 100. If he hooks up with Seabiscuit in the Gold Cup, Seabiscuit will have a weight advantage of only 11 pounds. The weights assigned the thirty-six horses eligible to the Gold Cup follow:

	Wt.		Wt.
Seabiscuit	133	Great Union	108

Today is the wedding day for Miss Geraldine Harris of 1931 North Howe street, and Thomas Sphor. And yesterday out at Hawthorne the bride-to-be, with six winners in seven races, won the honeymoon expenses.

Miss Harris became the winner of the Hawthorne $500 rating contest by naming the first six winners in order and three second choices. The marriage will take place in St. Thomas Catholic church this morning.

Manie O'Hara, after beating all the early track performers at Washington Park, didn't find the Hawthorne mud to her liking in the Sun Beau purse at a mile yesterday.

Backed so stoutly that she became a short priced favorite, Manie took a good sound whipping from Unselfish, a son of Carlaris-Nell McDonald. Unselfish drove up from behind in the stretch to win by a length. Diavolo Boy, much the best but weakly ridden by Willie Garner, finished third.

Blue Ridge farm stable's Wise Barrister was the early leader. He dropped out of contention when in the home stretch. Unselfish paid $17. Jocky Finnerty rode Unselfish.

While the muddy track brought many scratches and three substitute races, the racing was exciting. Close finishes made it that way. Favorites also performed quite nobly. Cottingham, Maewhisk, Gay Jane, and Drombo, four heavily backed entrants made good.

Jocky Nunzio Pariso has served notice he is on his way to the Hawthorne riding championship. He added his three victories on Tuesday by riding Cottingham and Maewhisk yesterday. He had piloted two winners home on Monday.

Day Snaps Out of Lethargy to Defeat Woods

Davey Day, Chicago lightweight, beat Harvey Woods of St. Paul in a ten round bout in Marigold Gardens last night. It was Day's sixteenth straight victory.

Day showed the effects of a thirteen week layoff in the first three rounds. He appeared slow and was unable to avoid Woods' pet weapon—a right to the head.

In the fourth, however, Day snapped out of his lethargy and scored with two rights to the nose which took some of the steam out of his foe.

Advantage of Seven Pounds.

Day found the mark with his favorite counter offensive in the next round and he remained in front the rest of the way. At 138, Day had an advantage of seven pounds. There were 3,095 spectators on hand. They paid $3,470.

Frankie Sagilio, Cicero junior welterweight slugger, pounded out a decision in four rounds over Johnny Rock. In the four round curtain raiser Georgie White and George Nelson went four rounds to a draw. White was a substitute for his welterweight stablemate, Harry Fredrickson.

Kettles Earns Draw.

Alex Kettles, 1937 South Bend sectional heavyweight winner, held Sandy McDonald of Dallas, Tex., to an eight round draw in a hard battle. Emil Campagna, west side light heavyweight, chased Joe Emery for four rounds to win the verdict.

Two ten round bouts heading boxing shows next week were arranged yesterday. Jackie Burke, Ogden, Utah, welterweight, is paired with Milt Aron in Marigold Gardens Monday, and Johnny Barbara, South Bend, Ind., 150 pounder, with Verne Patterson in White City, Sept. 16. . . . A testimonial dinner in honor of Henry Armstrong will be given tonight in Los Angeles. . . . Harry Booker, south side lightweight, has undergone an operation to save the sight of his left eye.

Secretary John Owen of the Illinois athletic commission is investigating charges that unsanctioned shows are being promoted in Cicero. . . . The state boxing board will issue its first quarterly ratings in November.

MARINE WINS U. S. RIFLE TITLE; 4TH IN ROW FOR CORPS

Camp Perry, O., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Corporal Malcolm J. Holland of the U. S. marines and Birchtree, Mo., captured the national individual rifle championship today at the Camp Perry matches with a score of 287 of 300 to beat a field of 2,080 of the best shots among America's civilians and service men.

In winning the title for the marines for the fourth straight year, the Missouri marksman scored 95 of 100 today in the 1,000 yard sector of the .30 caliber service rifle match. Private Bruno J. Skonieczy of the cavalry, stationed at Fort Sheridan, Ill., had the same aggregate score as Holland, but he had only 93 at 1,000 yards and dropped to second place.

80 WILDCATS TO REPORT FOR 1ST DRILL SATURDAY

Cautious Waldorf Says "They're Improved."

Following a summer spent in motoring from one coaching school to another in widely scattered sections of the country, Coach Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern is back in Evanston impatiently awaiting the opening of football practice Saturday.

Waldorf, who launches his fourth year as head coach of the Wildcats, will greet a squad of eighty candidates for the first workout of the year. Included in this are twenty letter men and the usual assortment of aspiring sophomores and reserves.

"Improved," Says Coach.

At the close of spring practice last May, Coach Waldorf ventured the opinion that the 1938 Wildcat eleven "should be improved over last year and while not a championship aggregation, should give a good account of itself." On the eve of the first practice he sees no reason to alter his position.

The biggest problem confronting the coaching staf is the development of players to replace Don Heap, half back; Fred Vanzo, blocking quarter, and John Kovatch, end. They were the principal losses from the group of eight graduating letter men.

You Remember These.

The Wildcats, however, still have a group of experienced backs. Jay Lasky and George McGurn again will share the full back assignment. Bernie Jefferson will operate at right half and Nick Conteas, 200 pound junior, will succeed Vanzo. Slated for left half is Jack Ryan, a junior, who served most of his sophomore apprenticeship at full back.

Veterans predominate in the fight for line positions. John Haman, 200 pound junior, is a fixture at center. Bob Voigts and Nick Cutlich again shape up as the first string tackles, with Tom Irving and Frank Young, two more letter men, as reserves. Guards appear plentiful with five letter men on hand. They are Don Guritz, John Goldak, Dick Wells, Hal Method, and Fred Heitman. Vying for the end positions are Capt. Cleo Diehl, Bob Daly, Tom Eby, and Ted Gref, all veterans.

4 Suburban Teams Open Season Oct. 1

Two games will open the Suburban High School Football league schedule Oct. 1, H. G. Pertz, secretary, announced yesterday.

Waukegan will invade Evanston and Highland Park will oppose Morton in Cicero. The remainder of the schedule follows:

OCT. 7—Morton at Proviso.
OCT. 8—Highland Park at Evanston, New Trier at Waukegan.
OCT. 15—Morton at New Trier, Oak Park at Waukegan.
OCT. 22—Oak Park at Evanston, Proviso at New Trier, Highland Park at Waukegan.
OCT. 29—Evanston at Proviso, New Trier at Highland Park, Morton at Oak Park.
NOV. 5—Evanston at Morton, New Trier at Oak Park, Waukegan at Proviso.
NOV. 11—Waukegan at Morton.
NOV. 12—Evanston at New Trier, Proviso at Oak Park.

Three veteran back field men, heavy, but fast, will be in the starting lineup for Crane Tech against Austin in Mills stadium the night of Sept. 23, when the Chicago Public High School Football league opens. Austin is defending champion team.

The team, which averages 180 pounds, is one of the heaviest since Coach Floyd Brown assumed charge at the west side school three years ago. He was head coach at Lane Tech for seven years.

Jimmy Hits 2 Home Runs and a Double.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 7.—(AP)—It was Joe Cronin day at Fenway park today, but Jimmy Foxx took the honors. Foxx hit two homers and a double and drove in a total of eight runs in the Red Sox's 11 to 4 victory over the New York Yankees.

The game was ended by rain with the Yankees at bat in the sixth, but by that time it didn't make much difference. The Red Sox backed up steady pitching by Joe Heving with a 12 hit attack.

Red Ruffing, the big league's only twenty game pitcher, was obviously not in winning form. Two doubles, by Joe Vosmik and Joe Cronin, produced a run in the first, to which the Red Sox added five more in the third and three more in the fourth before Ruffing was driven from the game with his fifth defeat of the year.

Foxx's homers—his 41st and 42d of the season—came in consecutive innings, the third and fourth, each time with two on base. In the fifth he stepped up with the bases full, but his range wasn't so good. He only smashed a double off the wall in left center.

The Yankees got to Heving for two runs in the fourth, one of them on Jo Di Maggio's 29th homer of the season.

frolic halted when Brown went out, Colins to Page.

The Cubs, with substantial help from the Cards in the fourth inning, got four runs home on one fewer singles than it took to produce their first inning marker. Demaree was hit by a pitched ball, Galan was safe on Bordagaray's fumble, and Reynolds walked to fill the bases with none out. Garbark popped to Bremer, but Collins dropped a blooper into short center, scoring Demaree. When Moore threw to the stands Galan also scored and Reynolds and Collins moved up. Jurges walked, filling the bases, after which Page forced Reynolds at the plate, Bordagaray to Bremer. Hack singled to center, scoring Collins and Jurges. Herman tapped in front of the plate and Bremer threw him out.

Cards Tie Score.

The Cards didn't make a hit off Page after the first inning shower until Padgett beat out a grounder to Jurges at the start of the sixth. Medwick popped to Jurges, but Mize walked. Bordagaray flied to Demaree, then Brown caromed a single off Page's glove, filling the bases. Bremer sent a fly to left center which Reynolds was about to pull down when the quiet Galan crashed into him. The ball fell for a triple, Padgett, Mize, and Brown scoring the tying runs. Macon was out, Collins to Page.

The Cubs got busy for a run after Hack and Herman had supplied outs in the seventh. Demaree was safe on Stu Martin's fumble, the fifth St. Louis error, and stopped at second on Galan's single past third. Reynolds singled to center, scoring Demaree. Then Garbark flied to Moore.

Collins opened the eighth with the aforesaid right handed homer which went high into the left field bleachers.

Old Westbury Poloists Beat Aurora, 14-8

Westbury, N. Y., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Old Westbury defeated Aurora, 14 to 8, in a semi-final of the national polo tournament today.

Aurora rallied to take a 6 to 5 lead in the third period, but Old Westbury came back to take command.

Old Westbury will meet Tommy Hitchcock's Greentree team in the final on International field Sunday.

Mike Phipps sat in the stands today nursing a wrenched right wrist, and Ivor Balding rode in his place at No. 1 for Old Westbury. The team lacked the confident team work it has been showing and for a while it appeared that an upset was about to take place. Then Cecil Smith and Stewart Iglehart began hitting well and gradually the champions took over control of the game.

Smith, without Phipps' accurate mallet in front of him, took over the scoring burden himself and poked through eight of his side's scores:

Lineup:

OLD WESTBURY [14]. AURORA [8].

You're a Sweetheart.

Last night they said there was a moon,
But there was none that I could see.
For how could eyes so filled with tears
See aught but my lost ecstasy?

Last night they said the perfumed wind
That zephyrs wafted till the dawn
Was scented by the lotus bloom,
But all I knew was you were gone.

Last night they said the evening chimes
Were ne'er so clear as at that time,
But they were but a toll to me—
A death knell for that love of mine.

Last night was filled with memories
Of precious hours and joys we knew;
Last night was like the other nights
That I have spent with thoughts of you.

Rivals Decide Bears Are the Team to Beat

coaches' nomination for the most improved player in the league, will be back at right half back. Bernie Masterson, starting his fifth year in professional football, will direct the attack again and do most of the passing. Ray Nolting, Cincinnati's contribution to professional football, will be the first string left half back. With this trio for a nucleus the Bears figure to be the same power house aggregation which battered its way to the championship playoff last fall.

Four other quarter backs, including Carl Brumbaugh, are listed on the roster. Brumbaugh originally was listed as an assistant coach. Coaching is a very passive pursuit for the little general, however, and after a few days of telling the other fellows what to do he succumbed to the urge to return to the position from which he directed the Bears to three championships and established himself as one of professional football's outstanding strategists. Brumbaugh is 31 years old and has been in the league for six years. Consequently his comeback is not being taken too seriously by any one except the Brumbaughs.

Plenty of Quarter Backs.

Other quarter backs are the veterans George Corbett and Gene Ronzani, and Reino Nori, a 165 pound all around man from De Kalb Teachers, who broke in with Detroit in 1936 and played with Brooklyn last year.

Ray Buivid of Marquette, heads the list of relief half backs. The others are rookies, Edward Warwick of Pennsylvania, John Oelerich of St. Ambrose, and Dick Schweidler, who has not had college experience.

In the line, where the Bears seldom have found themselves overmatched, veterans are available for every position. Bill Karr, who made the team in 1933 because he promised his father he would try out and was afraid to disobey, passed up a police appointment in West Virginia to return to right end. Karr is one of the outstanding wingmen in the league. This does not prevent him, however, from being in a continual sweat over whether he can hold his job from week to week.

Some Other Candidates.

Dick Plasman of Vanderbilt and Les McDonald of Nebraska, two players who just began to find themselves near the close of last season, are other leading end candidates. The squad of seven, which must be cut before the opening game Sunday, is rounded out by Henry Hammond and George Wilson of last year's squad, and Ferd Dreher of Denver and Charles Apolskis of De Paul.

The dean of National league tackles Lou Gordon, is a candidate for the right tackle position at which Del Bjork and Russell Thompson operated last year. Gordon, starting his eighth season in professional football, broke in with the Cardinals in 1931, played part of that season with Brooklyn and came back to the Cardinals, where he starred for five years before being traded to Green Bay in 1936. He has been impressive in the Bears' two practice games and undoubtedly will be used against his old teammates Sunday night.

Left tackle still belongs to Joe Stydahar, who rules without a challenge. Milt Trost, formerly of Marquette, will relieve Stydahar. After saying Stydahar, left tackle, there is little left worth mentioning. Stydahar is recognized by opponents as the outstanding lineman in football. His presence in the lineup gives the Bears a running start.

George Musso, for years a great tackle, and Danny Fortmann, the precocious medical student, will man the guards again, with Joe Zeller, a veteran of six years' experience, and Gus Zarnas of Ohio State, for relief. Zarnas was the best lineman in the All-Star game last week and is being tabbed by rival coaches as one of the finds of the season.

Center will be handled by the trio which bulwarked the Bear line last fall. Individually, Frank Sullivan, Pete Bausch, and William Conkright may have their masters among the rosters of other teams, but collectively they form the most formidable group of pivot men in the league.

Man for man, this personnel appears worthy of rivals' uneasiness. All teams throughout the league, however, appear strengthened.

MADISON TO PLAY MILLS.

The Madison Blues, newly crowned champions of the Tri-State Semi-pro league, will play the Chicago Mills a double-header Sunday afternoon on a winner-take-all basis.

BRILLIANT FIELD STARTS QUEST IN U. S. TENNIS MEET

Budge Has Chance for a "Grand Slam."

New York, Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Representatives of eleven nations will gather at the West Side Tennis club in Forest Hills tomorrow for the opening of the combined men's and women's national tournament.

Not since the days when William Tilden, William Johnston, and Vincent Richards stood as America's invincible trinity has so attractive an entry been marshaled from all parts of the world as that which is battling for the titles held by J. Donald Budge and Mrs. Anita Lizana Ellis.

The former Senorita Lizana will not defend, but Budge, whose racquet brought the Davis cup back home last year and who ruined Australia's hopes of making off with it at Germantown, will be out there swinging the greatest backhand in the world.

A Chance to Make History.

Winner of the Australian, French, and British championships in 1938, Budge will make history if he retains his national crown. No player ever has succeeded in carrying off the world's four major titles in the same year.

Unbeaten in singles for two years, Budge is favored against 98 rivals. The champion has not been feeling well since he returned from abroad. He saw a physician today for the sore throat that has bothered him. Even though not up to par physically, Budge still is the man to beat.

This probably will be Budge's last amateur appearance. Professional promoters, who have been seeking Budge for two years, are expected to offer him such flattering propositions that he will find it impossible to refuse again.

Riggs a Strong Threat.

Outstanding among Budge's rivals are Robert L. Riggs Jr. of Chicago, John Bromwich and Adrian Quist of Australia, Sidney Wood of New York, Joe Hunt of California, and Franjo Puncec and Franjo Kukuljevic of Jugo-Slavia, newcomers to the tournament.

The ambidextrous Bromwich, who beat Riggs, and came within a stroke of carrying Budge to five sets in Davis cup matches, is regarded by many as Budge's most dangerous rival.

The women's field is particularly strong. Miss Helen Jacobs and Miss Alice Marble, both former champions, lead the Americans. To Miss Jacobs, four time holder of the American singles championship, falls the honor of leading off in the title tournament. The Californian, fairly recovered from the injured ankle she suffered at Wimbledon, meets Ann C. Harrison of Ruxton, Md.

BRITAIN QUASHES SUIT TO RIP VEIL OFF ABDICATION

Secret Orders Revealed in Law Treatise.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 7.—Powerful forces last June squelched an attempt to thrash out questions of the alleged illegality of methods the government used to force King Edward VIII. of Great Britain to abdicate. This was revealed today in London.

Legal authorities said that unless the matter is settled there is danger of a serious doubt of the right of King George VI. to the throne. This doubt exists, they said, despite the abdication document by which Edward signed away his birthright.

Case Disclosed in Book.

A few facts of the case were disclosed in "Empery of Trust and Alliance," a treatise on constitutional law, written by Rowland Wormell.

Wormell was one of the witnesses summoned to appear in the suit. When he did so he was informed that the case had been dismissed.

The suit was brought by Robert Elton, president of the society called Henchmen of Honor. The society is composed of sympathizers of Edward, who now is the duke of Windsor.

The action was brought under Elton's constitutional right as a citizen to bring a test suit before the courts of the realm. Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Sir Samuel Hoare, home secretary, were named defendants. The case was set for hearing on June 14, but was quashed suddenly on secret instructions.

Termed Breach of Law.

Suppression of the case was a clear breach of constitutional law, according to Wormell.

"There is a body of opinion," he wrote, "which arises from a certain disquietude deriving from the method and procedure adopted by Earl Baldwin and his associates in dealing with the abdication.

"If that opinion increases and multiplies it is possible that great trouble will accrue in the future and that even the constitutional position of George VI. may be questioned."

[Stanley Baldwin, then not an earl, was prime minister at the time of Edward's abdication and the crisis leading up to it.]

Lloyd George Subpenaed.

Wormell said he was unable to learn whose order had barred the suit. Others who had been subpenaed as witnesses included David Lloyd George, prime minister during the world war, and Winston Churchill, veteran Conservative statesman.

Wormell also challenged the right of authorities to withhold the title of royal highness from the American born duchess of Windsor, the former Wallis Warfield.

ARREST HORLICK HEIR IN RACINE FOR AUTO CRASH

Racine, Wis., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—William Horlick Sidley, heir to the malted milk fortune left by his mother, Mrs. Mabelle Horlick Sidley, spent last night in jail after being arrested on a charge of driving when intoxicated. He was released this morning on $100 bond and his hearing set for Sept. 14.

With Sidley at the time of his arrest was Miss Ann Elson, 21 years old, a former Chicago night club entertainer. She was not held. Miss Elson and Sidley received minor cuts on their faces when the car in which they were riding struck another in downtown Racine.

Sidley, who is 26 years old, is contesting the will of his mother which left a third of her fortune to W. Perkins Bull, Toronto barrister, in whose home she died July 6 after living there for a year and a half.

CREDITS SAFETY DRIVE FOR DROP IN AUTO DEATHS

Eighty lives have been saved by Mayor Kelly's campaign to reduce the number of automobile accidents in Chicago, Deputy Vehicle Commissioner Edward J. Gorman said yesterday.

"Automobile deaths for the first six months of this year were reduced 22 per cent from those in the same period last year," he asserted. "There was a reduction of 15 per cent in all automobile accidents in the first half of 1938. Forcing motorists to have their cars tested at the safety lanes was one of the reasons for this improvement."

If 91,323 vehicles found defective since July 1, 77,680 were repaired and passed inspection on the second trip to the lanes. Summonses are now being issued at the rate of fifty a day to motorists without safety stickers.

1 KILLED, 2 HURT IN NORTH AVENUE AUTO COLLISION

Andrew Puraino, 32 years old, 12843 South Winchester avenue, Blue Island, was killed and two companions were injured yesterday in the collision of two automobiles at North avenue and River road. All are WPA workers. The injured are Orazio Muscolino, 1062 Polk street, the driver, and Tony Dalise, 2722 Congress street. Police said Muscolino failed to heed a stop sign and struck the car driven by Max Herwig, Villa Park. Herwig was not injured.

Leonard Cox, 8 years old, was killed when he ran into the side of an automobile in front of the Young school in Aurora. Miss Helen Schumacher of Aurora, the driver, was exonerated by a coroner's jury. The boy lived on a farm near Aurora.

Stanley Miller, 74 years old, died in the Belmont hospital of injuries suffered Sept. 1 when he was struck by an automobile near 4918 Cuyler avenue. He lived at 4951 Belle Plaine avenue. The driver was Dan Bowens, colored, of 1116 West 61st street.

Robert Dortsch, 61 years old, colored, of 4140 Prairie avenue, died of injuries suffered Tuesday in the collision of two cars near Lincoln, in Logan county. Three women were kiled and four other persons injured in the accident.

Four passengers were slightly injured and twenty others were shaken when a truck collided with an eastbound Grand avenue street car at Des Plaines street last night. Boots Galbraith of Burlington, Ia., the truck driver, was charged with intoxication and reckless driving.

Up to 4 p. m yesterday 547 persons were killed in automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 418 were killed in Chicago. In the same period 13,226 were injured in trafic accidents within the city.

FIND MOTORISTS MISS DEATH BY A SPLIT SECOND

Columbus, O., Sept. 7.—One-fifth of American drivers avoid risk of sudden death in head-on collision by less than one second. Swing music cuts down the production of American girl workers if played when they are on the job.

These two findings of psychological investigators were reported today at the annual meeting of the American Psychological association, which opened four days of sessions at Ohio State university.

The habit of 20 per cent of drivers on the open road on two-lane highways of allowing less than a second to clear an oncoming car was discovered with moving pictures taken from a moving car by T. W. Forbes and T. M. Matson of Yale university.

Swing music was tried in a manufacturing plant as an aid to work by John F. Humes of the University of Pennsylvania. The workers, mostly girls, spoiled more work and also made more protests against the kind of music when swing was on.

Body of Elderly Man Recovered from Lake

The body of an elderly man, who had been dead about a week, was taken from the lake at 46th street yesterday. In a pocket was a letter wrapped in heavy paper, in which were phrases concerning "shanghaiing" and protesting that eight terms in the Dunning State hospital were not justified. It was signed Charles G. Porter.

842 LOSE RIGHT TO DRIVE AUTOS IN EIGHT MONTHS

The Safety court suspended the driving privileges of 842 motorists in the first eight months of this year, officials announced yesterday. Some of the suspensions were for as long as one year. They were imposed upon 557 reckless drivers, 239 drunken drivers, 23 drivers found guilty of both drunken and reckless driving, and 23 who fled after accidents.

Three motorists were sentenced to jail yesterday by Judge Stephen Adamowski in Safety court for reckless driving. They are Louis Loperparo, 5226 South Long avenue, jailed for thirty days and his driving privilege suspended for one year; Albert Dallwig, 2848 North Richmond street, ten days and six months' suspension, and William McKinny, colored, of 1453 West 14th street, five days and six months' suspension. Anthony Ullenberg, 5025 Justine street, was fined $100 for driving while intoxicated. His driving privileges were suspended for six months. Robert Albrecht, 2544 George street, was fined $100 for leaving the scene of an accident.

DRIVER LICENSE BLANKS WILL BE READY IN WEEK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Application forms for drivers' licenses will be distributed next week, Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes said today.

The deadline for obtaining a license is next May 1. However, there is a consideration that will induce most of the 2,500,000 drivers in Illinois to obtain their identification cards promptly. Under the statute this card will serve as bail in all except the most serious cases under the motor vehicle code. The license fee is 50 cents for three years.

The application will be simple. Few will experience difficulty in obtaining a license. Few will be required to pass an examination. No test will be made of those who swear that they are physically and mentally fit, have a knowledge of the trafic laws, are able to read highway signs and signals, and have adequate driving experience.

BOY HATES TO GO TO SCHOOL; RUNS AWAY TO MISS IT

Evald Cartell didn't want to go to school. His father, Enoch, 5125 North Clark street, insisted. So Tuesday morning Evald, who is 13 years old, went to the Trumbull school and started in grade 7-B, but still unwillingly.

In the afternoon he started back, but didn't get there. School authorities asked his brother, John, who is younger, where he was. John didn't know. A third brother, in Senn High school, didn't, either.

And last night Evald still hadn't come home. His frantic father went to all the boy's friends. They hadn't seen him. The family has no relatives in the United States. The police have been asked to search for him.

Organization of a Chicago unit of the National Consumers' Tax commission, which is described as an association of housewives to crusade against hidden taxes, will begin soon. This was announced yesterday from the commission's headquarters at 310 South Michigan avenue. Mrs. Franklin M. Miller will be national committee member from Illinois. Housewives will be directed in making surveys to discover what percentage of the price of dresses, coal, and other products they buy represents taxes. Women in twenty-eight states are organizing, the headquarters announced.

BRITISH DEBT HITS 40 BILLIONS FOR ALL TIME RECORD

LONDON, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Britain's national debt, it was disclosed today, has passed the £8,000,000,000 [about $40,000,000,000] mark for the first time in history. A government white paper showed the total debt outstanding on March 31 was £8,026,143,422, an increase of £228,913,878 [about $1,144,599,390] over a year ago. Since 1919, Britain's debt had fluctuated around £7,000,000,000, but rearmament expanded government expenditures.

Chicago will be a mighty nice place to live in next week. Nicer than usual. The city will be filled with Apollos and Venuses. There'll be enough charm and loveliness for all. That's the object, anyway. It's going to be Beauty week. The city council so decreed yesterday.

EXPECT SHAKEUP OF JAP ENVOYS IN EUROPEAN POSTS

TOKIO, Sept. 8 [Thursday].—(AP)—An extensive shake-up in Japan's diplomatic circles, affecting ambassadors to Rome, Berlin, Moscow, and London, was predicted in informed quarters today. Definite indications were lacking of rumors that Ambassador Hiroshi Saito would be recalled from Washington, D. C.

It was said in authoritative quarters that Mamoru Shigemitsu, ambassador to Moscow, would be appointed to London as a reward for his part in effecting the Changkufeng truce in the Manchukuo-Siberian border affair. Ambassador Shigeru Yoshida was expected to be recalled to Tokio from London.

Shigenori Togo, ambassador to Berlin, is reported going to Moscow, and the fiery Toshio Shiratori, a staunch believer in totalitarianism, is reported slated for Rome. The present envoy to Rome, Masaaki Hotta, is expected to return to Tokio. Lieut. Gen. Matahiko Oshima, military attaché in Berlin, is slated to succeed Togo. The moves are expected to strengthen Tokio-Rome-Berlin pacts.

ACCUSE MOVIES OF UNION BRIBE; CHARGE DENIED

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Charges were made before the NLRB today by Jeff Kibre, chairman of a film technicians' committee, that Joseph M. Schenck, president of the Association of Motion Picture Producers, Inc., paid a $100,000 bribe to a union official to prevent 12,000 movie employés from organizing for collective bargaining.

The complaint, filed with Dr. Towne Nylander, NLRB, regional director, charged Schenck paid the $100,000 to William Bioff, studio labor official. Bioff, from Jan. 2, 1936, and until recently was personal representative of George Browne, president of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employés.

Pat Casey, labor contract man for the producers, described Kibre's charges as ridiculous. "The whole thing is silly on the face of it," Casey said, "because we are constantly dealing with questions pertaining to wages and other matters with unions."

MORE AAA CASH READY IF NEEDED TO PEG BUTTER

Policy Announced as Prices Break.

After another break in butter prices in Chicago yesterday the Agricultural Adjustment administration announced in Washington, D. C., that it is prepared to make available more money if necessary to stabilize the market.

H. R. Tolley, AAA administrator, tells butter policy.

The government since June 16 has advanced $33,375,000 to the Dairy Products Marketing association, a producers' coöperative to purchase surplus butter. In addition the government has purchased 10 million pounds from the association for distribution to families on relief.

In Washington H. R. Tolley, AAA administrator, expressed confidence that the operations of the coöperative agency would prevent "a serious collapse" in prices. However, he added that, if it becomes necessary, the AAA will authorize the DPMA to expand its buying program. He said the government is prepared to pursue the butter stabilization program throughout the year.

Price Slumps ⅝ Cent.

Quotations on butter for future deliverly slumped ⅝ cent a pound on the Chicago Mercantile exchange after it became known that the government financed coöperative had cut its buying price on 89 score butter ¾ cent a pound.

The ¾ cent reduction by the DPMA brought its price on this grade of butter down to 23¾ cents in the Chicago market and 24½ cents in New York. The cut was intended, traders believed, to discourage withdrawal of storage stocks of butter. Butter has been moving out of storage in larger volume than usual because of the government's buying.

Large holders of butter who had hedged their inventories by sales in the futures market earlier in the year are now able to close out at a profit by selling their supplies to the government's agency. Butter prices in the cash market are commanding a premium over future market quotations. This permits the sale of cash holdings and retirement of future hedges at a profit to the holders.

Buys 2,700,000 Pounds More.

The government financed agency bought 2,700,000 pounds in the open market yesterday. These purchases brought the total acquired since last June to nearly 82,000,000 pounds. The DPMA has authority to buy up to 115,000,000 pounds of butter to rid the market of excess supplies, an authorization that may be enlarged under the policy explained in Washington yesterday.

Traders offered butter freely in the futures market after the DPMA lowered its peg price on 89 score butter. The move inspired belief that the agency was retreating on its original stabilization program. It was not until after the close of the market that AAA issued its statement in Washington.

Closes Slightly Above Day's Low.

The final quotation on butter for delivery in November was only ⅛ cent above the low price of the day. It closed at 23¾ cents a pound compared with 24⅝ cents on the preceding day.

Egg contracts weakened after rising to new highs for the season on the preceding day. Closing prices yesterday were unchanged to ¼ cent a dozen lower. October eggs closed at 24⅞ cents a dozen.

Transactions in butter futures totaled 86 cars. Total sales of eggs amounted to 442 cars.

GREYHOUND BUS LINES WILL TRY DE LUXE SERVICE

The Greyhound Bus Lines yesterday announced an experimental de luxe bus service between Detroit and Charleston, W. Va., to begin Sept. 10. New air conditioned coaches have been built for the experiment.

The new coaches will seat 23 passengers, instead of the usual 37. Some space was sacrificed to make room for the parlor car type chairs, which are eight inches wider than the present seats. Hostesses will serve free lunches to passengers. Each coach has a rest room.

The ten hour trip between Detroit and Charleston will be made over a route closely paralleling the rail service now offered by the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad. Company officials yesterday said the new buses will replace present coaches on important lines if the experiment proves successful.

Rail Workers Total 915,088 in June; Below Year Ago

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission reported today that the nation's 141 class one steam railways had 915,088 employés and a pay roll of $140,391,948 in June, compared with 1,171,683 employés and a pay roll of $167,925,718 in June, 1937. In May, 1938, the carriers had 905,573 employés and a pay roll of $138,698,266. The 1938 high was January when there were 959,391 employés and a pay roll of $148,253,144.

LOOP BANKS REDUCE INTEREST RATE PAID TO CITY ON DEPOSITS

The city council finance committee was notified yesterday that the loop banks have reduced the interest on the city's time deposits from 3-16th per cent to ⅛ per cent. Bank officials said the present return on investment of funds held in time deposits does not permit payment of the higher rate.

Chicago has on deposit in several loop banks a total of approximately $15,000,000 for retirement of its bonds and payment of interest. This money will not be needed until the end of the year.

Over a twelve month period reduction of the interest by 1-16th per cent would result in a loss of about $94,000 to the city on a $15,000,000 deposit. Ald. J. M. Arvey [24th] said he will confer with Controler Upham on the advisability of using this money in the future to buy short term federal notes paying more interest than that now offered by the banks.

MIXUP ON BONDS OF NICKEL PLATE TERMED 'ERROR'

New York, Sept. 7.—(AP)—George D. Brooke, president of the Nickel Plate railroad, told officials of the New York stock exchange today an office "error" was responsible for the recent mixup and confusion over the road's intentions in regard to the Sept. 1 interest payment on a bond issue.

Announcement by the Nickel Plate management that interest on the "C" 4½ per cent bonds of 1978 would be deferred came unexpectedly a week ago. Early in August a routine notice from the Cleveland headquarters said the interest would be paid.

The default notice caused a wide break in Nickel Plate issues.

After Brooke's meeting with the committee the stock exchange issued a statement which said that he had explained that the treasurer of the company sent the original notice "as a matter of routine" without Brooke's knowledge.

AAA ANNOUNCES DAILY SUBSIDY ON FLOUR EXPORTS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—(AP)—The agriculture department, starting today its subsidy program for flour sold in export, announced a 30 cent a barrel payment.

The 30 cent figure will prevail until 2 p. m., eastern standard time, tomorrow. New rates will be announced for each day the subsidy payment is effective and until 5,000,000 barrels have been sold in foreign markets, officials said. Rates announced on Fridays, however, will prevail for the following Saturday.

The wheat flour subsidies are part of a general program to subsidize the export of 100,000,000 bushels of surplus wheat in this marketing year. Under it, the government buys grain at current domestic prices and sells it to exporters at prices enabling them to put it into competition with foreign grown wheat.

Chicago Stock Market Delays Paid President

The Chicago Stock Exchange will continue for the present to operate without a salaried nonmember president. This was decided yesterday by the board of governors. The board unanimously adopted the report of a special committee appointed to study selection of a president and the internal organization of the exchange.

K. L. Smith named vice president of exchange.

Arthur M. Betts, president protem and chairman of the board of governors, will continue to serve without compensation as chief executive officer of the exchange. In addition to recommending that Betts retain his present status, the committee proposed a number of promotions and changes in positions held by present staf members. The changes were approved by the governors.

Call Staf Adequate.

The committe said in its report that the condition of the exchange did not warant any increase in overhead expense at this time. It said also that the present staf was adequate for efficient functioning of the exchange.

Kenneth L. Smith, acting secretary, was named vice president under the new arrangement. Sidney L. Parry, assistant to the president, became an assistant vice president, and C. R. Bergherm, chief auditor, became an assistant vice president.

Hawes Becomes Secretary.

Walter R. Hawes, assistant secretary and floor manager, became secretary. Martin E. Nelson, assistant treasurer, was made treasurer. Charles F. Duvall and Carl E. Ogren were made assistant secretaries.

Members of the special committee were Betts, John J. Bryant Jr., Michael J. O'Brien, and Paul B. Skinner. When first appointed, the committee was commissioned to make recommendations for appointment of a president. Subsequently, it was also commissioned to study the internal organization of the exchange.

UTILITY ASKS SEC ARBITRATE IN SALE TO TVA

New York, Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Wendell L. Willkie, president of Commonwealth and Southern corporation, has asked that the Securities and Exchange commission be named arbitrator to determine a fair price on the company's properties.

Willkie revealed in a letter to L. J. Wilhoite, acting chairman of the electric power board of Chattanooga, that Commonwealth and Southern and the Tennessee Valley authority had agreed on all points of the proposed sale of certain electric properties to TVA except the price.

Two earlier proposals to arbitrate the dispute were rejected by TVA, Willkie said. No decision has been announced yet on the proposal that the SEC act as arbitrator.

The letter was in reply to the Chattanooga board's demand for an answer to an offer to purchase the distribution system of the Tennessee Electric Power company in Chattanooga. The company is a subsidiary of Commonwealth and Southern corporation.

STOCKS MOUNT ON NEW PEACE MOVE IN EUROPE

Buying Flurry Comes Near End of Day.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 7.—Stock market prices gained fractions to more than 2 points today. Buying was stimulated by reports that the Sudeten German leader had accepted the Prague proposals as a basis for negotiating the disputed minorities problem.

The buying flurry appeared during the fourth hour and followed a generally inactive session up to that time. After the best gains were chalked up, the list again turned dull and prices were shaded. At the height of demand the ticker was forced some two minutes behind actual trading.

Volume reached 892,460 shares, compared with 414,560 shares on Tuesday. In all, 726 issues were traded, with 468 closing higher, 115 lower, and 143 unchanged.

Industrials Make Best Gains.

The support came principally from domestic sources, it was reported, as the time element prevented European traders from taking part in the New York trading.

Although all groups benefited, key industrial stocks showed the best gains. As a result the Dow-Jones average for thirty representative industrials jumped 1.61 to 143.08. Stocks in this category were also aided by continuing better business news.

Motor, steel, copper, and rubber issues were prominent in the upturn. Issues to advance 1 to around two points included United States Steel, Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, United States Rubber, International Nickel, Goodyear, Westinghouse, Case Threshing, and du Pont. Slightly smaller gains were registered by kindred issues.

Electric Autolite Rises.

In the auto accessory group, Electric Autolite was prominent, jumping two points in good demand.

Santa Fe was a big gainer in a higher carrier group. That stock advanced 1⅝ points. Gains of not quite 1 point were made by Southern Pacific, New York Central, Illinois Central, and Pennsylvania.

Power and light shares closed with gains and losses about equally divided.

Active aviation and oil stocks were brought into line with the main body of shares. Gains in these groups ranged from fractions to one point or so.

FOREIGN MONEYS RALLY; PRICE OF GOLD DECLINES

European currencies were steadier in exchange transactions yesterday. British and French currencies closed higher in terms of American money and the price of gold fell in London.

The pound closed ¾ cent higher at $4.82⅞. The franc rose 0.00375 cent to 2.7075 cents. Netherlands guilders were steady and Belgian currency declined slightly.

Gold was quoted at 144 shillings 1 pence an ounce in London, or 1½ pence [about 3 cents] below Tuesday's price. The London quotation was equivalent to $34.77.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York reported engagement in England of $5,913,000 in gold for shipment to this country.

Paul Sifton Named Deputy Wage-Hour Administrator

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Elmer F. Andrews, wage-hour administrator, today appointed Paul Sifton, former New York state labor department official, to be deputy administrator. Andrews said the regional setup of his organization probably would be patterned after that of the social security board. He said he had approved tentatively the idea of setting up twelve regional offices.

Revival Hits Steady Stride, Roper Asserts

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—Secretary of Commerce Daniel G. Roper said today that "steady processes of recovery are continuing." He said that recovery has been evident since mid-June.

At the same time Roper said he has not received any invitations for the department to participate in conferences of small business men. But the department, he asserted, has devoted considerable time to helping small businesses.

The plan for establishing twelve regional credit banks to furnish capital at favorable terms to small business men has not been dropped, he said. This proposal was made in congress at the last session by Senator Claude Pepper [D., Fla.].

Will Coöperate with RFC.

"We have participated in some studies along this line with the treasury department and the Reconstruction Finance corporation," Roper said. "Anything we do will be in coöperation with these agencies. The subject of finding a proper procedure to help them is definitly on our minds."

In continuing his optimistic comments on business conditions, the secretary declined to predict the immediate future, but said prospects are favorable.

"We are not yet quite far enough removed from the summer and not far enough advanced into the fall season to assess definitly what lies immediately ahead," Roper said. "However, desultory reports since the Labor day holiday show gradual improvement of activities in retail trade.

July Trade Holds Well.

"Retail trade reports indicate that sales of general merchandise did not experience the usual contractions in July; in August they improved, but the gain was less than that usually recorded."

Roper said a feeling of optimism prevails throughout the steel industry because the production rate has reached 47 per cent of plant capacity, representing the highest rate since the week of Nov. 1, 1937, when the figure was 48.6 per cent.

"Although nervousness still prevails over the possibility of a war in Europe, the feeling that peace will prevail is gaining ground, which will have a stabilizing effect on American business," Roper asserted.

The secretary said that during August the department's seasonally corrected index of industrial output continued to advance, following an increase of 8 per cent in July.

MICHIGAN ASKS SHIP MONOPOLY BE HELD ILLEGAL

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Michigan's legal forces prepared today to join other Great Lakes states in an effort to invalidate shipping contracts of the North Atlantic Shipping conference. The contracts, it is charged, are designed to curb aspirations of Great Lakes cities to become important seaports in the event of completion of the St. Lawrence waterway.

Raymond W. Starr, attorney general, petitioned the United States maritime commission, to declare the contracts illegal on the ground that they interfere with free competition and development of foreign trade.

Starr contends, with the attorneys general of Ohio, Indiana, and Wisconsin, that the conference, including all important steamship lines plying the North Atlantic, requires in its contracts a transfer of shipments at the Atlantic seaboard. Great Lakes lines are required to guarantee they will handle only the freight of conference members in order to have their Europe-bound freight handled by the leading Atlantic lines.

Such a contract, he maintains, unnecessarily increases freight costs and would be disastrous to midwestern interests if the waterway project is completed.

U. S. WILL SELL OVER BILLION OF NEW SECURITIES

Seeks 700 Millions for Spending.

BY JOHN FISHER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. today announced the offering of $1,333,460,900 worth of bonds and notes for sale. Of this amount 700 million dollars represents the borrowing of new money by the treasury and the rest represents the refinancing of treasury notes maturing Dec. 15.

Secretary Morgenthau.

Today's announcement represents the first big step in the treasury's plan of financing the vast spending program voted by congress at the last session.

The disclosure that 700 million dollars of additional funds would be sought was a surprise. It is about 200 million dollars more than most financial observers had believed would be necessary for the quarter beginning Sept. 15.

Couple Spending with Elections.

It emphasizes, according to observers here, the administration's determination to grease palms well in its spending jamboree prior to elections. The new funds will be used to meet the administration's new spending-lending program. The borrowing will raise the national debt to a new high of 38 billion, 300 million dollars.

Morgenthau at the same time boosted the treasury's estimate on new financing for the current fiscal year by 100 million dollars. Previously, it was estimated that 2 billions would be required. Morgenthau said today that the September financing represents about one-third of the needs for the fiscal year, which would place the total at 2 billion, 100 million dollars.

Will Issue Bonds and Notes.

The new financing consists of 400 million dollars in 12-14 year 2½ per cent treasury bonds of 1950-'52, and 300 million in 1⅛ per cent treasury notes of series A 1943, due June 15, 1943, at par and accrued interest from June 15, 1938.

At the same time the holders of $433,460,900 in 1¼ per cent treasury notes of series E-1938, maturing on Dec. 15, are offered the privilege of exchanging the maturing notes either for the new bonds or notes. The exchange will be made on a par for par basis, with an adjustment of accrued interest as of Sept. 15.

"Those who decide to convert will get 1¼ per cent interest up to Dec. 15 and interest on new bonds or notes after Dec. 15," Morgenthau explained. He said that in reality the 1⅛ per cent 5-year notes provide merely for reopening the books on an issue of the same rate offered last June for refunding operations.

Holders Can Take Cash.

The holders of Dec. 15 maturities who do not wish to convert them now will be paid off in cash at maturity, the secretary said, this being the only exchange offer.

Asked why he was building up the working balance so steeply—it now

Commodities

Most commodity future and cash markets advanced yesterday, except metals. Nonferrous metals were mixed, with copper and lead higher while tin and zinc prices declined. Cottonseed oil, hides and rubber made the best gains.

Cottonseed oil contracts rose 0.14 to 0.21 cent a pound in the New York futures market. An active turnover was induced by strength in cotton and the sharp rally in lard prices. Lard closed 12 to 17 cents a hundred pounds higher on the Chicago Board of Trade after first sinking to a new low.

Hide markets were strong. New York futures closed up 0.09 to 0.18 cent a pound.

Crude rubber futures rose sharply and retained about half their gains, closing 0.01 to 0.12 cent higher. Smoked ribbed sheet rubber advanced to 16.20 cents a pound in the spot market from 16.12½ cents Tuesday.

Copper futures closed 0.07 to 0.10 cent higher. The export price was steady at 10.25 cents a pound, and the domestic cash price for immediate delivery was unchanged at 10.12½ cents.

Lead futures advanced 0.01 to 0.03 cent on reports from London of a move to restrict output by leading world producers. Lead rose sharply in the London metal market, but all other metals there were weak.

Four dividends were declared yesterday on the capital stock of the William Wrigley Jr. company, chewing gun manufacturer. Directors of the corporation ordered payment of three regular monthly dividends of 25 cents a share, and in addition voted an extra dividend of 25 cents a share on the stock.

The extra payment will be made Oct. 1 to stockholders of record Sept. 20. The regular monthly payments are due Nov. 1, Dec. 1, and Jan. 3 to holders of record Sept. 20, Nov. 20, and Dec. 20. Similar payments were made in preceding months. In December of last year the corporation ordered an extra payment of 25 cents a share. During 1937 a total of $1.25 was paid in extras.

The payment, the first this year on the stock, will be made Oct. 5 on stock of record Sept. 20. The previous payment was 50 cents a share Dec. 20, 1937. Directors of the company also declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.25 a share on the preferred stock, payable on the same date.

Two companies ordered increased payments yesterday. The Victor Chemical works, a Chicago company, declared a dividend of 20 cents a share, payable Sept. 30. In the June quarter the company paid 15 cents.

The other increase was on the common stock of the Deisel-Wemmer-Gilbert corporation, Ohio cigar company. A dividend of 35 cents a share was ordered paid Sept. 24. On June 25 the company paid 20 cents a share.

Business Cycles—III.

Business cycle theories based on institutional processes were classified further by Mitchell into several groups. One of the largest groups includes cycles arising from the functioning of existing institutions.

According to Mitchell, cycles of this type arise from the technical exigencies of money making; from lack of equilibrium in the processes of disbursing and spending incomes and of producing values; from lack of equilbrium in the process of producing and consuming goods in general; from lack of equilibrium in the process of consuming, saving, and investing capital in new construction, and from the processes of banking.

Cycles arising from the functioning of existing institutions and persons who first stated the theories are:

1. Fluctuations in prospective profits cause fluctuations in business capitalization and confidence; the latter in turn give rise to new fluctuations in prospective profits. [Thorstein Veblen, Jean Lescure.]

2. The nature of money economy leads to fluctuations in mercantile orders, manufacturing, and the production of raw materials which are progressively larger than the fluctuations in consumers' purchases, upon which business depends, directly or indirectly, for its market. [Henry S. Dennison, Lawrence K. Frank, Simon S. Kuznets.]

3. The reason the fluctuations mentioned above grow wide as one passes from consumer demand toward the production of raw materials lies in the competitive illusion to which our business system gives rise. [Thomas W. Mitchell.]

Wheat Rallies After Fall to New Lows on Less War Fear

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES

Closing prices on the December delivery of principal grains on the Chicago Board of Trade follow:

	Yesterday.	Tuesday.	Year ago.
Wheat	$ .62⅝	$ .62	$1.10
Corn	.48¾	.48	.63¾
Oats	.24½	.24¼	.30⅝
Rye	.40⅞	.40¼	.80⅞
Soy beans	.75⅛	.75⅝	1.02⅛

North American wheat markets staged a strong rally in the late trading yesterday. Recovery took place after an early decline had carried all deliveries on the Chicago Board of Trade to new low levels for the season.

More favorable political news from central Europe and the upturn in securities were the main influences in causing the rally in wheat. Closing trades on futures were about the high point of the day. Net gains on the Chicago Board of Trade were ½ to ⅞ cent. Other North American markets were ⅛ to 1¾ cents a bushel higher, with Winnipeg leading the advance.

First Rally in Five Days.

Yesterday's rally in American wheat markets was the first in five days. The upturn in Winnipeg marked the culmination of an eight day decline which had carried the October contract down 9½ cents a bushel.

Corn and rye futures closed ⅝ to ¾ cent higher. Soy beans were ½ to ¾ cent a bushel lower, with all deliveries at new low prices for the season.

The trade had numerous intimations yesterday that both the American and Canadian governments would shortly announce changes in their wheat export subsidy programs. Since Washington announced its subsidy program on Aug. 26 less than 2,000,000 bushels of wheat have been sold to exporters. In the meantime, prices in Liverpool and Buenos Aires have declined about 10 cents a bushel.

Corn Recovers Early Loss.

Corn again showed stubborn resistance to selling pressure and rallied quickly after a small decline early. Closing trades were ⅝ to ¾ cent a bushel higher. Part of the strength was regarded as resulting from short covering and evening up for the department of agriculture crop estimate, which will be issued tomorrow afternoon. The report is expected to show a reduction from the indicated yield of 2,566,000,000 bushels a month ago.

Some buying of corn futures was attributed to the weather bureau's weekly crop summary. The summary indicated that recent rains came too late to benefit the crop materially.

LEAD PRODUCERS WILL ORGANIZE TO RULE OUTPUT

LONDON, Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Producers controling about 75 per cent of the world lead output outside the United States will form an association to control production, it was reported here today. Details of the program were not made known, but apparently it would be similar to the copper restriction plan.

The Financial Times estimated that a voluntary cut of between 5 and 10 per cent of present lead production would be sufficient to balance supply and demand.

The softball championship of the La Salle street and Wall street financial districts will be decided in New York tomorrow night. The Lamson Bros. team, Chicago victors, will meet the New York Curb exchange squad, which won the eastern tournament. The Lamson Brothers team will leave for the east this afternoon accompanied by heads of the La Salle Street Cashiers' association, which sponsored the Chicago tourney.

BEST OF STEERS REACH HIGHEST PRICE OF YEAR

Top steers soared to a new 1938 peak of $13.35 in yesterday's active market for better grades of cattle. They were relatively higher than all other classes of live stock. This price was $4.20 above the hog top and $4.60 over the top sale of lambs.

Despite the new high rates for the best cattle, these kinds met the strongest demand at strong to 15 cents higher prices. Short fed and grassy stock sold slowly at little change in price.

Steady to 15 cents higher prices bought the majority of hogs. The heaviest of the butchers and packing sows gained most. The latter in spots were 25 cents higher, comparing extremes.

Practically no price changes occurred in sheep and lambs. Top slaughter lambs held steady at $8.75.

COTTON

Prices of cotton futures were higher in American markets yesterday. Mills were good buyers of October and December contracts, more than offsetting the effect of hedge selling. Closing trades were at net gains of .08 to .14 cent a pound.

The trade expects the department of agriculture crop estimate, which will be issued today, to show around 12,400,000 bales.

Spot cotton closed .08 to .10 cent higher, with New Orleans, 8.12 cents; New York, 8.18 cents; Galveston, 8.01 cents, and Houston, 8.06 cents a pound. Prices follow:

CORN MATURES RAPIDLY; SOUTH IS HARVESTING

Crop Safe from Frost in About Two Weeks.

The corn crop generally made rapid progress toward maturity during the last week and harvesting of the early planted grain is under way in parts of the southwest. The bulk of the crop, according to the weather bureau weekly summary, will be safe from frost damage in nearly all sections within about two weeks, although some will require until about the end of September. Much corn has been put into silos. Rain in the last week came too late to benefit any except the latest corn.

Drouth was relieved in the last week in parts of the agricultural regions, but conditions continue to be too dry in much of the northern plains area and parts of the extreme east.

Begin Planting Winter Wheat.

Seeding of winter wheat and rye has started in parts of the plains area, Minnesota, and Wisconsin. Sowing of wheat will soon be general in western Kansas and much of Oklahoma.

Rainfall [in inches] for the week ending Sept. 6, and from April 1 to Sept. 6, as reported by the weather bureau, follows:

Crop Conditions Estimated.

Crop conditions in leading agricultural states as reported by the weather bureau follow:

ILLINOIS—Condition and progress of corn generally fair to very good, except for deterioration in a few central and south central areas. Rain came too late to be most effective in the drier central areas. Silage cutting under way. Bulk of corn will be safe from frost in two or three weeks.

IOWA—Corn made rapid progress toward maturity; some premature ripening in many scattered localities. Yield cut in half in some extreme western localities. About 50 per cent of state promises good to excellent yields. About 16 per cent of crop safe from frost Sept. 1, and with normal weather 45 per cent safe by Sept. 15 and 78 per cent by Sept. 30.

Indiana Crops Maturing.

INDIANA—Corn and soy beans matured rapidly. Condition of corn fair to good; will be safe from frost in about two or three weeks. Soy beans being cut. Corn cutting and silo filling just started.

OHIO—Early corn mostly matured; some being cut. Late crop ripening prematurely; some firing reported. Rain badly needed.

MISSOURI—Corn fair to good, except in southwest, where it is mostly ruined by prolonged dry weather.

KANSAS—Soil generally in good condition for sowing winter wheat, which has begun over western half. Much corn cut for silage and fodder.

NEBRASKA — Moderate to heavy rains benefitted pastures, sorghums, and some late corn. Soil in good condition. Seeding of winter wheat and rye started.

MICHIGAN — Corn still growing; some beyond frost danger. Most potatoes green. Bean harvest started. Ground being prepared for wheat.

Wisconsin Weather Cool.

WISCONSIN—Weather too cool for corn; some ripe, but most needs two or three weeks to escape frost damage; considerable silo filling. Potatoes good to excellent; some harvested.

MINNESOTA—Drouth relieved except in lower Red river valley. Corn maturing rapidly; needs two weeks of favorable weather; silo filling in progress. Late potatoes fair to good.

MONTANA—Winter wheat seeding and fall plowing under way locally; helped by rains. Still too dry in northwest. Corn maturing rapidly.

U. S. WILL SELL OVER BILLION OF NEW SECURITIES

Seeks 700 Million for Spending Program.

amounts to 1 billion, 600 million dollars, against an average of about 1 billion—Morgenthau said:

"There is a need for getting extra money between now and next year. Therefore, we are taking advantage of getting cash now. We do not want to raise all of the money at one time, so we are raising 700 million dollars in cash now. This is approximately one-third of our needs for the year.

"The working balance will for a time be bigger but as we approach Dec. 15 it will run off considerably."

Heavy Spending Next Quarter.

This was interpreted as another indication that pressure on spending for the current year will be centered on the next quarter, which also covers the general elections, calling for increased leverage on pump priming.

The secretary said that on Sept. 15 interest of 155 million dollars and maturing 2½ per cent notes of 18 million will be met out of the cash fund. There will be no other maturities other than 90 day bills until Dec. 15.

Morgenthau said he had nothing to say on future offerings of short term bills, which are now offered at the rate of 100 million dollars weekly. He said the treasury considers the cost of these bills very reasonable. It has been calculated that the 1 billion 300 millions in treasury bills now outstanding at an average rate of 0.05 of 1 per cent costs the country only $650,000 in interest a year, Morgenthau said.

Asked Effect on Banks.

Asked concerning the effect of these low rate bills on the banks that take them, he said: "I think it's quite remarkable the way all the banks are paying dividends and covering them. As far as I notice, the banks keep on paying their dividends and keep them well covered."

"I am not saying anything on the financing program beyond this," he said in reply to a question on future plans. "I don't want to leave the impression, however, that I have something else back of this."

There will be no change, he said, in the policy of letting gold accumulate in the general fund. The current financing, Morgenthau pointed out, is in no way connected with any international situation. He gave an emphatic "no" to this query.

Details on New Issues.

Details on the new bonds and notes, offered for subscription tomorrow, through the federal reserve banks, say that the bonds will be dated Sept. 15, 1938, and will bear interest from that date at the rate of 2½ per cent, payment to be made semi-annually.

The bonds will be issued in denominations from $50 to $100,000. They will mature Sept. 15, 1952, but may be redeemed at the option of the government on and after Sept. 15, 1950.

The treasury 1⅛ per cent notes are identical with those offered on June 6 in exchange for 1 billion 214 million in treasury notes maturing in June and September. They bear a new low rate for notes of this type. They will be issued in denominations of $100 to $100,000, with interest coupons attached. Interest will be payable semi-annually. They will mature June 15, 1943, and are not subject to redemption prior to maturity.

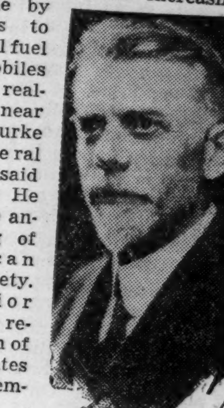
CROPS AS SOURCE FOR MOTOR FUEL HELD TOO COSTLY

Won't Aid Farmer in Near Future, Says Chemist.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Popular hopes of increasing farm income by using crops to make alcohol fuel for automobiles will not be realized in the near future, Dr. Burke Jacobs, federal chemist, said here tonight. He addressed the annual meeting of the American Chemists society. He is senior chemist of the research division of the United States Bureau of Chemistry.



Prof. C. A. Kraus, who says Germany lacks many war materials.

Dr. Jacobs said the process of making alcohol to supplement gasoline has been worked out, but will not be practical until petroleum prices become relatively higher than they are now. When that time comes, he said, surplus or cull products of the farm may then raise the farmers' income and also help conserve petroleum resources.

Calls Costs Prohibitive.

"Under present conditions," said Dr. Jacobs, "if high prices are paid to the farmer for alcohol materials, the high cost of the alcohol makes its use impractical. Any increase in farm income from the use of products in alcohol fuels must come from the portion of the crop now unuseable which could be used industrially without disturbance to the price structure."

Another potential field for increase in farm income which Dr. Jacobs foresees is the use of materials such as corn stalks, straw, corn cobs, hulls and shells. "These are produced annually in vast quantities and are largely wasted," he said.

Discuss Chemists and War.

The place of the chemist in event of war drew the attention of several speakers. The view of most was that the United States is practically self sufficient in any emergency.

Dr. Harrison E. Howe, editor of the Journal of Industrial and Engineering Chemistry, discounted Germany's claim of self sufficiency. "While Germany has done remarkable things in its four year plan," he said, "results to date do not provide an adequate foundation to support the bluff of self-sufficiency."

Prof. Charles A. Kraus of Brown university, president elect of the society, expressed doubt that any nation is completely self sufficient in all materials needed for a long continued war. "Germany is among those seriously lacking many essentials," he said. "Certain of the metals, such as tungsten and molybdenum, cannot be made synthetically."

Union Representatives Ratify Truck Line Pact

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Farrell Dobbs of Minneapolis, Minn., official of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and Chauffeurs said today union representatives had ratified an agreement with operations of truck lines in thirteen mid-west states. Approximately 70 per cent of the 3,000 operators in the area and all Chicago operators he said agreed to terms of the agreement reached Aug. 31 at Chicago. The agreement calls for wage rates of 2¾ cents a mile for trips and 75 cents an hour while the drivers are picking up and delivering.

CALIFORNIA HIT IN FINANCING BY PENSION SCHEME

Interest Rate Is Doubled on New Warants.

The state of California yesterday sold a $2,000,000 issue of registered warants at an interest rate of 2 per cent. The rate is double that which the state is paying on similar warants sold a few weeks ago.

Market prices of the bonds of the state and its political subdivisions have developed weakness since the nomination for the United States senate on the Democratic ticket of Sheridan Downey. Downey ran on a platform calling for distribution of weekly pensions of $30 in scrip to all persons over 50 years of age.

Only One Bid Submitted.

The California warant issue was purchased by the Bank of America, which submitted the only offer. The bank paid a premium of $4,661 at the 2 per cent rate. On Aug. 12 the state sold a $2,826,182 issue of similar warants at an interest rate of ¾ of 1 per cent and a premium of $449.

Public offering is being made today of the $30,000,000 issue of 4 per cent debentures of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company at par and accrued interest. The company will use most of the money to enlarge and improve its Indiana Harbor plant, with the balance to finance other improvements and pay off existing indebtedness. Kuhn Loeb & Co. and Smith Barney & Co. head the syndicate which is underwriting the issue.

Mead Corporation Borrows.

The Mead corporation has borrowed $1,250,000 from the First National Bank of Chicago. The loan matures in semi-annual instalments from March 21, 1939 to Sept. 21, 1942. The loan was made on collateral promissory notes secured by the corporation's first mortgage bonds, Series B of 1945.

The Reynolds Metals company yesterday notified the Securities and Exchange commission that it has entered into an agreement to borrow $2,500,000 from the Bank of Manhattan and the Society for Savings, Cleveland, O. The money will be used to pay off $1,780,000 of outstanding 2½ per cent bearer notes and $280,000 of bank loans.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

by HOMER NEISZ

The Leaves Turn.

Sept. 7, 1938.

FALL colors are appearing in the woods on the Du Page county farm. There is plenty of moisture, no excessive heat, and there has been no frost, yet the leaves are turning. Some of the oak, hickory, walnut, elm, white ash, and crab apple leaves are coloring and a few already have fallen. Virginia creeper vines are showing a reddish tint. Leaves on gray dogwood trees began turning purple more than a week ago.

Relatively high temperatures during much of August are thought to have hastened the ripening of the leaves. According to official figures from the weather bureau, the daily average temperature for August in Chicago was nearly 3.5 degrees above normal.

Some of the trees have been affected by fungus diseases. Twig borers, caterpillars, and sucking insects have damaged some. Early coloration of the leaves in some cases has been due to injury by these insects and diseases.

Time Varies.

Dr. George D. Fuller, professor emeritus of ecology of the botany department, University of Chicago, says that leaves on some trees always begin changing color earlier than others, even when the trees are in healthy condition. He has observed that there often is a difference of several days in the start of fall color changes in healthy trees of the same species, standing side by side.

Botanists say that the coloring of leaves with the approach of fall is a natural process and that it does not depend upon frost as is often believed. They point out that the bright colors of fall landscapes result from ripening foliage. The most beautiful coloring is found in seasons when killing frosts are delayed until after the foliage has matured. The ripening process is most perfect when not too greatly hastened by cool weather. A heavy early frost kills the leaves and tends to turn them all a dull, monotonous brown. Natural autumn colors are formed by combinations of pigments that undergo changes in color and composition as the leaves ripen.

Trees shed their leaves much earlier some years than others. Most of the trees at the farm sometimes are bare early in September. But in 1936 nearly all the leaves were green until late in October and some did not begin turning until about the middle of November.

A Natural Process.

Botanists explain that the shedding of leaves is a natural process that is brought about by the formation of a layer of corky cells near the base of the leaf stem. This layer prevents supplies of water from passing through the stem to the leaf, causing the leaf gradually to dry up. Then the corky layer breaks and the leaf falls. It is nature's means of getting rid of the leaves at the end of the growing season when their work of manufacturing food for the plant has been finished.

The normal process of leaf fall, like leaf coloring, may be interfered with by an early frost. If frost kills the leaf before the corky layer of cells at the base of the stem is formed, the leaf is likely to hang on the tree much longer than it would if allowed to ripen naturally.
